LINER SAVES 175 ON SINKING SHIP AS SEA POURS IN Crew Stays Aboard Manning Pumps.

BULLETIN.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 18.—(Monday.)—(AP)—The Matson liner Ventura this morning reached the disabled British steamer Tahiti at 5 p. m. Sunday, Chicago daylight saving time, just as a bulkhead began to give way, and took aboard its passengers and mail. Despite a heavy swell, the lifeboats safely transferred the 175 passengers. The Tahiti, though listing badly and expected to founder, was not abandoned by its crew, which remained at the pumps in a desperate effort to keep it afloat.

LONDON, Aug. 18 (Monday).—(AP)—Dispatches from Brisbane, Australia, this morning reported that heroic work at the pumps of the disabled British steamer Tahiti had saved the ship from foundering before rescue arrived.

Twice before the Norwegian freighter Penybryn came alongside, Capt. A. T. Toten of the Tahiti ordered the passengers into the life boats. He did not inform them that a great storm was brewing.

Orders Boats Recalled.

On each occasion, however, furious work by the crew at the pumps gave the Tahiti another chance to ride out the heavy swells. Each time the passengers were ordered back on board again, lest the boats be scattered in the impending storm.

Conditions at sea were reported to have been too difficult to allow transshipping of the Tahiti's passengers to the Penybryn before the Ventura arrived.

Keep Night of Vigil.

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Aug. 18.—[Monday.]—(AP)—The disabled steamer Tahiti, with 317 aboard, was wallowing in a heavy swell with a light breeze this morning. The steamer Penybryn stood by watching her all night after having made contact at 9:30 o'clock last night.

The passengers and crew remained aboard the Tahiti all night. The radio transmitter continued to operate, although static interfered with communication. The steamer Sierra, 1,500 miles to the south, was in communication with the stricken steamer.

The Tahiti lost its starboard propeller and sprang a leak Friday about 400 miles southwest of Rarotonga, Cook islands, and since then has drifted about 60 miles before a strong current.

U. S. Ship Also Due.

The United States shipping board vessel Antinous also was reported headed in the direction of the Tahiti. The Antinous was due about 11 a. m. today [8 p. m. Sunday, Chicago daylight time].

The Tahiti sailed from Wellington Aug. 12 for San Francisco with 175 passengers and a crew of 142. The vessel was due in San Francisco Aug. 29.

Americans Aboard.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Passengers aboard the disabled liner Tahiti booked for San Francisco in first and second classes were published today as follows:

J. J. Nell, G. Reed, Mrs. S. Robinson of Boston; Mrs. May W. Sell, Master Daniel Sell of Cleveland; R. B. Matthews, Hector Macquarrie, H. P. Peterson, F. M. Jacobsen, Miss K. B. Lister, H. E. Black, G. E. Laffey, A. Broaks, Mrs. Broaks, Mrs. S. Hunt, Mr. King, R. G. De Erneste, Mrs. B. Lilly of New York; Miss O. P. H. Humphries, Miss K. F. Hickson, Miss E. Clark, Miss F. C. Morrison, D. T. Isgrim, the Rev. G. F. Griffin, G. H. Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. F. Walker, Miss S. P. Walker, D. Calderwood, H. R. Babbing, W. G. Griffiths, Miss R. Scott, Miss H. Switzer, Miss M. Wamsley, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. V. Koschalade and their baby, Miss G. Koschalade, Miss E. Hennemann, G. Kerfoot, and A. E. Cotterill.

The following were stated to be booked for Europe:

Seattle Man Aboard.

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—H. D. Samuel, New York manufacturer, said tonight his father-in-law, J. B. Kaufman, 76 year old retired merchant of Seattle, Wash., was one of the passengers aboard the crippled liner Tahiti. Mr. Kaufman, a native of Australia, had made a pleasure trip to that country to visit a daughter and was en route back to Seattle when the vessel was disabled.

Jail 3 Florida Men in Plot to Kill Governor

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Fred O. Eberhardt, publisher of the Florida State News of Tallahassee, and Frank Ralls and Henry Halsema of this city are in jail here on a charge of a "conspiracy to procure the assassination" of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton.

Sheriff W. B. Cahoon arrested the men last night. They are being held without bail and will be arraigned tomorrow. Ralls was one of Carlton's campaign workers in this county in 1928, and Halsema is a business man here.

Arrested at Hotel.

Eberhardt and Ralls were taken into custody at a hotel. Halsema was arrested at his home. The sheriff's deputies also seized forty gallons of liquor at Halsema's residence, they said.

Sheriff Cahoon would give no details, but said he would produce evidence at the trial to substantiate the charges against the three men.

Eberhardt, who formerly was an automobile race driver, has published the State News for two years. He has opposed the Carlton administration throughout.

Crusade Against Gambling.

Shortly after he took office the governor began a crusade against gambling. He called upon Sheriff M. H. Lehman at Miami to stop illegal betting at the Hialeah race track and at dog tracks.

For a time the governor's stand threatened to halt the Sharkey-Stribling fight, which was held in Miami in February, 1929. But when Jack Dempsey threatened to move the fight to California if horse racing were stopped at Miami a truce was granted under which the horse racing continued and the fight was held.

Betting was halted at the three dog tracks, however, and at the Jai Alai fronton despite the protests of Miami business men, who pointed out that Florida's winter patronage was derived principally from persons who went there seeking amusement.

Charges Against Sheriff.

The governor also urged similar action at Tampa, where he was supported by James F. Bickers, an attorney. Bickers filed charges against Sheriff Gladstone Battle, accusing the sheriff of accepting bribes for the protection of bootleggers, permitting gambling at dog tracks, and of malfeasance in office. But Bickers' activities came to an abrupt end in April, 1929, when five men abducted him from in front of his home, took him into the country, robbed him of $2,000, and after thrashing him with a knotted whip ordered him to leave the state.

When Al Capone, the Chicago gang leader, who has a winter home near Miami, was released from a Pennsylvania prison last winter Gov. Carlton declared that Florida was "not a haven for crooks and criminals nor the headquarters for gangsters and gunmen." He wired every sheriff in the state to "arrest Capone on sight."

Although an injunction was obtained by Capone's attorneys restraining twenty Florida sheriffs from carrying out the governor's orders, Capone, his brother, and two companions were arrested when they reached Florida. After several hours all were released on a writ of habeas corpus.

HOLD THEATER MAN CAPTIVE; GET $1,400 LOOT

Three deliberate young robbers held up Robert Anderson, assistant manager of the Manor theater, last night in the vestibule of his apartment at 5711 West North avenue, kept him captive there for an hour and a half, and, when the theatef was at last clear of other employés shortly before midnight, took him there and compelled him to open the safe. They escaped with $1,400.

"Just east of the apartment is a miniature golf course, and dozens of people were playing it under floodlights while the robbers kept me covered," Anderson said. "They took me to a window and pointed to the theater cashier, Robert Arnaman, who was among the players. Other tenants passed through the vestibule at various times, but I didn't dare to cry for help. The robbers kept their guns pocketed and chatted about baseball or the weather while my neighbors walked by."

Gardens Vitalized in Chicago Area.

Showers of Money

Springfield, Ill.	1.15	Terre Haute	1.24
Des Moines	.43	St. Joseph, Mo.	1.73
Keokuk	1.40	Kansas City	1.69
Omaha	.34	Columbia, Mo.	1.24
Valentine, Neb.	1.58	Springfield, Mo.	2.23

Widespread and copious rains in the last few days have effectually broken the drought in all but a few isolated spots in the corn and cotton belts, the weather bureau announced last night.

While only .03 of an inch was recorded on the University of Chicago rain gauge in the 24 hours up to 8 p. m., most of Chicagoland, excepting the north shore, was drenched with showers, which in places flooded highways. Fair and continued cool weather was predicted for today and slightly warmer tomorrow.

3 Inch Rain Soaks Aurora.

More than three inches of rain soaked Aurora, most of Kane county, and adjacent Du Page county over the week-end, vitalizing the crops of truck farmers who supply a good portion of the city's vegetable market. Golfers motoring to Flossmoor, in southern Cook county, yesterday found sunken sections of the Dixie highway flooded with water.

Lower Illinois and Indiana, numbered among the acutely stricken areas in President Hoover's drought survey, soaked up showers yesterday ranging from 3.10 inches at Mount Vernon, Ill., to a trace at Cairo.

Farmers around Peoria estimated the value of the .66 inch of rain falling there early yesterday at from a quarter to a half million dollars and were hopeful that with continued favorable weather until harvest time a good part of the corn crop might still be saved.

Heavy Showers at Pana.

Heavy showers revived pastures and truck gardens in the vicinity of Pana, but came too late to benefit corn, alfalfa and soy beans, farmers said.

Steady drizzles sprinkled most of Indiana all day and were continuing last night. Although Hoosier dairymen have already begun to cut corn as fodder for cattle starving on the burned pastures, there was hope that fields still standing in the midlands might be saved.

While considerable rains have fallen also over Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota in areas tributary to the Mississippi river, neither the precipitation nor the increase of the water flow through the Chicago drainage canal has as yet begun to affect the river stage.

Diversion Ordered Increased.

With low water conditions menacing public health and navigation, Secretary of War Hurley last Friday ordered the flow from Lake Michigan through the sanitary canal increased from 6,500 to 12,000 cubic feet per second until levels of the Illinois and Mississippi rivers had been restored to normal.

Airmen Land After Flying for 27 Days

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The first "come-back" in the history of refueling endurance flights ended at 6:39:30 a. m. at Lambert-St. Louis field today.

Shortly after dawn Dale (Red) Jackson and Forest O'Brine set their monoplane Greater St. Louis on the flying field over which they had circled for 27 days and nights, becoming the official holders of the world's sustained flight record again at 647 hours 28 minutes and 30 seconds.

Aimed at 1,000 Hours.

Jackson and O'Brine had hoped to set a 1,000 hour record. The mark they did establish is 93 hours 47 minutes better than the previous record set last July 4 in the City of Chicago at Chicago by Kenneth and John Hunter.

Motor trouble, which developed about midnight, forced the plane to alight, Jackson and O'Brine told interviewers.

Lack of financial returns and apparent failure of the city of St. Louis to support the flight was the reason given to newspaper men by William Pickens, manager of O'Brine and Jackson.

In their hotel suite this afternoon Jackson and O'Brine, refreshed by several hours' sleep, posed for camera men and answered questions of a dozen newspaper men.

Deny Finances Cause.

"We would have stayed up longer if we could have," both flyers said. "Finances had nothing to do with it at all. We would have paid for supplies to continue the flight ourselves if the motor had continued to function."

O'Brine explained how the motor began sputtering and missing about midnight. Nothing could be done in the dark. At 6 a. m. Jackson turned over the controls to O'Brine and crawled out on the catwalk to investigate.

Investigation revealed a crack in the crank case, from which oil was getting into the magnetos. No repairs could be made aloft, both men said, so there was nothing to do but land. At 6:05 Jackson radioed from the portable transmitter aboard that the Greater St. Louis would land soon.

O'Brine Lands Plane.

Before the small early morning crowd of 500 spectators, newspaper men and camera men, realized what was happening the endurance plane had glided softly to earth, O'Brine at the controls.

A medical examination was given the flyers after they came back to earth. The 27 days aloft had not affected them physically in any way. Hearing of both was normal and neither had shown any great change in weight.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Speeding more than 100 miles an hour, Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., landed her taper wing Waco plane at Lindbergh field here at 7:04:51 p. m., Chicago daylight saving time, today, winning the first lap of the Long Beach-Chicago women's national air Derby. Mrs. O'Donnell's time for the first 93 mile leg of the race was 32 minutes and 51 seconds.

Close on her heels came Margery Doig, Danbury, Conn., with an elapsed time of 34 minutes and 3 seconds. Ruth Barron, Hollywood, was third, in 46 minutes and 35 seconds.

Thousands Greet Flyers.

Within a few more minutes 3 entrants in the race, Mrs. Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, fourth; Miss Jean La Rene, Kansas City, fifth; and Ruth Stewart, St. Louis, sixth; all landed safely and officially checked in.

More than 15,000 spectators lined Lindbergh field and the surrounding hills for the arrival of the women flyers, who rested here tonight, resuming the race tomorrow at 10 a. m., when they will hop to Phoenix, Ariz., with a stop being made in Imperial valley for fuel and lunch. No accidents marred the arrival of the flyers here.

Mrs. O'Donnell was the second of the women derbyists to take off from Long Beach, and immediately leaped into the lead, passing Miss Doig, who had taken off one minute ahead of her. This lead she maintained all the way to San Diego.

Motor Trouble Slows Leader.

"We had a little tail wind," Mrs. O'Donnell said. "I was doing an air speed of about 170 miles on hour when over Laguna Beach my motor blew a head gasket. This slowed me down a great deal."

Immediately after Mrs. O'Donnell landed and reported her motor trouble the necessary repairs were started. The plane will be ready on the starting line for the resumption of the race tomorrow.

Miss La Rene said she was delayed eight minutes in getting away from Long Beach because her ship had not been serviced with fuel. The other flyers reported uneventful trips with flying conditions excellent.

Greeting the flyers as assistant referee was Earl Ovington, the world's first air mail pilot. The distinction was earned by Ovington in 1909 when he flew mail from Long Island to Atlantic City.

Off at Shot of Pistol.

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—A pistol report from a shot fired in Chicago and transmitted to Long Beach by radio today sent six outstanding women flyers winging on their way to the Illinois city as contestants in the second annual women's Pacific air Derby.

Margery Doig, a Danbury, Conn., society girl, was first off the ground. While 20,000 persons, including many leaders in aviation, cheered, she lifted her Pitcairn sport mailwing, powered with a Wright J-6-7, off the Municipal airport at 6:31 p. m., Chicago daylight time. One minute later Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach aviatrix and mother of two children rose in her taper-wing Waco biplane, powered with a 225 horse power Wright J-6-7 motor.

Loses 8 Minutes at Start.

When Joe Nikrent, official starter for the National Aeronautical association, dropped the flag that was supposed to send Jean La Rene of Kansas City on her way, Miss La Rene was unable to get the Wright J-6-7 motor of her American Eagle phaeton started on schedule, and she lost eight minutes while the remaining contestants in the field were roaring

Wider Selections for Those Who Buy Fall Clothes Early

Autumn is just around the corner. The weather doesn't tell it yet, and by the calendar it doesn't come for more than a month. But fall begins on September first as far as human conduct is concerned. It's the end of playtime, the beginning of serious business. Schools open then, vacations are over, and summer wearing apparel becomes passe.

With the new sason so close at hand, the shops and department stores have been making elaborate preparations. Their stocks of new dresses, millinery and coats are on hand. Early buyers have the advantage of the widest selection in making their choice. Prices are substantially lower than a year ago. These have been made possible by the sharp declines in the prices of many materials, notably silk.

The further advantage right now is that a number of the stores have reduced prices on the new models below those which will prevail after Labor Day. This is done to increase the sales volume during August. Now is the best time to buy fall clothes.

GANG ACCOUNTS TO MAKE 'LOT OF MEN LEAVE CITY'

'End Not in Sight,' Roche Says.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Important developments were predicted by Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office last night following a three day examination of Jack Zuta's records of graft and protection payments to police, public officials, and politicians and the splitup of gang profits on vice, gambling, and liquor.

"A lot of men will be leaving town," Roche prophesied, when asked if he was ready to make arrests or serve grand jury subpoenas. He said he was awaiting a call that would be followed by action of some kind by him and his staff of policemen.

"How many other persons are involved in the exposure?" Roche was asked.

No End to Trail.

"We are following the trail of many of Zuta's dollars, and there is no telling where it will end," he replied.

Whether those named in Zuta's books as the recipients of money are to be questioned before the grand jury or are to be given the opportunity of making explanations at the loop office established after the murder of Alfred Lingle and where Special Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane are in charge, with Roche, had not been determined, he said.

On Saturday Judge Joseph W. Schulman of the Municipal court and Attorney Louis I. Fisher, brother of Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, made statements in Roche's office about checks drawn by Zuta and payable to them. What further inquiry about those transactions is to be made was not disclosed.

Investigates Political Affairs.

Roche was investigating a $500 campaign contribution made by Zuta to the "Regular Republican Organization" and his membership in the William Hale Thompson Republican club, which was evidenced by a card signed by Homer K. Galpin as chairman of the Republican county central committee. He said he also was getting additional data on the transactions of Attorney Maurice Green with Judge Schulman.

Judge Schulman's explanation of the Zuta checks and notes was that he arranged to borrow money through Attorney Green, who took his checks, dated months in advance, and his notes and gave him Zuta's checks in the same amounts. Green admitted having been the attorney for Zuta and his string of vice resorts.

Scope of Quiz Widened.

That the efforts of Roche's operatives yesterday were not confined to Zuta's relations with the few prominent men already named was admitted by Roche. Since the Lingle murder and the subsequent killing of Zuta in a summer resort hotel near Delafield, Wis., on Aug. 1, considerable information regarding the distribution of gang money has come into Roche's possession.

Several breweries have been raided and two shipments of whisky seized as a result of the investigation of Zuta's affairs as the brains of the Bugs Moran-Joe Aiello gang of the north side. That gang of bootleggers, hijackers, killers, and thieves — the gang organized years ago by Dean O'Banion and captained later by Vincent (Schemer) Drucci and Earl (Hymie) Weiss until their deaths by guns—was under the suspicion of having instigated the murder of Lingle.

Zuta came in for considerable of Roche's attention, particularly after an attempt was made to kill Zuta while riding with Police Lieut. George Barker, who undertook to bring Zuta into the loop safely after Zuta was released from the detective bureau. Then, after the next attempt was successful and Zuta was dead, his affairs became of more importance in the Lingle inquiry.

It was then that Roche was able to find Zuta's safety deposit boxes, kept under other names. The mass of records taken from the vaults, Roche said, has given him material not only for the Lingle inquiry, but clews which may expose crooks in public office and on the police department.

Items showing that in one period the Moran-Aiello-Zuta gang had receipts of over $400,000 were accepted by the investigators as an indication that the gang had powerful protection in its illicit business.

"What we want to know now is the name of every one who took a penny of that money from Zuta and Zuta's books will reveal that, we believe," Roche said.

Silent on Kolb Report.

Yesterday the chief investigator would not discuss the possibility that "M. K.," who was credited on Zuta's books with "dividends" of $80,693.60, was Matt Kolb, northwest side beer and gambling boss. Kolb had operated on the northwest side of the city for several years and in the country towns of the northern and western portions of the county in recent years, and a week ago Roche sent raiding squads to Kolb's roadhouse and gambling joint near Morton Grove. They made several arrests and wrecked a lot of gambling paraphernalia.

But Kolb was never known to have been in any alliance with Zuta, police said, and if further disclosures show him to have been the "M. K." of Zuta's books it will be regarded as evidence of a new alliance. Zuta's papers showed that he had divided the county into districts, presumably for slot machine privileges and booze, alky, and beer sales, and that he had listed the political leaders of each district, but there was said to be nothing in the records to show payments to the individual political leaders.

Scan Events of June.

It was understood yesterday that Roche, Rathbun and McShane, with their assistants, are correlating every record of money received or disbursed by the Zuta syndicate and comparing them with known events of the time. In other words, they are scanning old newspaper files to see what activities correspond with "disbursements."

Every place listed as either a customer or a syndicate-owned business is to be investigated, Roche said, and with the flying start he now has he expects soon to have proof for juries of the relationship of crime to politics.

FLIGHT OF R-100 BARES NEED FOR WEATHER NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Following its trans-Atlantic flight the R-100 was removed from its mooring mast at Cardington to its shed early today to undergo a thorough overhauling. Observers on the flight agree that the most important lesson of the trip is the need for a better meteorological service over the Atlantic as the lack of one probably lost the airship several hours, robbing her of a chance for a record.

It is generally agreed also that the trip has proved that the regular air service Sir Charles Dennistown Burney desires to establish between Great Britain and Canada is not yet a realizable commercial scheme.

Sir Charles himself admits this His view is that larger airships should be built, faster dirigibles capable of carrying at least 100 passengers with safety. He said at least six dirigibles should be operated. The fare then could be reduced to $750 as against $2,000 per passage.

ROBBED OF CASH AND PANTS.

Sam Lee was robbed of $17 and his trousers by two armed men who entered his laundry at 551 East 49th street late Saturday night.

2 SHOT TO DEATH IN NEW YORK BY 2 PAIRS OF GUNMEN

One Slain in His Kitchen, Other in Automobile.

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Gunmen working in pairs today in different sections of the city killed two men. In each shooting the assailants disappeared so quickly that no clew to their identity has been found.

Patrick Coroza, thirty years old, was shot by two men who jumped out of an automobile while he stood on the street. A policeman heard the shots and ran up, but no automobiles were near and he was unable to give chase until after the gunmen's car had disappeared. He took Coroza to Bellevue hospital where he died.

Silent About Himself.

According to Coroza, he saw the car coming but paid no attention until it stopped in front of him and two men, each with a gun, jumped out. Both men fired. One shot struck him in the abdomen and the other in the left shoulder. Coroza refused to tell the police anything about himself before he died, but declared he had no known enemies. The victim of the second shooting, which occurred in Brooklyn, was Luciano Cerdaiso, 42, a ship caulker. Late today police received a telephone call from an unidentified woman who told of the shooting.

No Trace of Assailants.

When police arrived at the indicated address they found Cerdasio unconscious on the floor in his kitchen suffering from four bullet wounds in the chest and arms. He was taken to the Holy Family hospital where he gained consciousness for a few minutes before he died less than an hour later.

While conscious Cerdasio told the police that he lived alone and was cooking supper when two men entered his rooms and opened fire at him. He could give the police no clew as to the identity of his assailants.

BRITISH BOMBING PLANES DRIVE OFF INVADERS OF INDIA

PESHAWAR, India, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Chastened by a daily rain of bombs from British planes, raiding Afridi tribesmen today were reported in full retreat to the hills of the northwest frontier, and the menacing situation here was considered relieved.

Despite the decreased tension, martial law regulations proclaimed in the city yesterday were officially published today. The Haji of Turangzai, a consistent border trouble maker, is reported to be still trying to persuade the powerful Mohmands to take the field against the British.

All Afridi invaders have disappeared from the cave area at the junction of the Bara valley and the Khajuri plain, and the plain itself was reliably reported to have been completely evacuated. Other districts seemed likewise freed of the tribesmen. The threatened attack on Kohat seemed to have fizzled.

NAVAL SPEED PLANE TO RACE AT CHICAGO PUT THROUGH PACES

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Capt. Arthur H. Page of the Marine corps, winner of the Curtiss marine trophy race at Washington last May, displayed today some of the fastest flying ever seen over this field. He flew the navy's entry in the Thompson trophy free-for-all race to be flown on Sept. 1 at the national air races at Chicago.

The plane is a special Curtiss Seahawk monoplane powered with a Curtiss Conqueror motor that develops close to 800 horse power.

Great secrecy is being maintained concerning the plane's probable performance, but it was built for a speed of between 250 and 300 miles an hour. Page will fly it against Capt. Frank Hawks and Maj. James H. Doolittle, who will pilot planes similar to Capt. Hawks' Whirlwind-Travelair, in which he crossed the country in 12 hours 25 minutes.

Alford J. Williams and foreign pilots, representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy who just arrived from Europe visited the Curtiss airport at Valley Stream and Roosevelt field today.

They plan to visit other fields here and go to Chicago Wednesday or Thursday.

STORM FORCES COSTE TO DELAY SECRET SEA HOP

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, France's foremost airman, landed here this evening ready for a start at dawn on a trans-Atlantic flight to New York, but late this evening was obliged by adverse weather conditions along the French sea coast to postpone his attempt. He was accompanied here by Maurice Bellonte, his companion, in his big red Breguet Question Mark.

The airport authorities had ordered out the fire engines and the ambulance that accompany heavily laden planes down the field on their take-off. These were to be on hand at 3 a. m.

Before going to bed, both Coste and Bellonte were uncommunicative.

"The weather is fine for flying," Coste remarked, "and we may make the attempt tomorrow. But one can never tell. Something may happen between now and sunrise."

The "something" proved to be a weather change.

COAST TO COAST BOY FLYER IS FORCED TO LAND

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Eddie Schneider, 18 year old flier, seeking to establish a junior transcontinental flight record, was forced to land near Anton Chico, 100 miles east of here late today, enroute from Wichita, Kas., to Albuquerque. The young flier telephoned airport officials here he would remain overnight at Anton Chico and take off at daybreak tomorrow for Albuquerque.

Two Are Burned to Death as Plane Falls; Pilot Hurt

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Two men were burned to death late today when an airplane in which they were passengers fell. The pilot was brought in a critical condition to the hospital here.

SHOT IN CHICAGO STARTS WOMAN'S AIR RACE TO CITY

Six Flyers at San Diego in First Lap.

Mrs. Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, in a Travelair with a Wright J-5 motor.

Ruth Barron, Hollywood high school girl, in a Buhl plane powered by a Wright J-5 motor.

As the six flyers took to the air, with Miss Doig in the lead, they first flew a short distance north, then banked and turned and struck out for San Diego, the first night control station on the 2,365 mile route to Chicago. Mrs. O'Donnell thrilled the crowd by putting her plane into a dangerous vertical bank when but fifty feet from the ground.

A moment after the women disappeared toward the south, three other planes hopped off to act as an escort on the way to Chicago.

Race Officials Follow.

In one of these was C. F. Lienesch, manager of the race, accompanied by his sister, Miss Ruth Lienesch. In another were Roy Harding and Earl Ovington, official timers, and in the third, Frank M. Gorey and Leo Root, legionnaire, who term themselves "The Flying Hoboes" and are making the trip to win a $2,000 wager with a Long Beach man.

A fourth escorting plane flown by J. E. Grainger, accompanied by Mrs. Grainger, will leave today and join the field at Phoenix. For several hours preceding the actual start the spectators were treated to a spectacular air carnival in which noted flyers stunted. Among them were Col. Roscoe Turner, Col. Art Goebel, and Florence Lowe Barnes.

Flys "Mysterious Ship."

The last named flew her Travelair "mystery ship," in which she recently attained a speed of 196 miles an hour, and which was ruled out of the contest when it failed to meet qualifying conditions. Miss Barnes allowed her sister flyers to get well started toward San Diego; then set out in pursuit, but as a noncontestant.

Two of the race entrants are married. Mrs. Morgan, the wife of the president of an airway company, is the mother of three children, a boy, 4, and girl twins, 3. Mrs. O'Donnell has two children, 7 and 5 years old. The entrants range in age from 18 to 37.

RADIO CARRIES PISTOL REPORT.

At 6:30 o'clock Chicago time, last evening Maj. R. W. Schroeder, director of the National Air races, stepped before a microphone at Curtiss airport, pistol in hand, and fired a shot.

Carried westward by radio, the pistol report started six young women pilots away from Long Beach, Cal., on their 2,265 mile dash across mountains, deserts and plains to Chicago, where $22,000 in prizes and national fame await the winners.

Although competitions at Curtiss field do not begin until next Saturday, a huge crowd gathered yesterday to see Maj. Schroeder start the women pilots off.

During this week pilots in five other Derbies will start skimming Chicagoward by a similar broadcast signal. Participants in two of the Derbies, the southern male pilots' race from Brownsville, Tex., and the Atlantic pilots' race from Miami, Fla., are scheduled to arrive here next Saturday, the first day of actual competitions at Curtiss airport.

WILL SEEK STANDARD AERIAL CODE TODAY AT EXPERTS' SESSION

BY ROBERT WOOD.

In an effort to develop a standard code of air laws for the nation, several hundred legislators, members of the bar, university professors and air transport operators will gather at the Northwestern university school of law today for the first national legislative air conference. The sessions will continue through Wednesday.

The purpose of the conference is to secure more unity in state air laws, devise more effective regulatory rules for airplane operation, and to promote aviation generally through a program of national legislation aimed to develop, through federal and state aid, the air trunk lines and a system of feeder lines linked together in a greater network of airways for carrying mail, express and passengers.

At the close of the sessions in Lincoln hall on the McKinlock campus the delegates will draw up an extensive program which will be carried back to the legislatures of the various states, where the legislators will endeavor to incorporate into law the principles established by the conference.

The parley will be opened this morning by an address of welcome delivered by Gov. Emmerson and a statement of purpose presented by Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the Illinois aerial navigation committee. The gathering will be addressed by Dr. Arnold D. McNain, lecturer on law in the University of Cambridge; Albert Roper of Paris, France, secretary general of the international commission on aerial navigation, and Maj. William P. MacCracken Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce for aviation.

Various cities and states are sending delegations of noted pilots and aviation authorities. New York will be represented by Col. E. V. Rickenbacker, world war ace; Maj. MacCracken, and Luther Bell, secretary of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America. Milwaukee will be represented by Col. John M. H. Nichols, Stuart F. Auer, Wisconsin governor of the National Aëronautical association, and a delegation from Madison. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt of the aviation committee of the American Bar association will take part in the discussion.

ALL CHICAGOLAND TO BE WELCOME AT MUSIC FETE

Event to Make History Next Saturday.

The Music Festival

PLACE—Soldiers' field.

TIME—Next Saturday night at 8 p. m. The gates will open at 6:30.

PROGRAM—Four thousand musicians of Chicago and Chicagoland, including bands, choruses, drum corps, quartets, vocal and instrumental soloists.

ADMISSION—25 cents.

TICKETS—Now selling at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune tower, 435 North Michigan avenue. Tickets also will be sold from booths at the entrances of Soldiers' field on Saturday night. There will be no reserved seats.

PROCEEDS—To charity.

WEATHER—In case of inclement weather the program will be given in the Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street. Change of place (if necessary) will be announced Saturday over W-G-N.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

They are coming from all points of Chicagoland, and Chicago is ready to receive them. Bands, drum corps, soloists, contestants of all kinds for the Chicagoland Music festival at Soldiers' field next Saturday night, all have been polishing up their music, ready to take part in the giant program.

All will be sharing in the concert. If, unfortunately, all the soloists cannot be heard in their solo numbers, all can, if they wish, help to swell the strains of the mighty Halleluah chorus, 5,000 strong. All the choruses cannot from the nature of things take first place, but they are all urged to join the same vast throng. Only three bands can be given places and honors, but all the bands, 1,100 bandsmen, will join in the rollicking and toe tickling strains of the Sousa marches when Conductor Victor J. Grabel gives the signal.

Makes Musical History.

It is going to be something the like of which has never been heard before, something that will live in memory and reminiscent anecdote for years to come. And all these musical delegates and their friends and boosters will come to Chicago ready to pick up the strains of "Happy Days Are Here Again," a song that has the double merit of being a stirring, invigorating tune, and telling the truth as well.

It will cost only twenty-five cents to enter Soldiers' field, and that is the sole charge. All seats are free; none will be reserved at a higher price. The millionaire business man and the struggling music student will be on the same basis.

Looking to the future, the possibility of bad weather which cannot be foretold, all provisions have been made for this also. If, though every one is rubbing his lucky piece that this should not be the case, if it should rain, the tickets bought for admission to Soldiers' field will be equally good for admission to the Chicago Stadium on West Madison street. The show will go on. There will be no postponement, no delay, no substitutions It will merely be in another place.

So come one, come all. Everything has been prepared. Come and hear the massed bands, the drum corps in all their flaunting glory, the mighty chorus, the colored chorus of 1,000 in a group of spirituals, the prize band of Chicagoland, the prize chorus of the same district, the soloists who have been picked by entry, by tryout, by elimination, by contest, by semi-final, by final, until the best of all Chicagoland has been reached.

Chicago is ready to receive them, and a mighty army of auditors will be in their seats to greet them.

Contest Program

The Chicago finals will be held tonight, tomorrow night and Wednesday night in the Publix Balaban & Katz Oriental theater at which the winners will be chosen to compete with the winners from other cities on Friday. The schedule of appearances in the Oriental theater follows:

MONDAY NIGHT.

TUESDAY NIGHT.

9:15 O'CLOCK [baritones]—John Burdette, 5944 South Parkway; Herbert Peterson, 3029 Ainslie street; Minas A. Booras, 4418 North Sacramento.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

9:15 O'CLOCK [cornets]—Richard Januszewski, 5525 School street; Allyn Brooks, 302 North Lotus avenue.

Edward Mendelsohn, trombone; Bobbie Howes, saxophone; the Deep River Male quartet and the Brown's Jubilee Mixed quartet go direct from the semi-finals of last week to competition with the out of town contestants at the audition room of the Chicago theater Friday afternoon and night. All instrumentalists, individual and groups, will be heard Friday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock, and the vocalists at 7 o'clock.

The schedule for the other Chicagoland finals is as follows:

DRUM CORPS — Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Grant park, off Monroe street. The Chicago units will report at 9 o'clock, and out of town organizations at 10 o'clock.

BANDS—Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in four Shubert theaters, the Harris, Dearborn and Lake; Majestic, State and Monroe; Great Northern, 26 West Jackson boulevard; Grand Opera house, 119 North Clark. The different units will be notified at which theater to appear later. The Chicago bands will appear for tryout at 9 o'clock and the out of town groups at 10 o'clock.

CHORUSES — Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Great Northern theater. This includes the Chicago choruses. A rehearsal of all the bands will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Soldiers' Field on the bandstand at the north part of the field.

PROPELLER GALE STAVES OFF FIRE, SAVES AIRSHIPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—A gale of wind produced by a series of airplane propellers prevented serious fire damage at one of the auxiliary fields near the army air corps primary flying school, March field, Cal.

The fire had started in the dry grass and was sweeping down the field to where several planes were standing on the line. Some one thought of throwing the fire back on itself.

Backing their observation planes, the flying instructors held them stationary by means of the wheel brakes and tuned up their powerful 420 horsepower motors to their maximum revolutions. Such a gale was created that the fire did not come within twenty feet of the planes, and cadet flyers and mechanics beat the flames out.

CORONER OPENS INQUEST TODAY IN JOYCE DEATH

An inquest will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning into the death of State Senator John T. Joyce at the Shute undertaking parlors, 716 North State street. It was considered probable that the inquest will be continued until an examination of vital organs for poison can be completed by Dr. C. W. Muehlerberg, coroner's toxicologist, according to Dr. Paul Schmitt, coroner's physician. Dr. Muehlerberg is assistant director of the Northwestern university scientific laboratory for the detection of crime.

Meanwhile, plans for a large funeral were being made, and a list of pall bearers which is to include many prominent political and business associates of the senator were being completed by members of the family. It is expected that the funeral will be held at Holy Name cathedral Wednesday morning, with burial at All Saints cemetery.

Following the sudden death of Senator Joyce at his home, 207 East Chestnut street, Saturday morning, stories of threats against his life were circulated. The possibility that he might have been poisoned was suggested by a brother, Edward Joyce. The fact that he was to be a witness at a grand jury hearing on election day violence today was considered of special significance. In his post-mortem examination, Dr. Schmitt could not determine whether poisoning caused death.

GINGER JAKE IS PARTLY DUE TO U. S. POISONING

Health Chiefs Admit Adulteration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The possibility that deaths in the recent ginger "jake" epidemic have been caused by the use of a poisonous denaturant was admitted by the United States public health service today in a preliminary report on its investigations.

This explanation that "it would seem not improbable that the suspected ginger contained some denaturant" tended to partially bear out charges that the government itself injected death-dealing denaturants into the fluid extract which has caused hundreds of deaths and cases of paralysis in the west and southwest.

Inquiries in Tennessee and Ohio seem to confirm the widespread rumor that the disease (paralysis) is closely associated with the drinking of "an adulterated fluid extract of ginger," stated the health service report.

Is of Recent Date.

"That it could not be due to the ginger as such became clearly evident from the fact that many of the victims when questioned admitted freely having used similar preparations for beverage purposes from one to five years with no other effects than those derived from the alcohol," the report continued.

"It soon became evident, therefore, that the condition must have resulted from some unknown poison or from some poison whose action was so altered through the ginger or alcohol as to render it unrecognizable, which poison in some way got into a manufactured lot of so-called fluid extract of ginger at a relatively recent date.

"The possibility of some known or only partially known poison with its properties so altered as to produce a condition in man heretofore virtually unknown must be considered.

Adulterants Long Used.

"From the very nature of the problem it would seem not improbable that the suspected ginger contained some denaturant, since denatured alcohol might very well have been, and probably was, used in the manufacture of some of the ginger extract, or that it contained some adulterant, since it is known with certainty that adulterants of various kinds have been used for some years in the manufacture of this preparation."

POLICE OF EVANSTON SETTLE A QUARREL ABOUT OAK PARK

Willard Baird, an insurance salesman residing at the Greenwood inn, 1400 Hinman avenue, Evanston, was host early Sunday morning to three couples. The party probably never would have ended in the police station had it not been that one of the guests was Erwin Eulrich, 1127 Clinton street, Oak Park. The rivalry between the two suburbs is historic, dating back to the first robin of spring the year of the big wind and continuing on down to the 1930 census.

"I see," said Mr. Eulrich, "where Oak Park has a population of 63,819 to Evanston's 61,766."

"Yes," retorted Mr. Baird, "but our percentage of growth is bigger."

The argument grew personal and Mr. Baird let fly a haymaker that caught Mr. Eulrich on the nose, breaking it. Mr. Eulrich came to later in the Evanston hospital. Other guests telephoned the police, who questioned Frank Irving, clerk of the inn, after a search had disclosed several bottles of alcohol in his room. He admitted buying it from Cris Thorne, 7665 Sheridan road. The police, posing as customers, telephoned an order to Thorne, and when he appeared at the Greenwood they arrested him.

Mr. Eulrich is to face a disorderly conduct charge.

5 WOMEN, 4 MEN RESCUED WHEN YACHT HITS ROCK

A party of eight, cruising towards Navy pier in the 57 foot yacht Lakewood Saturday night, were in peril of drowning for a few minutes when their skipper, mistaking a breach in the breakwater for the harbor passage, steered the craft over a rock, ripping open the hull.

Aboard the yacht were the owners, George C. Hager, vice president of the Consumers company; Horton Conrad, sales executive of the same company; their wives; Clifford D. Caldwell, president of the Interlake Iron corporation, and Mrs. Caldwell; Fred Essig, a salesman; Miss Vera Lee Dildy, Texarkana, Tex., and Miss Mary McRae, Hope, Ark.

As the yacht, recently purchased from George Getz, began to list and sink, Mr. Conrad hailed a passing speedboat, which towed the Lakewood to dock. Coast guardsmen spent all day yesterday pumping to keep the $20,000 craft from sinking at a dock.

Mr. Hager, informed that a coast guardsman had been stationed at Navy pier for the sole purpose of warning craft against entering the breach left by last winter's storms, said he would file complaint with authorities today against the lookout's negligence.

HOUSE TO GAIN 29 WET VOTES, CURRAN AVERS

Increase More than One to State, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Twenty-nine additional wet votes in the next house of representatives are "already assured" from primary results and commitments of candidates, President Henry H. Curran of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment asserted today in a statement analyzing wet and dry fall election prospects.

Wet gains in primaries already held total nine while seven more new anti-prohibition votes are pledged by reason of sitting members announcing they favor repeal, Mr. Curran said. He added that thirteen other house members have switched from a position of uncertainty or modification to outright repeal, these members coming from Illinois, Wisconsin, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and California.

"Sure" Winners Wet.

"In every one of the total twenty-nine districts either the sure winner is wet or both candidates are wet," declared Curran.

"Twenty-five states have nominated candidates for the house of representatives with an average gain for repeal of more than one seat to a state. Further gains may be looked for in the twenty-three primaries and state conventions still to be held. Thus far there is not a single change from wet to dry in existence or in prospect."

Gains Are Summarized.

Mr. Curran summarized the "wet gains" from primary contests in the various states and districts as follows:

Illinois: [9] James G. Moreland, wet Republican, won in primary recount over M. A. Michaelson, dry sitting member of leaky trunk fame.

Ohio: [9] Wilbur White, running on repeal platform, defeated Representative W. W. Chalmers, dry, for Republican nomination. The Democratic nominee is also wet.

Nebraska: [2] Malcolm Baldridge, running on repeal platform, defeated Representative W. G. Sears, dry, for Republican nomination, regarded as equivalent to election.

Massachusetts: [2] W. J. Granfield, wet Democrat, won seat in special election last February due to death of W. K. Raynor, dry Republican, and is expected to be renominated and elected; [4] Representative G. R. Stobbs, dry Republican, retiring and his successor regarded as certain wet; [6] Representative A. Piatt Andrew, Republican, has definitely committed himself for repeal.

New York: [1] Representative R. L. Bacon, Republican, has declared for repeal; [25] Representative J. M. Wainwright, dry Republican, has retired and John M. Holzworth and C. E. Millard, candidates for Republican nomination, both pledged wet; [35] Representative Clarence E. Hancock, Republican, has made public position for repeal; [41] Representative E. F. Cooke has come out for repeal.

Four in New Jersey.

New Jersey: [8] Representative F. A. Hartley, Republican dry, has come out for repeal; P. J. Moore, Democratic candidate, also wet; [9] Peter Cavicchia, wet Republican, and D. F. Minahan, wet Democrat, nominees for seat of Representative F. W. Fort, a dry.

Pennsylvania: [11] P. J. Boland, wet, received both the Republican and Democratic nominations to succeed Representative L. A. Watres, dry, retired; [13] George F. Brumm was not a candidate in 1928. He answered 1930 repeal questionnaire, "yes."

Virginia: [2] Joseph T. Deal, wet Democrat, won nomination, regarded as equivalent to election, unseating a Republican dry.

Tennessee: [10] E. H. Crump, wet Democrat, received nomination, succeeding a dry Democrat. Nomination regarded as equivalent to election.

Drys Cite Sheppard Vote.

Commenting on the primaries from the dry point of view the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals today proposed the nomination of Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.] for the presidency.

"Senator Morrow rolled up a big lead in the Republican primaries of New Jersey, a very wet state," said the board statement. "At least it seemed big until Senator Sheppard's majority was reported from Texas. In Texas there was a clear cut wet and dry issue, the senator being opposed by R. L. Henry, a former representative in congress, on a straight prohibition division. Senator Sheppard brought to the polls 522,688 votes; Henry polled 170,732.

"When the Democratic party gets ready to climb out of its open grave and make a real race for the White House it could not do better than nominate a man like Senator Sheppard."

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Aug. 17.—Antonio Camacho, 34, a foreman of a crew working on a group of tunnels under construction on a railroad near Alcarez, today [illegible] that a case of dynamite in the tunnel had caught fire. Realizing that not only the work which had been done on the tunnel but a number of workmen were endangered, he grabbed the box and ran out of the tunnel. Then it exploded. He died soon afterward.

6 MORE DEATHS RAISE COUNTY'S AUTO TOLL TO 615

Guard Officer Killed on Trip from Camp.

Mrs. Dora Martin, 65 years old, 2642 North Drake avenue, was killed yesterday, and her husband, John, 73, received a fracture of the skull when their car collided with that of Clifford McRea, 18 years old, 2550 North Hamlin avenue, at Wrightwood and Kildare avenues. McRea was held for the inquest by the Cragin police. Riding with the Martins were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Aske and their five year old son, Arthur, living at the same address as the Martins.

This death and five others in Cook county increased the 1930 Cook county motor toll for the year to 615, and a National Guard officer from Chicago died at Elgin from injuries received on the return trip from training quarters at Camp Grant.

Robert Powers, 24 years old, 2519 Hillock avenue, was killed when a car in which he and three companions were riding collided with a taxi driven by Walter Ford, 1401 Jackson boulevard, at Wabash avenue and 26th street. His companions escaped with slight injuries. Ford was not held.

Boy, 3, Fatally Injured.

Three year old William Bisselhorst, 3056 North Kenneth avenue, was killed when he ran in the street in front of his home and was struck by the automobile of Harry S. Johnson, 3240 North Kenneth avenue. Johnson took the boy to the Belmont hospital, but he died en route.

Mrs. Nora Michaelson, 11204 South Spaulding avenue, struck by a hit and run car late Saturday night at Central Park avenue and 112th street, died early yesterday morning at St. Francis' hospital, Blue Island. George Elpert, 10858 South Central Park avenue, discovered her lying unconscious in the roadway.

Struck by a car at Mansfield and Grand avenues, Walter Paszczynski, 45 years old, 2034 Haddon avenue, was taken to the Keystone hospital, where he died. Cragin police held the driver, Orlando Biagini, 9302 Cottage Grove avenue.

Guard Officer Killed.

James Anderson, 5 years old, of 14614 Jefferson street, Harvey, died yesterday of injuries received last Saturday when he was struck by an automobile driven by Oscar Nelson, 55 West 155th street, Harvey, as he crossed the street in front of the Anderson home. Nelson was held by the Harvey police for the inquest today.

Kenneth E. Asp, 24 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Asp of 2133 Wilson avenue, was fatally injured Saturday night on No. 5 highway, 20 miles west of Elgin. A second lieutenant in the motor transport corps of the 33d division, Illinois National guard, he was in command of a convoy of trucks returning from the encampment at Camp Grant. Two of the trucks broke down. He was directing traffic around them, when struck by an automobile driven by George L. Derr, 18 East Elm street, Chicago. He died yesterday morning in St. Joseph's hospital, Elgin. Derr was not held.

Joseph Schneider, 52 years old, 3025 Broad street, a railroad engineer, suffered a fractured skull when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Warrens, 21 years old, 3321 Cottage Grove avenue, at 61st street and Cottage Grove avenue. The Woodlawn police held Warrens on a charge of assault with an automobile.

James H. Murphy, 54 years old, 850 Lake Shore drive, owner of a wholesale food business at 2117 Ward street, and his secretary, Miss Anne Williams, 29 years old, 6416 Lakewood avenue, were cut and bruised when Murphy's car struck the gate support at the north end of the Michigan boulevard bridge early yesterday morning. He said another car forced him into it.

American Woman Killed in Milan Auto Crash

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Maria Edmiston, wife of Homer Edmiston, vice president of the American chamber of commerce at Milan, was instantly killed yesterday when the taxicab in which she was riding to the Milan station crashed into a street car. Her son and daughter were injured.

ROB THREE AT HOTEL.

Three armed bandits held up a waiter and two diners in the restaurant of the Roxy hotel, 1314 Jackson boulevard, early yesterday morning. The loot was $85.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.

Letter received by John Knox, 321 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, Ill.:

"The enclosed book wrapping [which I send in place of an envelope because of its many stamps, etc., which make it more interesting] came from Haus Doorn, Doorn, Holland," Mr. Knox writes. "I need give little information about the writer beyond the fact that he is the former Emperor William II. of Germany, and is too well known to need description.

"In this wrapping the kaiser sent me a book, one of five which I received last winter, according to his orders. Some were sent from Berlin and some from Doorn. In this case the book came from Doorn. In the front of it the kaiser had written with purple crayola in his own hand:

"'Nothing is settled finally until it is settled right!'—Abraham Lincoln.

"'Do right and damn the odds!'—Admiral Lord Fisher.

[Signed] "WILHELM, I R.,
"Doorn, 18 X, 1929."

"Shortly after this book arrived I was the guest of Count Felix von Luckner during one of his visits to Chicago. I showed the volume to the famous "Sea Devil," and beside the kaiser's handwriting Luckner wrote:

"'By Joe, never say die!

"'Your friend,

"'FELIX COUNT LUCKNER,"
"Nov. 20, 1929.'"

"The kaiser sent me these books because of my interest in world war history. I am a senior at the University of Chicago, and have spent several years in studying the history of that most dreadful catastrophe which mankind ever let loose. Since 1927 I have corresponded with Haus Doorn in Holland. My latest letter from the household of William II. of Hohenzollern is dated July 12, 1930."

2 ARE KILLED AND 5 INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Two were killed and five injured in a head-on crash of two autos on state road 30 eight miles east of here at noon today.

The dead are: Mrs. J. C. Lunsford, 37, and daughter, Beverly Ann Kirk, 6, both of Gary, Ind. The injured are: J. C. Lunsford, husband of the dead woman; Mrs. Jennie Bail, mother-in-law of Mrs. Lunsford; Donna Jean Kirk, 8, all of Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gilbert of Sour Lake, Tex. The injured, cut and bruised, were brought to a hospital here.

Gilbert and Lunsford were the drivers of the two cars. Dr. C. M. Davis, deputy coroner, is investigating the crash.

Autoist Seriously Injured.

SHOOTING DEATH CALLED SUICIDE.

Anton Kapek, 55 years old, a retired cabinet maker, was found shot to death in his home at 16931 Jodane avenue, Hazelcrest, Saturday night. He is believed to have committed suicide.

WOMAN ARRIVES TO SEARCH FOR $40,000 SWINDLER

Mrs. J. H. Spurgeon, a wealthy Los Angeles widow, will visit the detective bureau today hopeful of finding in the rogue's gallery there the photograph of a man who, she states, has swindled her of more than $40,000 during the last two years. Mrs. Spurgeon refused to talk of the swindle, but some of the details were told by her lawyer, Guy W. Runnion of Kansas City, who accompanied her to Chicago.

"This man, whose alias I'm not at liberty to tell, systematically swindled Mrs. Spurgeon of money left by her husband, who died three years ago," said Mr. Runnion. "I've no doubt the swindler is a crook well known to the police, and we are hopeful of finding his picture in the bureau here."

Oil Well Runs Wild; Families Have to Move

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 17.—(AP)—An oil well of the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalty company was running wild today in a residential section in the north end of the Oklahoma City oil fields. Families were removed from homes in the immediate vicinity of the well, fires of other drilling operations were extinguished, and roads were blocked.

LATVIA ESCAPES SLUMP, HEALS RAVAGES OF WAR

Good Police, No Poverty Keeps Reds Down.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 17.—Prosperity seems to rule northern Europe. The little countries of the north seem to have escaped the world crisis. A few weeks ago in Iceland I found the country without unemployment. Today in Latvia I find a similar condition.

This is not so remarkable perhaps in Iceland, which because of its geographical position escaped the cataclysms of the war years. But Latvia, which was first ravaged by the war, then had one struggle for independence and another to restore civil order, is ten years afterward a shining example of a combined peasant and industrial state, where industry balances with agriculture and every one is busy every day.

Few Jobless in Winter.

For the last few years there has been no unemployment in summer and in the winter only 1,000 or 1,500 workless in a population of 2,000,000. The few jobless have been taken care of through state assistance. This has taken the form of provision of public work at standard wages, or in cases where it is not possible, an allowance of about 60 cents daily, which is enough to ward off starvation until times improve.

This small group of unemployed has been almost entirely in the building and transport trades, in which it is impossible to work outdoors during severe weather.

The result of the plentitude of work is the disappearance of communism, which a few years ago was a real menace. "Good police and no poverty," is the explanation to this change given by a government official. There are now about 200 known communists in the country, mostly maintained by Moscow, and they spend most of their time in jail. The police are efficient and hard boiled, and pounce on them in every attempt to disturb the public order before they have had time to create a disturbance.

New Prosperity in Sight.

Additional prosperity is hoped for by the trade treaty now under negotiation with the neighboring state of Lithuania. This will permit the exchange of Lithuanian agricultural products for Latvian manufactures and for a great variety of imported goods handled by Latvian merchants.

Transit trade with Russia is also growing rapidly, now amounting to 300,000 tons yearly, which adds prosperity to the port of Riga where even six or seven years ago the docks were grass grown. Today they are scenes of constant activity.

FRENCH SHAKE UP NAVY TO DEVELOP STRATEGIC BASES

Noted Admiral Appointed to Mediterranean Post.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 17.—A radical shakeup in the French navy, involving the command of three important naval bases, was announced today by Minister of Marine J. L. Dumesnil. Three vice admirals with exceptional reputations for energy and capacity of work were appointed maritime prefects of the naval bases of Brest, Toulon and Pizerte, Tunis—jobs which hitherto were considered routine posts.

It is explained that this step was taken in order to reorganize the bases to meet wartime conditions whenever necessary. The appointment of Vice Admiral Brearte de Boisanger, one of the heroes of the Dardanelles, to the prefecture of Bizerte is especially significent.

Base Close to Italy.

Bizerte has hitherto been of small administrative importance, but has always been recognized as a strategic base of highest importance. It is the point in Africa closest to Italy, and but a short plane hop from Palermo and Naples, big naval bases, and Sardinia.

Vice Admiral de Boisanger will have charge of the work of fortifying and defending the whole north African coast, a task to which the ministry of marine at present attaches the greatest importance.

At the same time it was announced that Vice Admiral Herr would be sent to Indo-China as commander of the eastern fleet. This is the first time so high an officer has been assigned permanently to the orient.

Revamp Technical Branch.

Also a sweeping reorganization will be made of all technical services with the idea of increasing their scope of authority. A technical committee will report directly to the ministry of marine regarding the progress of the naval program.

One curious feature of the new order is the decision to train naval cadets on sailing vessels as well as steam craft. Several old windjammers will be fitted up and the cadets will be taken on long cruises, being obliged to manage all the details of handling the boat. The theory of the new ruling is to develop a sense of navigation and general seamanship.

MOSCOW CLAIMS BERLIN AS SOLE 'CAPITALIST PAL'

Feels Sorry for Germans Over War Debts.

BY LORIMER HAMMOND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Germany is the only "capitalistic" power to which the soviet politicians are really inclined to feel at all sympathetic.

Dictator Joseph Stalin made this point clear enough to any one reading the full text of his foreign policy speech at the sixteenth all-Russian congress of the communist party at Moscow recently.

During the congress the soviet censorship prevented foreign newspaper correspondents from telegraphing Stalin's words, unless their interpretations suited the Red government. I have brought an official copy of his speech from Russia, and am now able to report what he actually said.

Germany Post-War Status.

In discussing Germany's post-war status, compared with that of the United States, England and France, the Kremlin dictator said:

"The peculiar relations, which have grown up since the war between Germany and the conquering countries can well be represented by the figure of a pyramid. On top of this America, England and France sit in lordly fashion, holding the Young plan on which is written 'pay.'

"Squashed flat under the weight of this pyramid lies Germany—straining to the last of her resources and forced to spend every ounce of her strength to meet the payments."

Russia's Foreign Debts' Policy.

Then taking up the question of Russia's foreign debts, he said:

"On the condition we are given new credits, we are willing to pay a small part of our pre-war debts, regarding such payments as additional percentage paid on new credits. Without this condition we cannot and should not pay."

He summarized the Red foreign policy toward the "capitalist" nations as follows:

"Whether we will crush and strangle them, or they will crush and strangle us! That is how the question stands."

Will Buy in Germany.

American business men, now in Russia trying to fathom the riddle of the soviet's future possibilities were impressed by Stalin's lavish display of friendliness toward Germany. Several believe his words added considerable to the report, suggesting that Moscow will, in the future, prefer to buy machinery and expert technical help from Germany the same as before the war, instead of going to the United States, where credit terms are not so easy.

It is known that during the last six months German bankers, engineers and industrialists have been swarming into Russia.

According to current reports Germans now going to Russia hail very largely from the old Junker class—adventurers in power, war and politics. The scientific branches of the soviets' big war machine are now nearly all commanded by German officers, it is reliably reported. Construction of new fighting planes is being directed by Col. Schubert and Maj. Niedermayer, both German experts in military aviation.

German Military Instructors.

A German engineer, named Nass, directs the soviet army's poison gas factory at Trotsk, in Samara province. In the use of poison gas Russian troops are trained by two German officers, Col. von der Lidt and Maj. Tchunke. Four more German officers act as military advisers to the soviet general staff. These four are Gen. von Hammerstein, Gen. Tomsen, Gen. Indwig, and Col. Kilenthal.

Soviet authorities claim that Gen. Blucher, commanding the Red army stationed along the Chinese border, is a Russian factory worker, merely nicknamed Blucher; but Russian officers, who have served under him, say he is really the former Prussian imperial staff officer, serving in the Red army incognito.

Concerning the Chinese situation Stalin said in his congressional speech:

"Only the soviets can save China."

"U. S. Has Advantage."

A considerable part of his speech was devoted to outlining the soviet attitude toward Anglo-American relations.

"The greatest capitalist nations are no longer satisfied with their old spheres of influence, and in the old distribution of colonies," he said. "The most severe of the new rivalries is that between the United States and Great Britain. The principal arenas of this struggle are South America, China, and the colonial dominions.

"From our viewpoint there is a definite advantage, and that advantage is on the side of the United States."

Speaking of the communist conquest of the far east, Stalin continued:

"No countries are more rigidly guarded against our Russian bolshevism than China, India, and Indo-China. And what of it? Bolshevism is increasing in every one of those countries, and it will continue to increase despite all anti-Red cordons. They can't keep us out."

The Row over Bessarabia.

When Stalin mentioned Bessarabia he made what is perhaps a most significant statement. After bitterly recalling the history of the quarrel between Russian and Rumania over the ownership of the Bessarabian territory, he declared heatedly:

"We don't want territorial conquest, but we do not intend to surrender 1 inch of Russian soil!"

This remark is particularly interesting in view of the rumor current in Moscow and Leningrad this summer that the soviet government wants to drop the industrialization program, because it is a failure, but can't do it without an excuse—and that it therefore would even consider provoking a war with Rumania in order to be able to say that the five year plan must be postponed.

Russia Too Weak to Peril America, Says Prof. Harper

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—America, in the opinion of Dr. Samuel N. Harper, professor of Russian history and institutions at the University of Chicago, has nothing to fear from soviet Russia, industrially, politically, or socially.

The professor was interviewed today as he passed through here on his way back to America after two months of intensive study of present day conditions in Russia.

Chicago Banker on Trip.

Prof. Harper, who has visited Russia on and off for twenty-six years, was accompanied on his recent tour, which included the Ukraine, northern Caucasus, and the Volga and Leningrad regions, by Dr. Walter Lichtenstein of the First National bank of Chicago.

"Although soviet Russia is making great strides industrially," the professor said, "it is doubtful if it will ever reach the high level of the United States, because it lacks not only the necessary capital, but the engineering and administrative skill, and the natural initiative and enterprise of Americans.

"In a political and social way bolshevik Russia holds no menace for us, because in the thirteen years the soviets have been in power communism has made virtually no headway in the United States. The present standard of life in Russia is so appallingly low that no American workman, however humbly placed, would adopt communism."

Passing Through Crisis.

The class struggle in Russia, Prof. Harper believes, is becoming increasingly bitter. He thinks that although this is the thirteenth year of the revolution, Russia now is facing its most critical and decisive period since the rise to power of the bolshevists.

Prof. Harper found the soviets had made enormous progress industrially within the last few years, but thought the five year plan imposed terrific burdens upon the people.

Living conditions, he said, have become much worse. Prices have reached such fantastic levels as to suggest deliberate inflation. Bread, meat, sugar, butter, and other foodstuffs are being sharply rationed.

Lines of people, he remarked, may everywhere be seen patiently waiting for their allowance of food. They are bluntly told by the government that for the sake of future generations they must suffer for another two or three years.

He found a dearth of shoes, dress goods, paper, tobacco and other articles. A pair of new shoes in Moscow costs 120 rubles, about $60.

Arrest Jugo-Slav Students for Jeering Papal Envoy

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 17.—(AP)—A large group of students noisily jeered the papal nuncio to Jugo-Slavia, Msgr. Pellegrinetti, as he marched in a eucharistic procession at Zagreb today. Many were arrested by police.

Consular System for Vatican.

ROME, Aug. 17.—Vatican City authorities plan to appoint papal consuls in the principal cities of the world, it was announced today. The first consul will likely be assigned to Rome. The consuls abroad will be prelates and attached to the nunciatures.

ITALIAN BORDER GUARDS FIRE ON FRENCH TOURISTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 17.—What is feared may develop into a serious international incident occurred yesterday along the Italian border, when Fascist frontier guards fired on a party of French tourists. The shooting occurred in the mountains above Nice, near Saint-Martin-Vesubie, where the border line juts sharply into French territory—an arbitrary arrangement made to permit the Italian king to extend his royal hunting park into what would normally be French soil.

Unaware of this arrangement, a party of four tourists started on a hike, planning to lunch at the village of Boreon, inside the Italian border. Not realizing they had crossed the frontier, the hikers did not heed the shouts of the border guard, who fired several volleys in their direction.

Two ran to shelter and the other two climbed to the Italian frontier post to protest. After verifying their tourist passports, the Italian authorities freed them.

HOOVER LODGE SCENE OF MORE DROUGHT TALKS

Hyde, Legge in Conference with President.

Orange, Va., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The mountain lodge of President Hoover was the scene today of further conferences on the drought situation between the President, Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the federal farm board, but no conclusions were announced.

Word from the camp said the President expected the governors of 13 states, originally included in the relief organization, to have completed their setup of state relief committees by Tuesday and that the complete program would be well under way soon afterward.

However, the appointment by Gov. Pollard of former Gov. Byrd as chairman of Virginia's relief committee was the only one officially to come to the President's attention today.

Considers Air Problems.

Between walks along nearby mountain trails the President also continued his conferences today with departmental air chiefs on problems confronting commercial aviation and possible federal steps to awaken greater interest in the industry.

The chief executive has been informed this country is lagging somewhat and he is anxious that it be speeded up through expansion of air mail services, principally to Latin-America, closer cooperation between the government and those engaged in the industry, and other means.

F. Trubee Davison and David S. Ingalls, air chiefs respectively of the war and navy departments, flew back to Washington today from the camp, leaving Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics; W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of the air mail, and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to return later by automobile.

Lindberghs Work Puzzles.

The President and his large party of guests amused themselves variously over the week-end. Some took to the bridle paths while others, including Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, found diversion with indoor darts and picture puzzles.

Miniature golf invaded the area adjacent to the Hoover camp for the first time this week and was available for those of the party enthusiastic enough to go a mile to play. United States marines constructed the course.

Allan Hoover, younger son of the President and Mrs. Hoover, was said to have tried his luck at the new pastime but Col. Lindbergh was too engrossed in the improvised flying field nearby, also built by the marines, to facilitate the Hoover mail delivery from Washington.

The presidential party will leave tomorrow morning for Washington.

was 2.3 feet, a rise of .1 of a foot in 24 hours. Government engineers said the flow increase through the Chicago sanitary canal had not yet been felt there and were unable to predict when the benefit would come.

At Quincy, Ill., which is above the junction of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, the stage was 1.6 feet, a slight decline from Saturday's reading, while the Illinois stage all along the line continued at its lowest in years.

Iowa Crop Is Increased.

Crop experts estimated that the late corn yield in Iowa would increase at least ten bushels an acre as a result of the week-end rains. That the entire state received plentiful precipitation was demonstrated from the following rainfall figures: Fort Dodge, 1.18 inch; Ottumwa, .32; Storm Lake, 2 inches; Davenport, 1.6, and Boone, .18 inch.

The withering tobacco crop in southwestern Wisconsin, withering for lack of moisture, was measurably benefited by rain which amounted to .8 of an inch in Dane county. Scattered showers in Minnesota and the Dakotas improved conditions in the corn, late wheat and potato fields.

Helpless Woman Rescued from Flames in Home

Alone in her home at 4737 Kenwood avenue last night, Mrs. A. M. Simpson, 59 years old, a widow, whose left side is paralyzed, was helpless to move from her armchair when fire broke out in a clothes closet. Frank Ruffolo, 5490 Dorchester avenue, passing in his car, saw Mrs. Simpson's plight through a window. He ran in and carried her to safety. She was taken to the Illinois Central hospital, unconscious. The fire was extinguished with a loss of $2,000.

FATHER AND SON SHOT BY DRYS IN PISTOL FIGHT

Newman, Ga., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Earl McCollough, 30, was seriously wounded and his father, Van McCollough, 55, injured in a pistol battle with federal prohibition officers at their home at Alvaton. One of the government agents received a slight flesh wound.

Investigating Shooting.

Columbus, Ga., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Fred Desmuke of Macon, Ga., deputy federal prohibition administrator, is investigating the shooting at Alvaton, Ga.

Desmuke said the officers went to the McCollough home to serve a warrant after liquor had been sold there several days ago to a dry agent.

One of the officers, W. K. Johnston, Jr., is under indictment on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of Ray Rodgers, alleged liquor runner. Johnston is under bond and his case is pending in federal court.

LEWIS ADVOCATES U. S. GOVERNMENT CARE FOR AGED

While carefully avoiding use of the term "old age pensions," James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for senator, in a speech yesterday advocated governmental care for the aged.

Appearing at a celebration of the founding of the Norwegian Old People's home at Norwood Park, the ex-senator said there should be a plan whereby the federal government would take care of old age.

"This aid should not be given as a pension, but as a return to those unfortunate old people who have given their best years to the service of their country and fellow citizens," he said. "America is the richest nation in the world and it is a reflection upon our institutions and our generosity that America can provide billions of dollars for foreign nations and foreign interests and leave our old and helpless people in need and want."

..how to economize on food

WHEN women get together, nowadays, economy and thrift are popular topics.

And one frequently overhears women telling of a simple method they are following to keep eating costs down, and family health up.

That simple method is—the regular use each day of at least a quart of milk for each member of the family.

Then the food bill goes down because the milk supplies more than one fourth of the daily food needs.

The family health goes up, because milk supplies so much body-building and health-maintaining food value: protein for body building; minerals for blood, teeth, and bone; vitamins for health and growth; fat and sugar for energy.

In addition to drinking milk regularly with the meals, there are many delightful ways to use more milk in the cooking. The meals become more appetizing as well as more nourishing and more economical.

If you have no regular milkman, get in touch with us by phone or letter and your neighborhood Borden milkman will call. He will be glad to leave milk at your door every morning. Also he delivers eggs and cottage cheese—two other cheap foods that will help you feed your family well at lower cost.

Copyright 1930, by Borden Farm Products Company of Illinois.

Low Cost Milk Dishes

Where can you get a satisfying and appetizing meal for less money than bread and milk or crackers and milk, using either white or graham crackers? It is the favorite lunch of many business men. Hot milk on fresh crisp toast makes an invigorating and nourishing breakfast. Then there are many delightful soups to be made with milk: potato soup, asparagus soup, tomato soup, and chowder. Chipped beef in milk gravy is always enjoyed, and milk gravy for potatoes and bread always goes well.

Valuable Leaflet on Request

For the dessert: custards, junkets, rice and milk, bread pudding, and cabinet puddings are just a few of the delightful dishes made with milk. Look in your cook book for other ideas. The Milk Council of Greater Chicago has published a valuable leaflet—"How to Feed Your Family Better at a Lower Cost." Phone Franklin 3110, write us, or ask your Borden milkman for a copy.

WANT TO SAVE MONEY? GO TO CHINA AND LIVE

Silver Slump Plus U. S. Cash Shanghai Lure.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 17.—The fall in the silver rate in its relation to gold, which makes the Chinese silver dollar now worth about 30 cents in American money, has made Shanghai the "happy hunting ground" for those who would live cheaply. It has been reported that several thousand American expatriates, who reside in Europe because they claim living prices are less than they are in the United States, are now making arrangements to quit Paris, Berlin, Rome, and Vienna and go to Shanghai.

Though the cost of living here has mounted considerably since silver hit the toboggan about six months ago, food prices here are ridiculously low as compared to the United States. Prices for foreign food commodities naturally went up, but the careful housewife can make both ends meet with a minimum of foreign food articles.

Cantaloupe for 7 Cents.

Eight cantaloupes sell for two Chinese dollars, or about 60 cents in American money, or a little over 7 cents each. A basket containing 215 peaches can be purchased for 30 cents.

Prices charged by hotels, clubs, and boarding houses also give some indication of the relatively low cost of living. It is possible to obtain a comfortable room with bath and three excellent meals a day at the American club in Shanghai for less than $85 a month. At one first rate boarding house it is possible to obtain food and room for the equivalent of about $60 a month in United States currency. A man and wife can live at the same boarding house, with room and bath and meals, for about $90 a month.

An American sailor who receives $80 a month told me that he was "sequestering" $60 a month and living on the remaining $20. He, of course, receives his food and clothing from Uncle Sam, and the $20 goes for amusement.

Hotel Prices Low.

Shanghai's first class hotels, of which there are two or three, have all raised their prices since the slump in silver, but even with the increase the prices are still low for service one would have to pay considerably more for in the United States. The Cathay, the leading hotel, charges $1.50 for three meals.

An apartment consisting of two bedrooms, two baths, living and dining rooms and kitchen, plus two servants, costs about $175 a month in American money.

The chief problem for the foreign housewife in Shanghai is the purchase of food. The careful housewife visits the city market early in the day to make her own purchases. She also learns it is possible to live almost exclusively on so-called Chinese foods, one of the most popular being bamboo-shoots, which may be prepared in dozens of ways. However, the Chinese market gardeners have been quick to sense the foreign demand in Shanghai, particularly since the influx of Americans, so that it is now possible to purchase such articles as sweet corn, cauliflower, tomatoes, potatoes, practically as good as they are produced in American gardens at prices unbelievably low.

Price of Drinks Go Up.

Recently there was a howl in the American community because the American Columbia Country club raised the prices of its drinks. But even with the increased Chinese customs duties and increased prices due to depreciated silver, the prices aren't so bad. "Bar lists" quote Pommery and Greno champagne at $26.60 for one dozen quarts; Pommard burgundy, $16.60; Martinez-Three Club sherry, $20.40; Old Tawny port, $16.60; best sauterne white wine, $9.50; "F. O. V." brandy [finest], $45.26; Special Club whisky, $16.25; Green Chartreuse liqueur, $48.80. The best imported English stout was listed at $19.48 for two dozen pints. Jamaica rum costs about $9 for a dozen quarts.

CHICAGO RETAIL FOOD PRICES DECLINE 3 PCT. IN JULY, U. S. REPORTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Retail food prices declined 3 per cent in Chicago during the month from June 15 to July 15 and 8 per cent in the year ending the latter date, according to a report made today by the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor. The one month decline for the country as a whole was slightly more than 2.5 per cent and the year decline 9 per cent.

During the month in 43 cities the average price of potatoes and cabbage dropped 7 per cent; chuck roast and oranges, 5 per cent; round steak, hens, flour, and prunes, 4 per cent; leg of lamb, cheese, lard, and onions, 2 per cent, and fresh and evaporated milk, macaroni, canned corn, canned peas, raisins, and bananas, 1 per cent.

Blast Starts $25,000 Fire in Packing House Laboratory

A 3-11 fire yesterday in the laboratories of Wilson & Co., meat packers at 4221-27 South Western avenue, resulted in damage estimated at $25,000 by Chief Deputy Fire Marshal Daniel J. Carmody. Irving Michaels and James Graham, colored, who were working in the meat drying room when a small quantity of alcohol exploded, escaped injury by jumping from a first story window.

INDIANA BATTLES CORN BORER FOR CONTROL OF CROP

Search 102,000 Vehicles for Pest in 2 Weeks.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—In a battle between insect devastation and man made devices, two armies are fighting for control of corn growing sections of Indiana. At the quarantine station one mile west of this city a total of 102,000 vehicles has been stopped in slightly more than two weeks' time, thousands of ears of sweet corn have been retained by United States department of agriculture men, and a total of 244 corn borers have been put in bottles in a liquid preservant.

Twenty-four hours a day the men stop cars coming out of the infested area which covers the northeastern tier of counties in the state as well as all of Michigan, most of Ohio and Pennsylvania and all of New York and Vermont. On Aug 8 there were 219 corn borers found in a truckload of sweet corn bound for Gary, which is not infested, from a corn borer area in eastern Michigan. The hucksters lost 1,600 ears of sweet corn.

Fly and Wasp Foe of Pest.

Twenty men work in shifts similar to those used at the 45 other quarantine stations in the state. J. C. Kryal, supervisor of the Michigan City force, states that around 450 men are engaged in the station work in the several states affected, in addition to a similar sized crew out scouting in infested and supposedly free territories.

W. P. Flint, state entomologist or insect expert for Illinois, reports that 20,000 to 40,000 parasites which feed on the despised corn borer are being liberated in infested areas each day. One fly and one wasp, in particular, he reports, have been found most active in devouring the pest that mows down corn fields.

Drought Aids Fighters.

No startling advance of the borer is being found and on the contrary there has been some decrease of infestation due to the dry weather, Mr. Flint states. The plan is to increase the number of parasites liberated as fast as possible. They were imported from Europe and bred and tested for the effect in controlling and wiping out the horde of worms.

Field men report that the greatest difficulty in curbing the borer is found in its family life cycle which includes the moth, the pupa, and the larva, which does the feeding. In the moth stage the pest can fly as far as 20 miles, which permits easy access to virgin borer free areas in which the borer can feed after another life cycle has rolled around.

P. T. Ulman of the Indiana state department of conservation, is in charge of the 46 Indiana quarantine stations on highways, in cooperation with C. O. Larrabee, in charge of quarantine work of the United States department of agriculture in West Virginia, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana.

ROBBERS STEAL TWO RADIOS.

Pana, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Sheriff D. L. Dunbar was today investigating the burglary of two grain elevator offices at Mount Auburn last night. The burglars stole two radios and guns kept to repulse bandits.

PROTEST PAY BOOSTS FOR CITY HALL FAVORITES

See Employes Rewarded for Political Work.

The methods used by aldermen to pay a few favored city hall employés for political services have caused protests from city civil service employés who are unsponsored politically. The latter assert that the political helpers of the aldermen are favored when salary increases and promotions are passed out at the city hall.

The cause of the current outburst is said to be due to the salary increases granted to 60 employés in an ordinance adopted at the last meeting of the council. Other workers had been told at a recent meeting of the finance committee by Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman, that there would be no increases granted this year because of the city's financial condition.

Change System of Pay.

In another ordinance the council authorized Building Commissioner Paschen to pay 18 elevator inspectors on the basis of an annual salary rate instead of on a per diem basis. This change was made, according to reports in the city hall, so that the employés would be paid for the numerous holidays given to city employés.

Six Ordinances Passed.

While the unfavored employés resent the inclusion of only a few workers in these two ordinances they are more aroused by the passage of six other ordinances, each of which granted a salary increase to only one employé.

The aldermen who introduced the six ordinances are Louis B. Anderson [2d], William D. Meyering [8th], Terence F. Moran [16th], who introduced two of the ordinances; John Toman [23d], and Frank R. Ringa [39th].

SLAIN ROBBER IDENTIFIED AS HOLDUP KILLER

Louis Kainz, 19 years old, 1289 Clybourn avenue, shot to death by Policeman Edward Lynn last Friday night when he and two other robbers attempted to hold up a restaurant at 509 North Franklin street, was identified yesterday as the bandit who shot and killed Sam Esserman, delicatessen proprietor at 264 North Kedzie avenue, the night of July 27. Esserman was behind the counter waiting on three customers, when Kainz and a companion entered and ordered them to put up their hands. Esserman hesitated and Kainz shot him. James O. Smith, 3141 Fulton street, one of the customers, made the identification after looking at the body of Kainz.

HOOVER HUNTS MAN TO SUCCEED MORROW AS ENVOY TO MEXICO

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Selection of a successor to Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, is one of the problems now before President Hoover for solution.

Several names have been mentioned for the post, the most frequent being that of J. Reuben Clark, former undersecretary of state and now the private assistant of Mr. Morrow at the American embassy in Mexico City.

President Hoover appointed Mr. Clark special ambassador for the inauguration of President Ortiz Rubio while Ambassador Morrow was absent in London at the naval conference. Since that time friends of Mr. Clark have been urging his selection as permanent ambassador.

George Rublee, formerly of Chicago, an intimate friend of Ambassador Morrow and his adviser at the London naval conference, has also been mentioned in connection with the Mexico City assignment.

Auto Bus Plunges Into River; 8 Killed, 6 Hurt

SPINDELMUEHLE, Silesia, Germany, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Eight persons were killed and six injured in an auto bus accident here today. An overland auto bus carrying thirteen passengers skidded on a wet road, smashed through a stone wall and plunged into the Elbe river. The conductor saved himself by jumping off, but the chauffeur and the passengers were all carried into the river.

CORONATION OF CAROL OFF; WIFE PLANS LONG TRIP

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The coronation of King Carol was definitely postponed today and will take place in the spring of 1931. Queen Helene plans a prolonged absence on a journey. The reasons for postponing the ceremony were said to be personal as well as political and economic.

Ecclesiastical and civil officials have been making elaborate preparations with the understanding that the coronation ceremony would be held Oct. 15. Carol desired services more closely approximating those of the Greek orthodox rite than were used in the last two coronations.

The last two kings were pious Roman Catholics. The patriarch, Miron Cristea, has been studying old scrolls in an attempt to satisfy Carol's wishes.

BEAUTY SHOP OWNERS URGE PRICE INQUIRY

An investigation into discriminatory prices in violation of the federal trade practice act was urged yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the Central States Beauty Shop and Barber Supply Dealers' association in session at the Hotel Sherman. According to Joseph Byrnes, executive secretary of the association, beauty shop operators have complained that supply dealers vary their prices to customers. "The result," Byrnes said, "is that the beauty operators must make varied charges and the public suffers."

Make the ball and bottle test

. . . try this interesting experiment yourself

IT WILL TAKE YOU only three seconds to see that New Iso-Vis will not thin out. Ask any Standard Oil Service Station attendant to show you the Ball and Bottle Test.

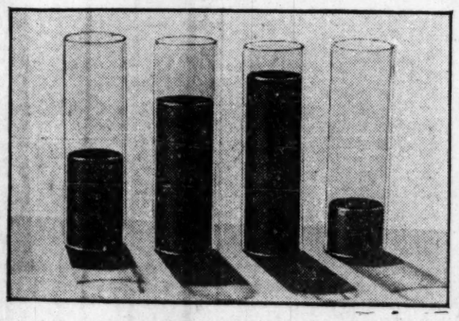
THE ROOT of a large part of all engine trouble is dilution of the oil in your crankcase. Automotive engineers and government experts both recognize this evil.

The research men of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) undertook the job of finding a solution. The result is this oil (prepared by a special patented process) that will not thin out.

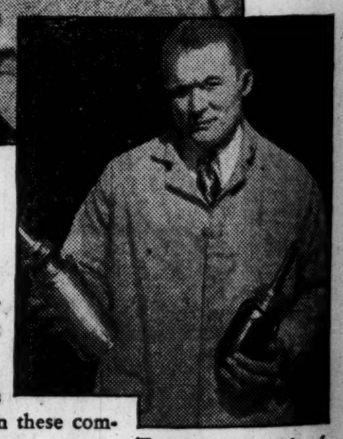
Over and over again, this new oil was tested on all the points vital to the correct lubrication of the modern high compression engine. Here are the facts these tests revealed:

1. New Iso-Vis maintains the same body throughout its stay in the crankcase.
2. New Iso-Vis shows a marked reduction in carbon formation.
3. New Iso-Vis, has a wider lubricating range. It is efficient under extremes of both heat and cold.
4. New Iso-Vis outranks all other motor oils on these combined factors.



THE CARBON formed with New Iso-Vis (on the right) is compared with that of three premium-priced oils. This evidence was secured under exactly the same conditions.

TURN THE BOTTLES upside down. The steel balls sink to the bottom—the more body the oil has, the slower the ball will drop. Compare the New Iso-Vis that has been run many hundreds of miles with the fresh New Iso-Vis. Here is proof that this motor oil will not thin out. You see, too, the vast difference between "used" New Iso-Vis and the thin, used oil of another make.



THE CLEAR amber color of New Iso-Vis on the left indicates its high refinement. It is Wholly Distilled by a new process. Its sturdy body contains no undistilled parts of crude.

New Iso-Vis is a Wholly Distilled oil—made by a new process of refining. It has a sturdy body, obtained without adding undistilled parts of the crude.

This improved motor oil is now on sale at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations.

The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining processes—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by the New Iso-Vis. The price is 25c a quart.

MOTOR UNITS NO MORE EXPENSIVE, ARMY MAN SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—A plea for more motor transportation and fighting machines, such as the modern light fast tank, in the American military establishment, on the ground that such a step would be economy, is made by Capt. John R. Christmas, chief of the automotive section, artillery division, in army ordnance.

Capt. Christmas scoffs at the criticism that machine fighting forces are too expensive. A tank fighting unit of the same fire power and battle efficiency of the infantry regiment, he says, could be maintained at one-third the annual cost of the doughboy unit.

To obtain his conclusions, Capt. Christmas compared the annual maintenance costs for material and personnel of an infantry regiment and a tank battalion. He argued that a comparison disclosed the fire power of these two units to be approximately the same.

Hoover for Mechanization.

The campaign now being carried on by President Hoover to cut down army expenditures led to the Christmas article. According to war department officials, President Hoover is interested in army mechanization, but comparatively little money will be spent on fighting machine development and its application to the peace time army this coming year.

"There is some discussion of mechanization," states Capt. Christmas. "This is promising, but unfortunately there seems to be considerable more argument than investigation. Like all new ideas, mechanization is meeting with its share of opposition from the 'it can't be done' school.

"Before attacking the problem of the cost of buying machines and motor equipment for army units we must arrive at a unit of value by which to measure the combat organizations of an army in terms of power to destroy the army. We may fairly compare the combat efficiencies of units by their fire power; that is, the maximum amount of projectiles they can discharge against the enemy per minute.

"Equal in Efficiency."

"The latest tables of organization showing weapons carried by various units and their enlisted strength disclose that when both combat units are putting forth their maximum efforts the light tank battalion has a fire power 1.34 times as great as that of the infantry regiment. We may thus fairly regard a light tank battalion as the equal of the infantry regiment in fire power and general combat efficiency.

"The next question that arises is then: If these two units are equal in fighting power, which has the lowest maintenance cost?"

Capt. Christmas sets the annual cost of maintenance of the infantry regiment, in so far as officers and enlisted men are concerned, at $3,888,500. His cost of personnel maintenance for the light tank battalion is $700,500. He estimates the annual maintenance cost of each soldier at $1,100 per year.

Plan Closer Co-operation as Bar Association Meets Today

Plans for organization of the bar associations of the United States so that the 50,000 lawyers now enrolled in such associations may be banded together to act collectively towards such goals as they may select will be discussed this morning as the 15th annual meeting of the American Bar association opens at the Stevens hotel.

At the last meeting of the association, a committee was created to study a plan of reorganization in the American bar and make a report. This report, as drafted by Philip J. Wickser, chairman, was made public yesterday. It read in part:

'There is a growing feeling for some plan that will coördinate the bar associations of the country so that the American Bar association may more fully represent and make effective the sentiment of the profession.

600 New Organizations.

"In the last two decades, more than 600 new bar associations have come into existence. These associations have progressed from organizations preoccupied with annual dinners and funeral gatherings to organizations that are shaping legislation, purging their own ranks, prescribing rules of practice, publishing their own journals, and performing many other services to the profession and the community."

Pointing out that this growing energy should be harnessed "to meet the needs and enlarge the usefulness of the whole profession," the report stated that accurate information from state bar associations and bar leaders concerning their atitude toward an opinion of affiliation between the state and American Bar association should be in possession of a committee undertaking a solution of the problem.

A recommendation was made that a special committee be appointed to obtain such information and make a full report on a plan of affiliation to the executive committee in January, 1931.

A number of leading women lawyers, members of the National Association for Women Lawyers, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to attend the convention of the association. They will have a two day session of their own at the Congress hotel Wednesday and Thursday.

Prominent Women to Attend.

Among those expected are Federal Judge Genevieve Cline of Washington, Mary F. Lathrop, member of the general council of Denver; Judge Florence Allen of the Ohio Superior court, Judge Jean Norris of New York, Judge Mary O'Toole of the Children's court in Washington, and Judge Mary Barteime of the Juvenile court of Chicago.

The American Judicature society and the Conference of Bar Association delegates of the American Bar association are to meet at a joint banquet tonight in the Stevens hotel. Judge Clarence N. Goodwin will preside. Dean Leon Green of the Northwestern university law school will speak. Following the dinner there will be a meeting of the directors of the American Judicature society.

FIND DECLINE IN BANKRUPTCIES IN RURAL REGIONS

An increase in the number of petitions in bankruptcy filed in cities in the last year has been offset by a decrease in similar petitions in rural districts, Herbert M. Bierce, secretary treasurer of the National Association of Referees in Bankruptcy, declared yesterday.

Members of the association will open their fifth annual conference in Chicago today. The conference will last two days. A meeting of the executive committee was held in the Congress hotel yesterday.

"Reports from referees in both metropolitan and country centers indicate that there has been no revival of a serious bankruptcy condition," Mr. Bierce said. "Although, in the large cities, the number of cases has increased, there have been no big failures. There has been a distinct decrease in the number of petitions filed in country districts."

U. S. Matador Kills Two Bulls, but Fans Jeer Him

MADRID, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Sidney Franklin of Brooklyn, N. Y., Spain's American matador, this afternoon returned to the ring after an absence of two months only to receive a razzing from the fans because of the color of his costume. Franklin killed two bulls, but the ringsiders didn't like his salmon pink suit embroidered with white lacings. Traditions of the bull ring decree that the matador appear in the colors of the Spanish flag—a scarlet cape and gold braids.

THE CENSUS AND FOREIGN POLICY.

The population of continental United States is 122,728,873.

The United States contains nearly twice as many people as Germany, nearly three times as many as the United Kingdom, and more than three times as many as either France or Italy. Our population is about equal to that of Great Britain, France and Italy combined. There is only one nation of white men, Russia, which is larger, and it is larger by less than 10 per cent.

In per capita wealth, in industrial and agricultural production, in production and reserves of many of the more essential raw materials, our leadership is even more pronounced than in population. The growth in wealth is itself the best evidence of the energy of the American people, evidence that is supported by a mass of testimony from foreign observers. Many of them say that we have not learned to enjoy our abundance and that we still find our principal satisfaction in producing it. The comment itself is a testimonial to our energy.

Students of demography say that the population of the United States will be stabilized within a few generations at 175 or 200 million. Many of the European populations have reached the point of stabilization already, the only important exceptions being Russia, Italy, and Poland. There is little reason to suppose that the relative strength in numbers, wealth and energy of the United States among the white nations, which, in turn, dominate most of the world, is likely to be altered materially for generations to come.

The British dominions are relatively empty. They might support large populations, but there seems to be no great likelihood of their doing so. Sir Leo Chiozza Money pointed out recently that there are only 21,100,000 white persons in the British empire outside of Europe. In the last decade the average annual increase of white population in the colonies and dominions has been only 333,000, with the more recent years showing the smaller increases. "It is a condition next to stagnation," he says. It has taken 400 years to give Canada a white population of less than 10,000,000 and 150 years to give Australia 6,700,000. The population of the United States is double the white population of the entire British empire, and if the proportion changes it will probably not shift in favor of the empire.

These considerations of population and, collaterally, of wealth and energy cannot be overlooked by any one seeking to formulate an American foreign policy. They expose the aims of our amateur colonials on the eastern seaboard in their full absurdity. America is constantly being urged to "take its place beside the other nations" on terms of equality. The intimation is that by so doing we should aggrandize ourselves. The fact is that if we accepted these proposals the smaller, weaker and poorer nations would be in a position to command the services of the greatest, the strongest and the richest.

We could expect no advantage from such a relationship. Our strength and resources would be in greater or less degree at the disposal of others and it is difficult to believe that our welfare would be given its due consideration when policies were being determined. The internationalists regard a stable world as the ideal to be achieved by international organization, but we can imagine no situation which would make for greater instability than dominance of the stronger by the weaker.

The first task of statesmanship must be to align policy with the fact of power; otherwise policy becomes merely an expression of idle desire and not a realizable goal. Once the underlying fact of power is overlooked or ignored, trouble can hardly be avoided. We need not go outside our own history for an example. The south had preponderant political influence in Washington in the fifties, but the north was stronger in population, wealth and industry. The civil war came to correct the balance. The era of reconstruction which followed is often spoken of as the darkest period in American history, but it was the logical result of the war. Only by the enfranchisement of the disfranchised could the facts of power be reflected in political control by the north. As soon as the dominance of the north was established beyond the ability of the southern states to upset it the era of reconstruction came to a close.

The European nations are not ready to hand over undisputed leadership in world affairs to the United States, and, it should be added, the United States does not aspire to any such position. We will coöperate in specific proposals from time to time as circumstances dictate, but beyond that we cannot go. Our so-called isolation should be welcomed in Europe as an assurance that we do not propose to impose our power upon the old world, though it is scarcely to be doubted that we could do so if we chose to.

THE WAVES AGAIN DEFY CANUTE.

The Supreme court decided that the diversion of water from the great lakes through the Chicago drainage canal was lowering the level of the lakes. Therefore the court ordered that the diversion be reduced, gradually, over the years. Under the schedule of reductions, the diversion today is supposed to be only a little over 6,000 cubic feet.

As a matter of fact, the diversion has been increased to 12,000 feet, the greatest flow in its history, by order of the President and the secretary of war. They acted because they had to. The drought has reduced the normal flow in the Illinois river to the point where the withdrawal of only 6,000 feet a second from the great lakes constituted a menace to health and comfort downstream. More than that, the Mississippi river, upon which the war department operates a barge line and which the department is charged with maintaining as a navigable stream, is dangerously low. The additional water from the lakes is needed to maintain river transport.

The finding of the Supreme court could not stand against these necessities, for the finding was based on a faulty conclusion as to facts. The diversion at Chicago has not lowered the lakes. They are higher today, in a year of drought, than the average height for 70 years, according to recent computations by the Canadian government. The Supreme court's order was based on the assumption that the lakes had been lowered. They have not been lowered, and, because they have not, the court's order, based on an error, has been overridden by another agency of the government.

The secretary of war camouflaged his action with honeyed words, but what he said is relatively unimportant. The fact is that the court made a mistake which contravened the facts and the necessities of the situation. Not even the dignity of the court and the powerful sanction of its unanimous verdict could withstand the pressure of a contrary reality.

RECORDS FROM GANGLAND.

Every big city in the country has its gang murders. There are no exceptions. And there have been no convictions of powerful gangster-murderers anywhere in this country in recent years.

Chicago has harbored racketeers and permitted assassination to go unpunished, and so has every other important city in the United States. Rothstein in New York was murdered and, though the killer may be known, he has not been punished. Scarcely a day goes by without its gang killing somewhere in New York. Buffalo and Cleveland have their quota of unsolved gang crimes. Ten gang murders in as many days in Detroit were climaxed by the assassination of a so-called political reformer. From Boston and Philadelphia to St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul and San Francisco the story is the same in its essentials. The cast and scenery change but the plot is identical. The hoodlums kill and are unpunished by the public authorities everywhere.

It looks as if the words "except in Chicago" will have to be added to the generalization. Progress has been made in solving the murder of Al Lingle, THE TRIBUNE reporter. Foster has been indicted for the murder. The business records of Jack Zuta, the murdered racketeer, have been located and the prosecuting authorities are examining them in detail. They show where the racketeers' income came from and they provide evidence for the first time of the relations of gangdom with politics and the police.

This is a tremendous advance over anything that has been accomplished hitherto in any American city toward the suppression of the universal threat to society. The Zuta journals may throw light on the Lingle murderers, and, more than that, they promise exposure and prosecution of gangsters and their allies who have hitherto enjoyed immunity.

State's Attorney Swanson and his able assistants who uncovered the Zuta records deserve the thanks of this community. They will receive the loyal coöperation of every man and woman in Chicago who can aid them, in any way, in their work. Chicago is on the way to becoming the first great city in America to rid itself of gangster influence and gangster assassination. The energy and resourcefulness which uncovered the Zuta papers will follow through. The day of reckoning is measurably nearer.

SNAPPY BRITISH RAILROADING.

London reports that a new type of English sleeping car has been put in service. It is described as a "bedroom car fitted with deep rubber floors, colored lights and patent ventilators. The room is finished in a soothing pale blue, containing a full size walnut bed with springs and mattress, running hot and cold water, large beveled mirrors, folding tables and heavy shutters, insuring complete darkness. There is a padded niche for a watch at the bedside, where there are also switches regulating the flow of cleansed hot or cold air. The lights dim or brighten at will."

The traditional conservatism of the English people doesn't get into their railroading. That seems to be operated by restless and aggressive inventiveness which seeks constantly to make a good thing better, to provide more speed and more comfort. The king may go to parliament in the old coach of state, but the big butter and egg man travels with everything of the last minute. The standpattism supposedly attached to English conduct apparently somehow or other has been wished overseas and on American railroading.

DISAGREEMENT ON DAMAGE.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

With the season of heat and drought not definitely ended, we note a wide variation among those who are trying to appraise the damage done to the crops throughout the country.

Men accustomed to deal in farm facts know well that an accurate estimate of the damage is impossible to make as yet. But other writers and some would-be experts jump at conclusions and pronounce the damage either highly exaggerated or the contrary, as their whim or purpose may indicate.

That there has been widespread impairment of the yield of corn and some other farm crops can hardly be disputed. To what extent the damage may eventually lead no one can now tell. One man's guess may be measurably as good as another's. The President and governors of states are moving sensibly in trying to make an accurate estimate, so that whatever emergency help may be needed shall be provided as promptly as possible. The nation's resources are ample to meet the need.

FINICKY CHILDREN.

THERE are two types of children who have finicky appetites and eat poorly, according to Dr. J. H. West. The first, and perhaps the least important of these, are those who later in life are apt to develop into the low blood pressure, fallen organ group. Some of them are long, lean, lanky, and narrow. Others are sway backed and pot bellied.

If the children of this group are given bismuth test meals and then the abdomen is flouroscoped, it is found that they have fallen stomachs and unusual twists and kinks in the digestive tract. To overcome this tendency of the abdominal organs to drop the children should wear abdominal supporters.

They should take gymnastic exercise and engage in corrective play. It is this group who are especially apt to develop acidosis attacks with fever and vomiting periodically. Their diet should run largely to milk, fruits, vegetables, and other alkaline ash foods.

The larger, and probably most important group, are the nervous and high strung children. These children are poor eaters largely because of their diets. They eat too much candy and other carbohydrate foods and not enough protective foods. If they will eat vitamin rich foods for a while their appetites will become normal.

They need especially the foods rich in vitamin B. Among these are yeast and foods in which this plant is a considerable ingredient; wheat germ and those foods which contain it. Among these are canned wheat, middlings, freshly ground whole wheat, cereals, and flours; the germ or embryo of other grains, nuts, peas and beans, lettuce and other greens, green vegetables, stewed and raw fruits, cereals, one pint of milk and meat. The amount of sweets and fats is restricted. The children are not allowed to eat between meals. A midday rest is of great service.

The children of this group generally have a constipation tendency which may call for treatment, though a diet of vegetables and fruits tends to overcome it.

OIL BEFORE SWIMMING.

E. M. H. writes:

1. Before entering the water for a swim on a very hot, sunny day, is it advisable for one to rub himself with olive oil first? I was told this would create infection.

2. Is the climate in the large cities of South America healthful or otherwise?

REPLY.

1. There is no objection to it, provided a fresh, clean oil is used. Infections occur in skins kept constantly greasy and dirty with dirty, rancid, cutting oils. Under other circumstances greasing the skin does not make for boils.

2. There is about as much assortment of climates down that way as is found up here.

WHAT NERVOUS HEART IS.

G. S. writes:

1. What is a nervous heart?
2. Is it serious?
3. What causes it?
4. Is it curable?
5. What must one do and not do?

REPLY.

1. A heart that is easily made to change its stride, to beat fast or slow or irregular.
2. It may be, but usually it is not.
3. Among the causes are goiter, nervousness, too much tobacco, possibly too much coffee.
4. As a rule, it is.
5. If you can find the cause, remedy that.

ROUND SHOULDERS.

Miss A. L. V. writes: I am round shouldered and would be very grateful if you would be kind enough to tell me what to do to straighten them out and the correct way to hold them when I walk.

REPLY.

You are round shouldered because your chest is not flat enough and the muscles of your back and neck are not strong enough. You cannot change the shape of the chest but you can build up your muscles until they can hold your shoulders back. Rowing will do this. So will archery, climbing, rope and ladder work. But whatever you do you will not get results unless you persevere. Therefore the matter comes back to you. Which do you want—round shoulders or hard, muscle building work?

NOISY COVER.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Some time ago the city had a crew clean out the sewers here on Rascher avenue, and, one of the manhole covers being broken, they replaced it with another.

Now, this new cover does not fit snugly, so that every time a machine runs over it it makes an awful clatter, getting on the nerves of various people hereabouts. H. S.

Report is made that manhole cover was reversed, thereby overcoming annoyance complained of. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

JOINT TENANCY PROBLEM.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me as to the following: I own a house in joint tenancy. My former husband is the other joint tenant. He has refused for the last nine months to pay one cent toward the upkeep of this home; also I have paid the interest for the last year. 1. Can this go on indefinitely—he still continue to hold the property in his name when he refuses to pay interest or taxes and I shoulder the whole burden of the building? 2. What steps can be taken, if any, to get the property in my name alone? H. C.

1. Yes.
2. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree, any one of them is entitled to force a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, are chargeable against the proceeds of the sale.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REPAIRS LEAVE HOLES.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When water was put in bungalows on Kelso avenue the street was not properly repaired. Hence there is now a bad hole in the center of the street and the paving has sunk down to the curb the width of excavation. Is there any way of having this repaired, as it gets worse daily and almost every car hits it. J. E. B.

City restoration forces have been instructed to bring up to grade depressed repair [asphalt 8x3] in front of complainant's residence. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IN NO MAN'S LAND.

The gangsters' war gives great concern to all of us who are not rifles or partisans of the struggling armies. No man's land is all over the place, as the armies have no fixed battle fronts. How are we going to convince the gun boys lying in ambush for patrols of the other side to appear that we are simple natives of the region and that we are earnestly opposed to being killed by mistake? After studying the pictures of gangsters on the back page for many months we have decided it might be a good idea for peaceable citizens to cultivate whiskers; gangsters all seem to be smooth shaven. Whiskers would be a fine idea, only after awhile the gangsters would adopt it as a suitable disguise. Whiskers are out! Neutrals in the present war might carry signs, but the gangsters are a suspicious people, and they don't believe anything they read. It's no use trying to look sweet and kindly and full of the milk of human kindness. Gangsters look that way just after they've turned loose with a machine gun at a couple of friends and two other fellows. Especially if they've hit 'em. All the real bad men we've ever read about don't seem to swear, smoke, or drink, and they give money to the poor little match girl who is supporting her crippled father. Maybe it's better to go around with a hang-dog look as though you'd just been arrested for stealing all-day suckers from babies riding in their go-carts in the park. Then everybody would know you weren't a gangster, for they are indeed such young, handsome gentlemen, and quite noble looking. Or maybe it's better to crawl down in the cellar and wait until the cruel war is over.

THE PORTRAIT.

And found but letters of the alphabet
That stepped with mincing gait across the page
But howsoever grouped, said naught of you.

The benediction of the twilight came
With absolution for the passing day;
My fingers fell upon the waiting keys
And softly on the fragrant air arose
The love-call of the Schubert serenade;
Its pleading passion swelled and died, as full
And steady in its purpose to the end,
The Largo's inspiration filled the room.

Followed, the rhythm of that lullaby
That sings earth's tired children down to sleep
With drowsy-dropping chromatiques of sound
Crooning the mystery of mother love.

Sudden . . . one high insistent questioning note
Cried "Warum?" and the slowly belling bass
Repeated, "Warum?" in crescendo tones;
Majors imperative demanded, "Why?"
And, "Why?" the keening minors wailed again
Before that thin-suspended mediant
Flung up its challenge to the very Throne
Then, . . . fell to silence, waiting God's reply.

I looked into the flowering spangled night
And knew that I had played your portrait dear.

"YESSIR," the man on the bus was saying to his friend, "I've been barred off of every golf club in the country because I dig up so many divots; so yesterday I decided to play on a peewee golf course. LITERARY SIDE SWIPES DEPT.

"It is not every day that we can meet an eminent person at dinner and feel that there is a reasonable prospect of the news of his murder being the news that we hear of him next." That's from Wilkie Collins' great mystery story, "The Moonstone," but if the late Mr. Collins had written it in Chicago in the year 1930, all it would have meant would be that it is not every day that we can meet an eminent person at dinner.

"'Once self-supported by conscience, once embarked on a career of manifest usefulness, the true Christian never yields. Neither public nor private influences produce the slightest effect on us, when we have once got our mission. Taxation may be the consequence of a mission; riots may be the consequence of a mission; wars may be the consequence of a mission; we go on with our work, irrespective of every human consideration which moves the world outside us. We are above reason; we are beyond ridicule; we see with nobody's eyes, we hear with nobody's ears, we feel with nobody's hearts but our own. Glorious, glorious privilege! And how is it earned? Ah, my friends, you may spare yourselves the useless inquiry! We are the only people who can earn it—for we are the only people who are always right.'"

And that's from Wilkie Collins' "The Moonstone," too.

All of which by way of preface to remarking that if you're looking for a good new mystery story, why not try a good old one? If all the mystery stories that have been written in a coon's age (and that's a whole lot too many) were laid end to end, they wouldn't come within shooting distance of "The Moonstone."

LAMENT.

At the rim of the world where you left,
As the friend of one dead I creep,
On the earth that I press with my lips
To blot out the tears that I weep.

It is here. Oh, it pounds at my heart
With a beat that I know as your own.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 18, 1914.

PARIS.—A dispatch to the Figaro from Brussels says the great battle is turning to the advantage of the Belgians. According to the Belgian minister of war their forces have blocked the pivoting movement southward, undertaken by three corps of the German army at Liège. London has heard that the Germans have engaged the allies and are advancing to the historic battlefield of Waterloo.

LONDON.—Messages from the battle front indicate that Germany is pressing forward. Hemmed in by the allied forces of France, England and Belgium to the west, and by 800,000 Russians who invaded Germany today, Emperor William is at Mainz, directing his army. With him are three of his sons, including the crown prince. More than 3,000,000 soldiers are marshaled against the kaiser's army. Of these 800,000 are Russians, 400,000 are in the forces of the allies in Belgium, and 1,800,000 French troops are on the Franco-German border.

BRUSSELS.—Fighting is reported from Gembloux. A German force is said to have been caught between a French cavalry column and Belgian troops who were marching from Namur. The German losses are said to have been very heavy. Fighting on the main line between Namur and Brussels was in progress all day.

BERLIN, via Copenhagen.—Germany in a note to Belgium intimated that the Belgians had so brilliantly proved their honor in arms that the German government, after taking Brussels, would be willing to conclude any arrangement compatible with the conflict between Germany and France and would evacuate Belgium as speedily as war conditions permitted. The German proposition was refused.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 18, 1900.

WASHINGTON.—The navy department received the following cablegram from Admiral Remey at Taku: "Just received telegram from Tientsin, dated Aug. 16, stating: 'Peking was captured on Aug. 15. Foreign legations are safe. Details follow shortly.'"

WASHINGTON.—A telegram from United States Consul Fowler at Chefoo says: "Japanese admiral reports allies attacked Peking, east, 15th. Obstinate resistance. In the evening the Japanese entered the capital with other forces. Immediately surrounded the legations. Inmates safe." Acting with the Japanese in the attack were Russian, British, and American troops. Details of the battle are anxiously awaited, as it is feared the Americans suffered heavy losses.

CHICAGO. — A leading brokerage house of New York offers to bet $100,000 at ten to four on the election of President McKinley. The announcement came to the office of Schwartz, Dupee & Co., commission men in the Board of Trade building.

CHICAGO.—Clark Griffith, the Chicago club's star pitcher, went to the races at Harlem yesterday and added to the excitement there. A young man known as Tommy stepped on the pitcher's toes. Clark said nothing and the young man did it again. Then Griffith protested and was knocked down with a heavy field glass which cut a bad gash under his eye.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 18, 1865.

NEW YORK.—But little additional has been developed concerning the failure of Ketchum, Son & Co. and the enormous defalcations in connection with it. Young Ketchum's thefts are now estimated at $5,000,000.

NEW YORK. — The Wilmington Herald says the investigation made by army officers shows that Negroes in Fayetteville, N. C., have been cruelly treated not only by civilians, but by civil officers. Two Negroes were tied and publicly whipped by the sheriff.

NEW YORK.—A special from Richmond says that the former publishers of the Richmond Examiner have arranged to commence the republication of that sheet. It is reported that the presses and machinery were purchased in New York through subscriptions and advances made for that purpose, and paid for with city acceptances to the amount of $75,000.

CHICAGO.—A game of baseball was played between the first and second nines of the Excelsior Baseball club. The first nine won, 68 to 30.

BACK TO THE SOIL.

Olney, Ill., Aug. 14.—Machinery put the farmer off the land and into the industries. Today machinery is putting the laborer out of the city back to the soil.

You can say truthfully that the world can't consume what the country now produces without any more people going into the production end. That's proven and admitted. However, the man and his wife with children, living in a tenement building and out of work in an industrial center with thousands of others in a similar situation, is not influenced by that argument.

In the state of Illinois, in the southern part of which I live, I can today set a table of the finest eating in the world and the only thing bought is the flour. Last week I cooked and fed to my chickens the last of the 1929 potato crop. In three years I have bought four pounds of potatoes. Today I can give you from my garden beets, cabbage, cauliflower, beans (string or butter), okra, tomatoes, kohlrabis, and potatoes. One plum tree will produce more plum jelly than any family will consume in a year. Strawberries, raspberries, dewberries, and blackberries grow wild or can be cultivated. Peaches, apples, and pears are at hand. Chickens lay eggs the year around and are tolerably good to eat any old time and largely make their own living.

One milk cow gives you milk, cream, and butter. One horse cultivates your truck farm. You can't pick 20 acres where a school is not close, where pure water is not easily reached, where telephone and, even now, electric power is not at your door, where the doctor or preacher is not available, or where the old pioneer hospitality and kindness is not still the paramount rule.

In the country your child is healthy, learns industry, the love of animals, the habit of kindness and is not in communication with elders of undesirable habits. He is running no risks in daytime or at night. The air is pure, clean, and healthy. The world will be a better place to live when the soil once more receives its own. Your racketeer, gangster, criminal, and murderer is not produced on the farm; independence and manhood, rather, in the boys and health and virtue in the girls.

So come on back to the soil.

GLENN WILSON.

FEDERAL AIR LAWS.

Hollywood, Ill., Aug. 12.—Your editorial advocating the enactment of air laws for Illinois is appropriate. Air laws are undoubtedly needed. But why should Illinois and forty-seven other states bear the burden of individual legislation? Federal laws, applicable and operative anywhere in the states, promise the only means for the adequate control of aviation.

Let Washington lay out the nation's airways and establish the regulatory statutes covering their uses over cities and the open country. Then, as the need arises, supplement the surface policing with properly empowered marshals of the skies. Have offenders tried in any federal court. Let licenses issue from federal districts. And save the costs of forty-eight separate codes and enforcement bodies by placing the whole matter under a single jurisdiction.

S. L. SCHLEPPY.

EVENING HIGH SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—An inquiry was made in your column about the lack of accredited evening high schools on the far south side. On account of the decreased school revenues and the resultant financial stringency a deduction of $100,000 was made in the evening school and adult education appropriation. This deduction naturally makes impossible any extension of evening school work. The superintendent believes firmly in the value of accredited evening high schools and is desirous of increasing their number when the finances of the board will permit. It is our hope to increase the number of accredited evening high schools by three if the financial condition will permit it in the next two years, and the south side will receive favorable consideration.

CHARLES J. LUNAR,
Assistant Superintendent in Charge of Evening Schools.

THE LAW REGARDING WHISTLES.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—It is my desire to commend you on your editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE headed "Noisy Whistles on the River," and I trust that you will not limit your movement to the writing of this short editorial. I would refer you to sections 1722, 1723 and 1726 of the municipal code regarding whistles and covering the kind of whistles that are allowed to be carried on vessels on the river. Apparently steam vessel operators are of the opinion that the large whistle which can be heard at a distance of three miles or farther, and which is supposedly for use out in the lake, is the proper whistle to be used in the river, whereas the code requires that the volume of the whistle be such that it should not be heard over one-quarter of a mile in ordinary weather.

JOHN E. WILSON.

NORRIS.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 14.—Why should it be such a surprise that Senator Norris again won in Nebraska? Because, as you say, he was at different times a "Republican," "Democrat," "Socialist"? Are you not overlooking the fact that (which is most important) he was at all times an American, and a consistent one, because, free from religious and political prejudice, he voted for the individual who, he truly believed, embodied more of the vital American ideals and convictions for which both fought during the presidential campaign of 1928. Surely this is a Republican you should be proud to have in your party. Were it not a certain fact that he was actuated by purest and highest and genuine American ideals he would have been read out of his party as was Heflin out of his. I. KELLY.

2? BLASTS FOR 2 BRIDGES.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—In connection with your recent editorials about river noises, I wish to call your attention to a specific violation of the ordinance on this matter that occurred this morning. The tug Cary found it necessary to emit 17 blasts of its exceptionally loud whistle in order to negotiate the passage of the Michigan avenue and State street bridges. This was at about 9 o'clock this morning when the tug was pulling the Fred W. Sargent through the river.

FRENCH REFUSE BERLIN PLEA FOR BORDER REVISION

German Envoy to Rush Home with Warning.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Alarmed by the outcry in the French press at the demands made a week ago in a speech by Gottfried R. Treviranus, German minister for the occupied regions, for revision of the Versailles treaty in regard to Germany's eastern frontier, Germany's ambassador to Paris, Leopold von Hoesh, is leaving for Berlin Tuesday to deliver a personal warning to his government that the late Gustav Stresemann's policy of conciliation is being jeopardized.

It is reported that the French foreign office bluntly told the German envoy that France does not regard as acceptable proposals for revision of the Polish corridor, and that she will oppose all attempts to ventilate the question at the meeting of the league of nations at Geneva next month.

Invokes Clause in Treaty.

Herr Treviranus claims that section 19 of part 1 of the Versailles treaty opens the door for reopening of the question and discussion of the possibility of shifting Poland's corridor to the sea to the eastern side of East Prussia, which is at present separated from the fatherland.

This plea is said to embarrass French Foreign Minister Briand as Poland is allied to France and any change is violently opposed by Poland, as it would mean abandoning the work that has already been started at Gdynia to construct a rival port to Danzig.

Herr von Hoesh will, it is said, urge Germany to postpone the question of her eastern frontier until the Saar problem is solved, and until the reorganization of the league of nations secretariat, proposed by Italy, is accomplished.

French Caution Poles.

France on the other hand, it is said, is embarrassed by Poland's belligerent attitude, and continues to urge her to abandon the tariffs in force along the borders of the corridor. These prevent free passage between East Prussia and the rest of Germany. Up to the present Polish officials are said to have maintained strictest control, incurring the enmity of all travelers and swinging neutral opinion in favor of Germany's demands for homogenity of her territory.

Grave Charge Against Girl Masquerading as Man

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 17.—[Special.] — Twenty year old Antonia Maese, who masqueraded as a man and drove a truck for eight months, probably will be heard on charges of contributing to delinquency of a minor girl. The girl's mother complained to the police and District Attorney Fitts today ordered a complaint drawn.

TWO HELD FOR STREET CAR HOLDUP.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A street car conductor and a bus driver were held by police here today after, authorities said, they had admitted "framing" a street car holdup.

ANGRY PEASANTS LYNCH DAUGHTER OF GYPSY CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRATISLAVA, Czecho-Slovakia, Aug. 17.—The long standing hatred of peasants of Atha, southern Czecho-Slovakia, against thieving gypsies today culminated in the lynching of an 18 year old gypsy chief's daughter, who, after a summary trial in the village square, was condemned to die. She was dragged through the streets with a rope around her neck.

The trial was conducted by adults and the execution carried out by half grown farm boys while a mob of women and girls stoned the half conscious victim.

The gypsy band had been provided with homes by the Czech government, but the gypsies preferred to rifle granaries, chicken coops, and barns. The girl was caught red-handed. Five of the lynchers have been arrested.

KILLED AS SPEED BOAT UPSETS.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 17.—(AP)—John A. Johnson, 38, of Duluth, was killed here today when his speed boat capsized during a race. He was thrown against two other boats.

HEMLINES have fluctuated their last—and skirts remain well below the knees and even all around for daytime (you may wear them several inches longer than your spring costumes if you like); for evening instep or ankle length is new and correct for dancing and restaurant wear—to the floor and trailing in back a little for very formal occasions.

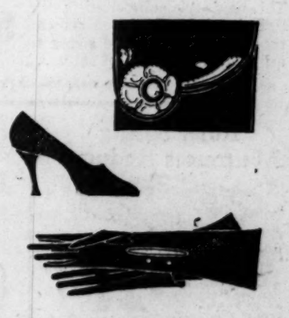
THE SILHOUETTE adopts slimness for its keynote—but attains it in many fascinating ways (1) tunic-like effects (2) fullness attained from the knee down (3) tiers, peplums (4) drapery and wrap around effects. And this reminds us—watch for one-sided effects on everything! Dresses—Coats—Hats.

COLORS: black with accents of white or color leads for daytime, then brown, green and deep wine red. For evening, black, of course, then white, bright jewel-like shades and faded pastels. A range of colors which promises to be exciting is the "dark as black" shades which include inky blues, blackish browns and blackish greens.

DETAILS—It's a belted year for both coats and dresses. Coats are long and slender like dresses and come in two lengths—(1) the same length as the accompanying dress (2) slightly shorter. They are lavishly fur trimmed and have dress details. Scarfs, elaborate sleeves, bloused and tucked backs.

Lingerie effects are more important than ever on dresses and are made of amusing materials or classic handkerchief linen and crepe. Sleeves take on tremendous interest (1) at the elbows (2) at the cuffs. Elbow length and dolman sleeves are promising new fashions.

ACCESSORIES remain simple and extremely elegant. Pull-ons in 6 or 8 button length, are the Glove for daytime in (1) black (2) brown or (3) beige shades. Tortoise shell is a new note in handbags (and also millinery). Shoes are simple, beautifully cut, and match accessory or costume color. Two new jewelry fashions are turquoise and rubies.



FABRICS for daytime and general wear include thin woolens, heavy crepes like morocain and dull flamenga, much broadcloth for coats. For formal occasions the new "heavy sheers," in the Romaine and georgette families, sheer metals, velvets, tulle and lace.

AS FOR HATS they are shallow of crown, tilted high on the head, with a rim of hair showing—and after that individual to the nth degree!

ELECTRIFICATION OF EASTERN LINES NEAR COMPLETION

Four Companies Spending 158 Million on Work.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Electrification of the congested areas along the eastern seaboard is rapidly nearing completion, according to a check made today of the railroads in this vicinity that are changing from steam to electricity. More than $158,000,000 is being spent by four lines.

While Chicago, through THE TRIBUNE, has just begun its suit to compel complete electrification there, this vicinity is reaping the reward of legislative action started more than a decade ago. The railroads in the east now are installing electric equipment in every direction of their own accord, when only a few years ago they were fighting the legislative action that compelled them to electrify within the city.

Following Programs Under Way.

They have found electrification necessary to meet competition. The following electrification programs are well under way in a radius of 100 miles of New York City:

The Pennsylvania's $100,000,000 project which calls for the electrification of both passenger and freight service from Hell Gate bridge, N. Y., to Washington, D. C.

The New York Central's $20,000,000 west side electrification work which should be completed early next year.

The Reading's $20,000,000 electrification program which was inaugurated early last spring.

2,760 Miles of Electrified Track.

The electrification of sixty-seven of New Jersey's suburban lines at a cost of more than $18,000,000 by the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, which will be completed about Jan. 1, 1931.

The Pennsylvania opened the final link of its Philadelphia electrified suburben service last month which now gives that road 800 miles of electrified line and 2,760 miles of electrified track. Its electrified line in the Philadelphia suburban zone is 131 miles. The Pennsylvania also put into service last week the first of its fleet of giant electric engines. The new locomotives, the most powerful of their type, have a capacity of 2,120 horsepower, are 52 feet long, have four driving wheels six feet in diameter and weigh 300,000 pounds. When the final link between New York and Washington is completed the electrification will make it possible for the Pennsylvania to operate passenger trains regularly at 90 miles an hour.

Trains Hit 71 Miles an Hour.

The Lackawanna electrification, according to a statement from that company, has progressed so rapidly that the first electric trains begin operation about Sept. 15. Seventy miles of road and 160 miles of track are affected by the change. Tests of the electric cars showed a speed of 71 miles.

Electro-pneumatic brakes stopped the trains moving at 56 miles an hour in two-tenths of a mile without discomfort to the passengers. With final completion in January, time tables will be abandoned and the "subway" system installed with ten minute headway during rush hours and twenty to thirty minute headway during slack periods, it was announced.

18 Railroads Electrify.

The public service commission has extended to Jan. 1 the time in which the New York Central is to complete the electrification of its west side freight line, the last steam line on Manhattan island. This is a six months' extension and was granted after a plea for a longer extension was denied at Albany.

There are now in the United States, according to the American Railway association, twenty-three electrified sections on eighteen railroads, aggregating 1,700 route miles and 4,000 track miles. It is nothing to boast about, however, according to figures George Gibbs, Pennsylvania railroad electrification engineer, has compiled.

The 1,700 route miles, according to Mr. Gibbs, is not much greater than the electrified mileage in Switzerland, which has a total of 1,500 miles, about 43 per cent of all its lines, and much less than that of Europe, which has about 5,700 miles so equipped.

Panic Follows Quake in City Near Pisa, Italy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PISA, Italy, Aug. 17.—Another earthquake, accompanied by rumbling noises, was felt at Volterra, near here, yesterday, sending the population into panic but causing slight damage.

MILLIONS LOST BY FRAUDULENT BROKER PATRONS

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Customers of bucketshops and fraudulent stock brokers lost approximately $4,000,000 in the month ending July 21, according to a report to be forwarded tomorrow to Attorney General Hamilton Ward by Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn, in charge of the state bureau of securities.

During the month the bureau obtained twenty temporary and final injunctions against sixty-eight individuals, firms, and corporations for violations of the Martin act.

Mr. Washburn reported nearly half of the $4,000,000 was lost by customers of Woody & Co.

Maximum Power Sought; Would Double Capacity.

THE TRIBUNE company has applied to the federal radio commission for authorization to construct a 50 kilowatt broadcasting station—the highest power permitted—which will double the present capacity of THE TRIBUNE station, W-G-N, and increase its service to the listening public in the middle west. The proposed installation will improve reception conditions in areas now served and will enable many rural regions and smaller cities and villages now beyond reach to tune in.

Nine stations in the United States are now actually authorized to use 50 kilowatts, most of them being in the east, and in some other cases the commissioner has granted permits but the stations have not yet been completed. Recently, however, there has been a large increase in the number of applicants, largely due to a recent order of the commission limiting the number of 50 kilowatt stations to four per zone, a total of 20, and to the fear that the commission intends to ruin or impair the other 20 cleared channels by allowing two or more stations to operate simultaneously on them in the evening.

Hearing on Sept. 15.

The commission is to hold a hearing on Sept. 15 on the applications for 50 kilowatt stations.

Extensive investigations conducted by THE TRIBUNE and attested in the vast mail received from listeners, indicated that W-G-N has the largest service area of any station in the fourth zone, comprising Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. By service area is meant the area in which interference-free reception is had.

W-G-N's observations have been confirmed by tests made by questionnaires sent out by the commission to listeners in the rural regions.

Seeks to Increase Service.

Nevertheless, it is true with W-G-N as with every other station, that, particularly during the daytime and evening in summer, static and other electrical disturbances interfere with reception at distances of 100 miles or more from the station. As stated in THE TRIBUNE'S application, filed on Aug. 7, for a permit to build a 50 kilowatt station.

"In accordance with its policy of at all times putting the cleared channel assigned to it to its maximum use in the interest of the listening public, applicant desires to give it increased service over a larger area which will result from increasing its power from 25 kilowatts to 50 kilowatts. The increase of power will give more reliable service at points now served by applicant's station, and will give service to areas not now reached."

In making its application for a 50 kilowatt station, W-G-N has the intention of maintaining its leadership as the high powered station of the middle west, giving service not only to Chicago and vicinity, but to the great agricultural regions where THE TRIBUNE circulates, and as far beyond as the commission's regulations permit.

Serves Much Larger Area.

Radio engineers are agreed that a high powered station on a cleared channel will serve many times the area that will be served by any combination of stations of any power operating simultaneously on the same channel. Once a channel is cleared, they maintain there is no technical reason why unlimited power should not be used on the channel. It puts the channel to its maximum use, and is thus distinctly in the interest of the listening public. "Regional" stations [of 1,000 watts or less, operating at the rate of 2, 3 or 4 on the same channel] seldom have a service area of more than 30 to 50 miles radius.

From the start W-G-N has been the pioneer in extending its broadcasting service to the small towns and rural regions of the middle west. Since Nov. 11, 1928, it has used a power of 25 kilowatts. Before then, starting in October, 1926, it used 15 kilowatts; and before that five kilowatts.

When the federal radio commission came into being in 1927, W-G-N was the only station in the middle west using more than five kilowatts.

Merger of 3 Stations.

W-G-N really represents a merger of three stations: W-G-N, WLIB and WTAS. W-G-N was originally established with its transmitter on the Drake hotel, this being one of the first stations in the country. In 1928, when the commission was seeking to reduce the congestion of stations in Chicago and elsewhere, THE TRIBUNE, which owned WTAS, then operating on a separate channel, accepted the commission's suggestion that WTAS be merged with W-G-N and WLIB into one station.

This meant a sacrifice of an investment of $100,000. THE TRIB gladly made it to aid the commission in its effort to create better reception conditions by reducing the excessive number of stations in operation.

As shown by its application, W-G-N intends to stall RCA equipment with a new crystal control unit which will cost more than $100,000. In addition, there will be extensive incidental expense. These are to be incurred after heavy expenditures of this last year for automatic crystal control apparatus in the present equipment increasing modulation up to 100 per cent.

In the Chicago region the only station so far authorized to use 50 kilowatts has been WENR, with half time on 870 kilocycles. WLS has held a construction permit for such a station for months but has had it extended from time to time and it is not known whether it actually intends to build such a station. KYW has a 50 kilowatt transmitter, but is authorized to use only 10 kilowatts. WMAQ has an application pending.

Outside of Chicago in the fourth zone, KMOX at St. Louis has a 50 kilowatt construction permit and it is understood is about to begin operation. Among others applications are pending from WOWO, Fort Wayne, Ind.; WTMJ, Milwaukee, and WHO and WOC at Des Moines and Davenport, Ia.

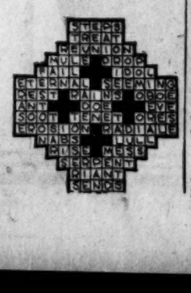
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



ENDS LIFE BY HANGING.

Desiring funds to entertain his sweetheart, Edward Sprungman, 21 years old, 5406 Winthrop avenue, enlisted the girl's brother early yesterday in a scheme to get money. Now they are in jail.

While the girl's brother, Earl Smock, 22 years old, 4419 Sheridan road, stood lookout, Sprungman walked into a Western Union office at 1111 Lawrence avenue, scribbed a note declaring he was in desperate need of money and in possession of a gun, and handed it to the clerk, Miss Ida Hubrick, 601 Diversey parkway.

Observing Police Sergt. Frank McCune outside in plain clothes, Miss Hubrick quietly opened the safe and handed $174 to Sprungman. The sergeant, at Miss Hubrick's signal, seized the young man—who was found to be unarmed—and took him to Town Hall station. There he revealed the name of the girl, Miss Dorothy Smock, and told the part her brother played in his plans. Smock was arrested.

Sergt. McCune was informed he is eligible for a $1,000 reward offered by the telegraph company for the capture of any robber preying on their offices.

Mrs. Lucy Thornburg Dies on Liner Bound for U. S.

Mrs. Lucy Thornburg, 65 years old, mother of S. Raymond Thornburg of 1519 Hinman avenue, Evanston, died yesterday aboard the liner Laconia, which is due to dock at Boston today, according to a wireless message received from the son, who was on the trip with his mother. Mrs. Thornburg was returning from a six months' visit in Europe. S. Raymond Thornburg is connected with the Lawrence Scudder company, public accountants, 105 West Monroe street. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at the First Methodist church of Evanston, with interment at Davenport, Ia.

Wife Discovers Tragedy in Place of Day's Outing

Joseph Dvorak, 35 years old, 1443 South Scoville avenue, Berwyn, told his wife good-by at sunup yesterday morning. He was going to spend the day fishing at Lake Geneva with a neighbor, John Fenton, 1439 South Scoville avenue. When he did not return last night Mrs. Dvorak telephoned the Fenton home. Fenton said they hadn't gone because Dvorak hadn't called for him. Mrs. Dvorak went out to the garage. Her husband was sitting at the wheel of his car dead, a victim of monoxide gas.

Woman Shot by Tenant in Quarrel Over Screen

Mrs. Antonetta Giustino, 34 years old, 1755 Taylor street, was shot through the body last night by Nick Michetto, 48 years old, a tenant of her husband at the same address. She was taken to the county hospital, where it was said she probably would recover. Mrs. Giustino is an expectant mother. Bernardino Giustino, her husband, told Maxwell street police that the shooting followed a quarrel between him and Michetto over the question of putting a screen door in Michetto's apartment.

Two Chicagoans Drown at Michigan Beaches

Three persons, two being Chicagoans, were drowned yesterday in the lake at lower Michigan beaches. The victims were Raymond A. Nems, 21 years old, a commercial artist of 2143 North Laporte avenue, drowned at Glenlord beach, five miles below St. Joseph, Mich.; his companion, Robert Bender, 20 years old, of St. Joseph, and George Linder, 21 years old, 5458 Diversey avenue, drowned at Bethany beach near Sawyer, Mich.

Fires at Robber and Hits Patron Entering Store

Firing wildly at an armed young man who attempted to hold up his drug store at 5800 North Western avenue shortly before midnight, David Hillman, proprietor of the store, sent a bullet into the back and another into the arm of Willis Windel, 20 years old, 5457 North Campbell avenue, who was entering to make a purchase. The bandit escaped and Windel, not seriously hurt, was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital.

AWAIT FATHER'S WORD TO PLAN SWIFT FUNERAL

Funeral plans for William E. Swift, 35 years old, youngest son of Louis F. Swift, the Chicago packer, who shot himself to death in a private sanitarium in New York City Saturday night, will be announced as soon as communication is established with his father in Deauville, France, it was said yesterday.

The elder Swift is due to sail from there Tuesday. Mrs. Alden B. Swift, a daughter-in-law, of Lake Forest, said a cablegram had been forwarded to Mr. Swift through the London offices of his firm, and that word should be received from him some time today. The body will remain in New York until he is heard from.

The widow of William E. Swift, the former Helen Morton, is a patient in the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. The two were married in August of 1921 and have one child, William, 5 years old. A brother, Louis F. Swift Jr. of Denver, is on his way to Chicago. Mrs. James Minotto, a sister, is in Lake Forest.

C. W. PRASENT FUNERAL WILL BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Charles William Prasent, 59 years old, manager of the Otto H. Lehmann estate, are to be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Edith M. Behr, a cousin, at 501 Stratford place. Interment will be in the Lehmann family mausoleum at Graceland. Mr. Prasent died Saturday at the Presbyterian hospital following an operation. He is survived by three other cousins, Edward J. Lehmann, Otto W. Lehmann, and Augusta E. Lehmann.

Bartonville Banker Freed Under a Bond of $25,000

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Released today on bond of $25,000, Joseph H. Stickelmaier, president of the Bartonville State bank, charged with embezzlement, will waive preliminary hearing Monday and be bound over to the grand jury.

Stickelmaier was jailed Thursday after state examiners closed the bank. His bond was reduced from $70,000 at a conference of his attorneys, who threatened to ask a writ of habeas corpus unless the bond were lowered, with Circuit Judge Joseph E. Daily and State's Attorney Henry E. Pratt.

Wife Returns from Church; Finds Husband a Suicide

Returning from church services yesterday, Mrs. Harry Gloff of 1237 Harrison street, Hammond, found her husband slumped in a chair, with his head in the oven of the kitchen gas range. He had committed suicide by turning on all the burners. He was 37 years old.

"THE MURDER AT THE VICARAGE"

. . . Today!

Who killed Colonel Protheroe? No one loved him. Many people hated him. Around the murder of this man is woven a web of countless threads, to be untangled with a skill and speed that will hold you breathless. Agatha Christie, mistress of the mystery story, has surpassed herself in this, the first of her works to be presented to Chicago Tribune readers. Everybody will be talking about

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT I.

A BOTHERSOME PARISHONER.

It is difficult to know quite where to begin this story, but I have fixed my choice on a certain Wednesday at luncheon at the vicarage. The conversation, though in the main irrelevant to the matter in hand, yet contained one or two suggestive incidents which influenced later developments.

I had just finished carving some boiled beef (remarkably tough, by the way), and on resuming my seat I remarked, in a spirit most unbecoming to my cloth, that any one who murdered Col. Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service.

My young nephew, Dennis, said instantly:

"That'll be remembered against you when the old boy is found bathed in blood. Mary will give evidence, won't you, Mary? And describe how you brandished the carving knife in a vindictive manner."

Mary, who is in service at the vicarage as a stepping stone to better things and higher wages, merely said, in a loud business-like voice, "Greens," and thrust a cracked dish at him in a truculent manner.

My wife said in a sympathetic voice: "Has he been very trying?"

I did not reply at once, for Mary, setting the greens on the table with a bang, proceeded to thrust a dish of singularly moist and unpleasant dumplings under my nose. I said, "No, thank you," and she deposited the dish with a clatter on the table and left the room.

"It is a pity that I am such a shocking housekeeper," said my wife with a tinge of genuine regret in her voice.

I was inclined to agree with her. My wife's name is Griselda — a highly suitable name for a parson's wife. But there the suitability ends. She is not in the least meek.

I have always been of the opinion that a clergyman should be unmarried. Why I should have urged Griselda to marry me at the end of twenty-four hours' acquaintance is a mystery to me. She is nearly twenty years younger than myself. She is most distractingly pretty and quite incapable of taking anything seriously. She is incompetent in every way and extremely trying to live with. She treats the parish as a kind of huge joke arranged for her amusement. I am more than ever convinced that celibacy is desirable for the clergy. I have frequently hinted as much to Griselda, but she has only laughed.

"My dear," I said. "If you would only exercise a little care——"

"Tell me more about Col. Protheroe," Griselda interrupted.

"Pompous old brute," said Dennis. "No wonder his first wife ran away from him."

"I don't see what else she could do," said my wife.

"Griselda," I said sharply. "I will not have you speaking in that way."

"Darling," said my wife affectionately. "Tell me about him. What was the trouble? Was it Mr. Hawes?"

Hawes is our new curate. He has been with us just over three weeks. He has high church views. Col. Protheroe is a great opposer of ritual in any form.

"Not this time. He did touch on it in passing. No, the whole trouble arose out of Mrs. Price Ridley's wretched pound note."

Mrs. Price Ridley is a devout member of my congregation. Attending early service on the anniversary of her son's death, she put a pound note into the offertory bag. Later, reading the amount of the collection posted up, she was pained to observe that one ten shilling note was the highest item mentioned.

She complained to me about it, and I pointed out, very reasonably that she must have made a mistake. My words only seemed to incense her. She said that things had a very odd look and that she was surprised I didn't think so also. And she flounced away and, I gather, took her troubles to Col. Protheroe. Protheroe is the kind of man who enjoys making a fuss on every conceivable occasion. He made a fuss.

"Well, I suppose he must have some fun," said my wife, with the air of trying to sum up the position impartially. "Both his wife and his daughter are fed to the teeth with him. I suppose it makes him happy to feel important somewhere."

"He needn't be offensive about it," I said with some heat. He wants to go over all the church accounts—in case of defalcations—that was the word he used. Defalcations! Does he suspect me of embezzling the church funds?"

"Nobody would suspect you of anything, darling," said Griselda. "You're so transparently above suspicion that really it would be a marvelous opportunity. I wish you'd embezzle the S. P. G. funds."

I would have reproved her for that sentiment, but Mary entered at that moment with a partially cooked rice pudding.

"Protheroe's coming over tomorrow evening and we're going over the accounts together," I said. "I must finish preparing my talk for the C. E. M. S. today. What are you doing this afternoon, Griselda?"

"My duty," said Griselda. "My duty as the vicaress. Tea and scandal at half-thirty."

"Who is coming?"

"Mrs. Price Ridley, Miss Hartnell, and that terrible Miss Marple."

"I rather like Miss Marple," I said. "She has, at least, a sense of humor."

"She's the worst cat in the village," said Griselda. "And she always knows every single thing that happens — and draws the worst inferences from it."

"Well, don't expect me in for tea, Griselda," said Dennis.

"Beast!" said Griselda.

Dennis beat a prudent retreat and Griselda and I went together into my study.

"I wonder who we shall have for tea," said Griselda, seating herself on my writing table. "Dr. Stone and Miss Cram, I suppose, and perhaps Mrs. Lestrange. By the way, I called on her yesterday, but she was out. It's so mysterious, isn't it, her arriving like this and taking a house down here, and hardly ever going outside it? Makes one think of detective stories. I believe Dr. Haydock knows something about her."

"You read too many detective stories, Griselda," I observed mildly.

"What about you?" she retorted. "I was looking everywhere for 'The Stain on the Stairs' the other day when you were in here writing a sermon. And at last I came in to ask you if you'd seen it anywhere, and what did I find?"

"I picked it up at random. A chance sentence caught my eye and——"

"I know those chance sentences," said Griselda. She quoted impressively: "And then a very curious thing happened—Griselda rose, crossed the room and kissed her elderly husband affectionately."

She suited the action to the word.

"Is that a very curious thing?" I inquired.

"Of course it is," said Griselda. "Do you realize, Len, that I might have married a cabinet minister, a baronet, a rich company promoter, three subalterns and a n'er-do-well with attractive manners, and that instead I chose you? Didn't it astonish you very much?"

"At the time it did," I replied. "I have often wondered why you did it."

"It made me feel so powerful," she murmured. "The others thought me simply wonderful and, of course, it would have been very nice for them to have me. But I'm everything you most disapprove of and yet you couldn't withstand me? My vanity couldn't hold out against that. It's so much nicer to be a secret and delightful sin to anybody than to be a feather in their cap. I make you uncomfortable and stir you up the wrong way the whole time and yet you adore me madly. You do adore me madly, don't you?"

"Naturally, I am very fond you, my dear."

"Ot Len, you adore me. Do you remember that day when I stayed up in town and sent you a wire you never got because the postmistress' sister was having twins and she forgot to send it around? The state you got into and you telephoned Scotland Yard and made the most frightful fuss?"

"There are things one hates being reminded of. I had really been strangely foolish on the occasion in question," I said.

"If you don't mind, dear, I want to get on with the C. E. M. S."

Griselda gave a sigh of intense irritation, ruffled my hair up on end, smoothed it down again, and said:

"You don't deserve me. You really don't. I'll have an affair with the artist. I will—really and truly. And then think of the scandal in the parish."

"There's a good deal already," I said mildly.

Griselda laughed, blew me a kiss, and departed through the window.

My Mae Tinée.

KIND: "Western."

QUALITY: It's just another movie to me.

PHOTOGRAPHY: The camera hath excellently caught much that was not worth catching.

SOUND: Considered as noise—excellent; as dialogue—terrible.

ACTING: The supporting cast does very well indeed with the material at hand. The star, Mr. Haines, is pretty bad. I can best explain HOW bad by saying that you hope the bull gores him, that the broncho throws him, that the heroine really means it when she slaps his face, and that so do the cowboys when they start to hang him to the "tallest tree." No longer does the Haines smart-aleckism twang the laugh chords and subtly appeal to latent tenderness. It has gone Hollywood.

DIRECTION: Good enough for the story.

STORY: "Windy," crook barker for a circus, cheats a bunch of Red Gap cowboys out of $200. They start to hang him but think better of it and take him to the ranch, where he is told to work out the amount, which, incidentally, was stolen from him by a hootchy dancer before it had reposed a brief five minutes in his pocket. The ranch is owned by a hard boiled gentleman and his pretty sister. Try and do a little figuring for yourselves now.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Depends on the audience.

SETS, SCENERY, COWS: Satisfactory.

REMARKS: No mo' handy.

3,000 Spiritualists Lay Corner Stone of College

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—With more than 3,000 persons present and Horace Leaf of London, England, principal speaker, a corner stone was dedicated today in an auditorium for spiritualist college at the Chesterfield camp of the Indiana Association of Spiritualists. This college will be the first one of its kind in the central states. Mrs. M. E. Cadwaller of Chicago, editor of a spiritualist publication, also spoke today. The camp meeting will close Aug. 31.

POLISH MUSICIANS' WORKS ARE PLAYED AT RAVINIA FETE

The fifth annual afternoon of the Polish Arts clubs at Ravinia yesterday was celebrated by a large audience who gathered to hear a program of music by Polish masters. Ina Bourskaya, mezzo soprano of the Ravinia company, and Michel Wilkomirski, Chicago violinist, were the soloists, she in a group of songs by Niewiadomski and Moniuszko, he in a pair of works by Wieniawski. Both were cordially applauded, Mme. Bourskaya in particular being required to respond to two encores.

Meanwhile the Chicago Symphony orchestra, directed by Eric DeLamarter, played the A-flat Polonaise by Chopin, some dances from Paderewski's opera, "Manru," and an extra group by Moszkowski. At the close four Polish choruses sang excerpts from Moniuszko's opera, "Halka," under the direction of G. Chrzanowski. Dr. Alexander Szczepanski, consul general of Poland, was the guest of honor.

Polish day as far as Mme. Bourskaya and the audience were concerned continued into the evening, for then she appeared in the name part of "Carmen." Her associates were Queena Mario, Edward Johnson, Mario Basiola, and others. Louis Hasselmans conducted. E. M.

The Nine Hundred Block

BY KATHARINE HAVILAND TAYLOR

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

THE WHITE QUEEN.

Mrs. Baum saw them leave and in Mr. Ames' car—Mr. and Mrs. Ames were in the car, too, and the prince gave Riley two bags; one was his own and one was hers. And then they got in and Riley closed the door and they started.

"Now where?" thought Mrs. Baum, who would not have believed the truth had she heard it; that a prince and a princess were starting for Paradise.

Theresa waved at Mrs. Baum, and she waved at Mrs. Lambert, who was hurrying toward the shop so that "he" could go home to supper, and Katie, looking after a motor that was growing small, waved and swallowed hard and smiled, the while tears ran down her cheeks.

In the motor Laura said: "The clerk of courts and the clergyman are waiting at the house——"

And Johnny, looking down at Theresa, white, tired, but beautiful, as even she had never before been beautiful, said: "I can bear it!" and he moved until his shoulder touched hers, and he shook.

Arnold Ames, very happy, was crying inside, as adults sometimes do. He leaned forward to tuck the rug more securely around Laura; damp that early evening and chill—for May.

"Thank you, dear," said Laura, who, too, was happy; so happy that it hurt. She sat, transported because Arnold had tucked a rug around her. Through a warm, sweet haze she planned "a little after-ceremony supper for the dear children"; ransacked the drawers of the high boy in the guest room where she hoarded raiment too good (she felt) for "everyday use." She had a negligee she would give Theresa; rose hue, it would be "lovely on the child"; some crêpe de chine and underthings. There was enough in the house for the supper and with the good champagne—heavens, the young man's eyes and the look that come to them as they rested upon Theresa! How he cared!

Arnold spoke of their using "the big car" if they planned to leave town. Johnny said definitely that they did plan to leave town and that he would, with pleasure, borrow the car for the evening. And he added, under breath to Theresa, "if—that suits you?"

She gave him a fleeting, shy, warm glance, and a nod.

Laura saw, with that under, sleeping mind that recalls later, Frank Hillis getting into a taxicab. The next day she realized, stepping back, that Frank Hillis had been starting for some sanitarium. Not tramping feet that smooth or roughen the roadway in life, but the habits of a mind!

Three hours after Frank Hillis had crept into a taxicab and Riley had opened the door of Arnold Ames' car, a lean, apparently incredulous and a decidedly dazed young man with an arrestingly lovely girl stepped into a small hotel in Baltimore that is near the Walters' gallery.

The clerk, watching him register, suppressed a smile which he aired when the young man sighed deeply to say: "Take a good look at that, Terry!" (That being "Mr. and Mrs. John Deane, New York, N. Y.") "It—satisfies!"

Then the clerk watched Mr. and Mrs. John Deane (New York, N. Y.) write a telegram. She held the lined yellow pad steady with her left hand, upon which was the sort of ring that can lock the wearer within a dark cell or set her feet in Arcady, and he wrote the message with his right hand. And in that duet was a signpost for the years that lay before them.

"Keeping hold of you," Johnny explained while writing, "because I don't want you to go wandering off."

"I don't think," she answered, "that my doing that will every worry you!"

The clerk, who was a follower of another Baltimorean named Mencken, scowled as he tried to remember sundry iconoclastic passages from "A Defense of Women." He resented being turned "weakly, softly sentimental" by the way the prettiest girl he had ever seen kept stealing glances at a new ring—and a new husband.

Johnny had written to J. Z. Deane: "YOUR DAUGHTER SENDS LOVE TO HER NEW OLD MAN AND I DO TOO STOP BLUE SKIES OH GOSH EXCLAMATION JOHNNY."

A bellboy picked up bags. An elevator door clanged open and closed. Going up—and even the Puritans knew that heaven could be above, for those who have the key to it.

An hour after that Humphries brought a telegram to J. Z. Deane. J. Z. took it from the tray to open it. He read it as Humphries waited.

"Thank you very much, Humphries," said J. Z., without raising his eyes from the message; "thank you—very much, indeed. And that will be all tonight. And good-night—Humphries——"

Humphries left the room knowing that "he" was "awful happy." And forgetting that he was a servant to look back as he left, Humphries saw the Great J. Z. standing by a chess table—and Humphries saw him set a small white queen on her own white square, smiling, a little mistily, as he did it.

Visitors Crowd Town Near Castle Where Duke Expects Heir

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Visitors from nearby towns and two sightseers buses from Aberdeen today crowded the village street leading to the towering castle where Great Britain's new royal baby is awaited.

The visitors peered through the big gates at the castle entrance, and jammed a spot on the road whence a clear view of the castle could be obtained through a gap in a belt of trees. Some climbed Hunters' hill to inspect the 40 foot beacon, which awaits a signal from the castle to flash news to the surrounding countryside when the duchess of York gives birth to the child.

Princess Elizabeth rode her pony around the Glamis grounds today, but the duchess remained indoors. The duke attended services in the castle chapel. Home Secretary Clynes attended church at Kirriemuir, the "Thrums" of Sir James M. Barrie's stories, "A Window in Thrums," "Sentimental Tommy," and "Tommy and Grizel."

Knights of Columbus in Convention at Boston

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—(AP)—A radio address by Supreme Knight Michael H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Mich., was the principal event in today's activities of the 48th annual supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus here.

Carmody paid tribute to Catholic women in his talk, which was addressed to the Daughters of Isabella, Catholic women's organization. He especially thanked them for their service during the world war to the soldiers of all creeds. Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts and Mayor James M. Curley also spoke over the radio on the convention's program.

John D. Jr. Gives Some Lighter Art to Gotham's Museum

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. has presented to the Metropolitan Museum of Art four fifteenth century sculptures and one of the fourteenth century, which have just been placed in view at the cloisters.

Three of the pieces are small limestone grotesques representing a griffin, a dog and a dwarf. Originally these sculptures, which date from the fifteenth century, served as decorative corbels on the exterior of some French church.

"They are not serious sculptures with an intellectual content destined to inspire reflection, but rather mirthful ornaments so simple to understand that they appeal to every one," according to James J. Rorimer of the museum.

BISHOP G. C. STEWART PRAISES LAMBETH CONFERENCE VIEWS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 17. — George Craig Stewart, bishop coadjutor of Chicago, who participated in the Lambeth conference of which he was the youngest member, expressed approval of the resolutions adopted by that conclave of Anglican bishops.

"The press and the public jumped on the discussion of birth control mentioned in the encyclical letter issued after the conference under the signature of the archbishop of Canterbury. They should remember that is only one of the numerous problems on which the conference made decisions."

The Chicago bishop resents that "somebody breezily said the executheon of modern youth is a huge question mark over two sleeping bishops and the words 'I wonder.'"

"Those who read the report of the convention will see that the ecclesiastical leaders of the Angelican communion are not old men muttering in their sleep, but are alive to modern facts. They reach conclusions only after they have studied all the modern scientific data available.

"That also was the case with birth control. The conference was against it. We feel that the condemnation we expressed will carry weight if it is tempered with discrimination. If one wants to shoot an arrow fast and straight one feathers it. Our condemnation will be all the more powerful, because in the report issued to the world it can be seen that the bishops are not blind, that they know there are cases where science can be of benefit to the individual and to society."

The resolution on birth control, adopted by the conference by a vote of 193 to 67, said: "Where there is a clearly felt moral obligation to limit or avoid parenthood, the method must be decided on Christian principles."

The resolution, however, opposed "the use of any methods of selfishness, luxury, or mere convenience."

PUBLISHERS HIRE EXPERT TO CONDUCT BOOK SELLING SURVEY

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—An economist has been engaged to make a thorough survey of the book industry and to seek means for the widest possible distribution of books, the National Association of Book Publishers announced today.

Edward S. Mills, president of the association, said O. H. Cheney, former superintendent of banking in New York state, had been employed to conduct the survey, financed by the book publishers, the Book Binders Association of America, and book dealers, paper manufacturers, and allied interests.

Mr. Mills foresaw as a result of this research "a new period of growth and extended markets, and reduced costs through standardized manufacture."

"No mention was made in the announcement as to whether recent drastic cuts in book prices by several publishers prompted the survey, and four houses who are after the "dollar book" trade characterized their venture still as an experiment.

Spokesmen for Doubleday Doran, Farrar & Rinehart, Simon & Schuster, and Charles Boni said the dollar book experiment would require a year's trial to determine its financial success.

Publishers who have maintained the two dollar and two dollar and a half price on popular novels said they had no immediate expectation of following competitors into the dollar book business.

"We're going to wait," Cass Canfield of Harper & Brothers said. "About three times as many dollar books as $2.50 books must be sold if the publisher is to make the same profit—and we don't believe that can be done."

State Wedding Rate Higher; Divorces Less

U. S. Gives Illinois Data for Last Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Illinois' marriage rate increased and its divorce rate decreased during 1929, despite the popular belief that fewer modern young persons are going to the altar while more matches are ending in the divorce courts.

The department of commerce, in a preliminary report on marriage and divorce for Illinois, today disclosed that 84,092 marriages were performed in the state last year as compared to 79,725 in 1928, an increase of 5.5 per cent. During 1929 there were 15,762 divorces granted in the state as compared with 15,703 in 1928, an increase of 4.10 per cent. There were 247 marriages annulled in 1929.

"On the basis of population estimates, the number of marriages for each 1,000 inhabitants was 11.1 in 1929 as against 10.8 in 1928, while the divorce rate decreased from 2.12 in 1928 to 2.09 in 1929," the report stated.

The marriage and divorce statistics, furnished to the department of commerce by the county clerks, clerks of the Circuit court, and city clerks having divorce jurisdiction showed that 41,066 marriages were performed and 9,443 divorces granted in Cook county last year as compared to 37,566 marriages and 9,385 divorces the previous year.

Edwards and Henderson counties had the fewest divorces in the state last year with only three each. Outside of Cook the counties with the largest number of divorces were Peoria with 518 and St. Clair with 432. Lake county led in marriages with 5,199 during the year.

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Ethel Barrymore Colt, the 18 year old daughter of Ethel Barrymore, will make her professional debut in New York on Oct. 13 after appearing in Cleveland Aug. 29 in the cast of her mother's next starring vehicle, "Scarlet Sister Mary," based on the book by Julia Peterkin. The announcement of Miss Colt's first public appearance on the stage was made today by her mother through the office of the Shuberts, who will present "Scarlet Sister Mary" at the Ethel Barrymore theater.

Miss Barrymore did not originally plan a stage career for her daughter, according to the announcement, nor was the event definitely decided on until two weeks ago. Miss Colt will take a Negro rôle, that of Seraphine, daughter of Scarlet Sister Mary, who will be portrayed by Miss Barrymore.

Thousands Celebrate 52d Anniversary of the Schwaben-Verein

About 30,000 German-Americans met yesterday at Riverview picnic grove to celebrate the 52d anniversary of the Schwaben-Verein. They also recalled a festival which had its origin in Germany. The celebration of the festival traditionally lasts two days. It ends tonight. The president of the Schwaben-Verein is Reinhold Oeschler. Folk songs and music, German opera selections, were the principal entertainment yesterday.

Ernst Hummel, a former city treasurer and who was first president and a founder of the Schwaben-Verein in 1878, was present. He is 88 years old.

Denmark Orders Exploring Party to Quit Greenland

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The scientific expedition financed by Le Journal of Paris must leave Scoresby sound, Greenland, the Danish government decided today.

The expedition, headed by Dr. Downbroya, landed on the sound despite the government's prohibition, and orders have been forwarded to the authorities there to oust the explorers. The government objects to the expedition's presence, it was said, because on previous visits to Angmagsalik and East Greenland Dr. Downbroya failed to comply with conditions laid down by the authorities.

The expedition left Bergen in July in the Norwegian whaler Grane. The inspection ship Godthaab will be in Scoresby sound presently to enforce the government's orders.

Germany's Exports for July Exceed Imports $10,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—The German trade balance is improving steadily, according to July figures, which show exports surpassed imports by close to $10,000,000. If the duty paid on imported grain is deducted, the figure swells to almost $40,000,000. The export figure includes nearly $13,000,000 for the delivery of goods on the reparations account. The Germans total the export surplus for the last seven months as $202,000,000.

What Boy or Girl Doesn't Prefer Clowns?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

If you're the healthy, young kind of person who enjoys a rollicking good comedy and a million or so laughs, you welcomed the news I had for you in yesterday's paper—news that those four clowns, Groucho, Harpo, Chico and Zeppo Marx, are to be in town soon and that one hundred of us will see them on the afternoon of Thursday, Aug. 28, at McVicker's theater.

They are about as funny as any combination of people can be—Harpo with his grotesque makeup and funny faces, Groucho, the wag of the quartet; Chico, the boob, and the sleek Zeppo. We'll see them getting into and out of ridiculous situations from the time they arrive at the house party given by a society matron until the close of their picture, which, by the way, is "Animal Crackers," the talkie version of last season's stage success of the same name. And we'll hear Harpo as his fingers slide across the strings of the golden instrument he plays. Chico is a musician, too. He plays the piano in an intricate fashion all his own and with the technique of a caricaturist.

Now, perhaps, you'd like to hear something about the plot of the picture. Groucho is an African explorer and big game hunter. He arrives at this house party with his secretary, Zeppo, and they are soon followed by Harpo and Chico, musicians who have been hired to entertain the guests. A valuable painting is stolen and the fun begins when the police are called in to locate it.

I won't tell you about all the things that happen while the big mystery is being solved because that might ruin the picture for you, but I can assure you that it will be something to see. I know all of you want to go to this party; but, since I can take only one hundred boys and girls, I'd like to have with me those who will enjoy it most. Write me letters that will plainly show you are an enthusiastic Marx Brothers' fan and I shall include in the group of winners. The letters must be here by Thursday morning and they should include your name, address, and age.

Bridge Table's No Place for Couple That Scraps Easily

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Why is it that my husband and I can never play bridge without quarreling? He's on a mad now. Hasn't spoken civilly to me since the night before last, just because I criticized a play he made. It was a rotten play, too, and lost the game. The other players said I was right and he was wrong. . . .

And so on, with several paragraphs devoted to husband's dumbness at a bridge table.

One sure way of making it possible to sign your name to a letter, "Unhappy," is not only to criticize a hubby's bridge play, but to keep on arguing how right you are and how wrong he was after the game is over.

A woman like that is lucky to have her husband ever come out of his "mad" and hand her a civil word. It would seem that any one old enough to be married would know by this time that the bridge table is no place for a wedded pair unless they are so much in love one won't admit it possible for the other to make a mistake. Either that, or unless they have learned to keep mum no matter how heinous the bridge offense.

It's tempting the gods of vengeance for a couple not amicably mated to sit down together with a pack of cards to fan their warring moods. One of our noted wags says that "Another thing the world needs is a set of shin guards for husbands who play bridge with their wives." And if you believe what you read in the papers, the wives need face guards, too, for one hefty mate who dealt a mean hand at bridge took a wallop at his wife's nose, not long since, and the directness of the aim landed the fellow before a judge. Whether he is enjoying his game of solitaire now is not recorded, but we may assume the lady is enjoying her alimony, as the alimony girls all do for a spell, at least.

But to get back to the bridge table. Why, when a couple knows that the game provokes bad feeling, do they insist on sitting at the same table? Is it that it gives them a chance to explode and vent their wrongs before outsiders?

If there is anything more unpleasant than to be forced to sit by while a warring pair indulge in bridge arguments, it has yet to be discovered. The only remedy suggested to date is to consign the two to a desert isle where they can have it out with sticks and stones, with no audience to squirm while the domestic drama is enacted Took Them All.

Our bank has just recently changed its blank checkbooks so that they now come in ten different colors. I, being in need of a new one, asked the pretty girl clerk for one and when she handed out ten different colored ones I took all of them not knowing that she was just holding them out so that I could make a choice.

Pocketed Her Nickel.

A few days ago I asked my boy friend for a glass of orangeade. He assented, so we went over to get the orangeade.

I handed him a nickel and, to my surprise, he put the nickel in his pocket and in turn took out a dollar bill and paid the cashier. I was certainly shocked with embarrassment.

Miss S. S. Wood, to Make Her Debut on Oct. 4

The latest presentation date to be added to the list of north shore débuts is that of Miss Sarah Stires Wood, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood. Miss Wood will be introduced to society at a reception and tea on Oct. 4 at her parents' residence at 233 Central avenue, Highland Park.

Miss Wood, the third daughter of the family, was graduated from the Mary Lyon school at Swarthmore, Pa. She spent last year at Miss Risser's school in Rome. She and her mother, who met her in Italy at the close of the school term last spring, returned a few weeks ago from Europe.

Her sisters, Miss Frances Wood, who made her début last year, and Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis (Anne Wood), a débutante of 1927, both were popular among the buds of their respective seasons.

Speaking of débutantes, those coveted dates between mid-December and New Year's already are crammed with scheduled festivities. The hotel and club calendars also are crowded.

The Blackstone Crystal room, the traditional setting for début dances, has been reserved for 11 during December. The first one, on Dec. 6, is to be given by Mrs. William Waller Jr. and Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler for their daughters, Miss Virginia Waller and Miss Winifred Wheeler. A week later, Dec. 13, the Thomas C. Denehys will be hosts at a ball for their débutante daughter, Josephine, and on the 20th the Joseph Schreiners will have a ball for their daughter, Miss Laura Schreiner.

Christmas week will open with the ball to be given by the Walter R. Kirks and the A. Watson Armours for their respective buds, Miss Beatrice Kirk and Miss Elsa Armour, on Dec. 22. The following night Mrs. Walter Wolf will be hostess for her daughter, Miss Marguerite Watson. On Christmas night the Solomon B. Smiths will Henrys will give a ball for their Caroline Byron Smith.

The Gustavus F. Swifts' ball for their daughter, Geraldine, will be held two nights later, and the James R. Offields will be hosts for Miss Betty Offield on Dec. 29. Mr. and Mrs. James L. Martin will entertain for Miss Jane Martin on Dec. 30 and on New Year's night the Huntington B. Henrys will give a ball for their daughter, Miss Hortense Henry.

The annual masquerade ball last Thursday evening at the Belvedere club in Charlevoix brought forth a unique display of costumes. A group of Chicago club members, including Eugene Talbot, Edward Smith, Bradford Whiting, and Robert Stuart, went attired as Volga boatmen. Other Chicagoans present were Edward Brewster, Miss Ellen Douglas, Miss Marianne Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. William McIlvaine Jr., Miss Elinor Whiting, Charles Pierce, Miss Caroline Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. Langdon Hubbard, Miss Cynthia Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr., Daniel Burnham Jr., and John Elting.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey of Lake Forest, with her sons, Daggett and Stewart Harvey, will return today from a three weeks' vacation in Mexico City.

Mrs. Harry S. Shearson, who has been occupying the Robert Hotz's residence in Lake Forest, left last week for Boston. She will visit Mr. and Mrs. George A. McKinlock at Bar Harbor, Me., before returning to Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Brown of Little Rock, Ark., are guests of Mrs. Darius Miller of Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Morse, with their daughters, Mrs. William S. Covington and Mrs. Carl B. Stibolt, will sail on Aug. 30 on the Europa for several weeks' stay at their residence in Munich.

Miss Olive Atwater of New York is to remain in Lake Geneva until September as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley.

Mrs. Loring W. Coleman of 31 East Division street, who is at Concord, Mass., for the summer, spent a few days in New York City last week.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Secretary Arthur M. Hyde is spending the week-end at the cabinet camp on the Rapidan. Wilbur J. Carr, an assistant secretary of state, and Mrs. Carr sailed last night on the Minnetonka for a two months' vacation in France, Germany, Switzerland, and Belgium. Frederick H. Payne, an assistant secretary of war, and Mrs. Payne left yesterday by airplane for Duluth, Minn. They will be in the middle west for a week. Miss Carolyn Payne, their daughter, is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Payne, at their home in Stonington, Conn.

Julius Klein, an assistant secretary of commerce, and Mrs. Klein are in their summer home at Cape Rosier, near Bar Harbor, Me., until after Labor day.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin H. Fuller, new commandant of the marine corps, and Mrs. Fuller have as their guest in the commandant's quarters at the Marine barracks their daughter, Mrs. C. L. Fordney of Saginaw, Mich., and her three children. Mrs. Fordney is a daughter-in-law of former Rep. Joseph Fordney of Saginaw.

Invitations have been received here for the marriage on Sept. 6 of Miss Sarah Durand Lewis, daughter of William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette college in Pennsylvania, former president of George Washington university here, and formerly of Chicago, to William Edward Betts, son of William T. Betts of Lockhaven, Pa. Mr. Betts is a graduate of Mercersburg academy in Pennsylvania and of Lafayette college, class of '28.

Miss Lewis was presented to society here while her father was president of George Washington university. Many Washingtonians will go up to Colebrook, Conn., the summer home of the bride's parents, for the wedding. The ceremony will be performed in the Congregational church there and a reception will follow at Bobolink farm.

Dancing Masters Meet.

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Six hundred members of the dancing masters of America gave dances tonight at the Commodore hotel, opening their thirty-seventh annual convention. These dancing masters from every state in the union and several foreign countries are expecting rather a tendency toward the classic and the conservative than continuation of the present dances, Thomas M. Sheehy, president of the organization, declared today.

PLANS DEBUT

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Martin of Highland Park will give a dance for their debutante daughter, Miss Jane Martin, on Dec. 30 at the Blackstone hotel.

United Charities July Report Shows Gain in Calls for Relief

During July the United Charities of Chicago served 41.8 per cent more needy families than during the same month in 1929, Joel D. Hunter, superintendent, has revealed. He said conditions were especially bad, due to unemployment.

"The charities cared for 3,180 families during the month just past as compared with 2,242 the preceding July," Mr. Hunter stated. "That would mean about 12,720 persons served during this July. That is, I believe, the highest number for any summer month in the history of the United Charities. It is probable that we will spend $200,000 more than usual this year, because of unemployment."

During the first seven months of 1930 the charities, through district offices, spent $245,996, while the year before during the same period, the expense entailed by needy family care was $172,816. Last July $36,611 was spent, an increase of $13,674 over July, 1929. Although the work has increased 40 per cent, the office overhead budget has been decreased, Mr. Hunter said.

Jesuit Educators Meet.

The annual convention of the Jesuit Educational association now being held at Loyola university will enter its third day's sessions today. Meetings of the classical, social science and chemistry divisions make up most of today's program. A symposium on present day approaches to a personal philosophy of life will be held in two sessions this afternoon and evening. Fathers Leo J. Vollmer, A. M. Schwitalla, James R. O'Neil, Francis X. Mannhardt, Henry Willmering, and Dean Jos. F. Reiner of Loyola will speak.

Swim, If You Would Keep Your Figure Evenly Proportioned

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Curious the way fat concentrates on one part of the figure to the exclusion of other parts. I am thinking particularly of the women whose shoulders and arms are grotesquely heavy for the rest of their bodies. From the waist down they may be quite slender, with streamline hips and perfect legs and ankles.

If, added to the heavy shoulders and arms, there is a short neck, a crowded look is given the upper section of the anatomy and a somewhat oldish appearance lent the individual.

You often see this sort of figure in conjunction with an over-developed bust, so that, seated, the individual gives the impression of unusual heaviness.

Now, reducing the bust does not belong in the easiest branch of reducing. But it can be done, unless one suffers what is deemed more or less of a deformity, large and flabby breasts.

If the abdomen is small and the waist and the hips are uniformly graceful of line, diet is not the important thing needed to make more symmetrical the upper portion of the frame. Diet will help, of course, but a bit more muscular activity is really what is needed up there where the flesh piles on.

Summer offers you the opportunity to participate in the finest exercises known to reduce all this upper anatomy thickening, for swimming is wonderfully effective for hardening and reducing the flabby bust line. But I mean swimming. Not paddling around at the water's edge for a few minutes. You have to be an honest to goodness swimmer in order to profit from the silhouette angle. And the exercise will need to be kept up for some time after the swimming season is over if one is unduly heavy in the section referred to. But there are swimming pools to meet the emergency after the beaches are closed.

However, there are good arm and shoulder and bust exercises that can be practiced every morning.

Rites Recall Three, Slain by Indians, Now Catholic Saints

Auriesville, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Twenty thousand Catholics from the United States and Canada today honored the memory of North America's first three Christian martyrs, Saints Isaac Jaques, Rene Goupil, and Jean de la Lande. These three men, slain in a ravine here by Mohawk and Iroquois Indians after suffering tortures, were canonized by Pope Pius XI. at Rome June 29. Today the pope was represented by the Rev. Pietro Fumasoni Biondi, who today made his official visit to the scene of the martyrdom.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Flower gardening in August may seem to some a period of rest in which to enjoy the season's results, but R. B. Hull of Purdue university has several suggestions to follow during this month in the interests of better flowers this year and next.

Dry weather and insects prove a menace to a full season of flowers. Watering, says Mr. Hull, should be thorough and followed as soon as possible by cultivation for the purpose of creating a mulch. Pulling of all weeds and the use of grass clippings for mulching lilies are suggested for conserving moisture. The lawn should not be mowed too closely in order to afford protection to roots near the surface.

German irises should be divided and set out this month. The rhyzomes are cut so that each section has one group of leaves. The foliage should be clipped about two inches from the crown. Cuttings can be made from climbing rose bushes in August. The Purdue horticulturist says they should be taken from last year's wood, set in shaded soil to a depth of four inches and covered with a fruit jar with roots to be expected in a month or six weeks.

August also is considered a good month to visit nurseries and commercial growing houses to select dahlias, phlox, and gladioli for color, height, and foliage. Mr. Hull recommends such a process of buying new stock, because he says this enables a gardener to be sure of colors and to be able to compare hardiness and drouth resisting qualities of the different varieties.

Constant Moving Is Natural to Year Old Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Have you ever had a dream which later came true? If you care to see it in print address "Dreams," Chicago Tribune.

This letter is not unusual in the problem it presents:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: My husband and I have read your articles in the paper for more than three years and we wonder if you will help us with our little boy?

"He is a year old now, started walking when 9 months old and seemed to be nervous and wrigglesome, and would hardly sit still a minute. Even now he wants to go from one person's lap to another's, and out in company this is embarrassing because in our circle of friends we are the only ones with a small baby. We will always hold him when out to keep him from worrying others.

"At home I try to train him to sit still by making him sit in my lap or in a chair for 15 minutes every day, but this seems hopeless. Once in a great while he will amuse himself.

"The baby is well, has a good appetite and sleeps well. We have read some books on child training, but haven't found anything to help us with our little boy. I am thinking I don't know how to cope with the situation, being 19 and never having cared for babies before."

While many an experienced mother could reply to this young mother at great length, here is a condensed answer:

My dear Mrs.: I am so glad you and your husband have liked my articles, and I think I can help you, if you don't mind my being frank. To be sure, I don't know your baby boy, but I have a notion that you are expecting too much of him for his age. To be still on demand is not natural for babies. The big life impulse is movement. It is only by constant activity that he can develop. It is impossible for a year old baby to sit still as a matter of discipline.

What he needs is an outlet for his energy by having things to handle and play with, to climb over and try his strength on. Through the right activity he will eventually gain the control you desire.

I am enclosing my play booklet and toy list and suggest that you buy a good book on child care and training—the one called "Child Care and Training," by Faegre and Anderson, published by the University of Minnesota Press, Minneapolis, is excellent.

As to your friends—well, it is hard to be the only one with a small baby. It is apt to make the friends fussy or the mother too careful of her friends' feelings and worried about their possessions.

Perhaps the baby has had too much attention from everybody. A little impersonality is wholesome for children. Instead of holding him so much when you're out, put him down on the floor with some favorite plaything. Babies can be made contented and manageable but it takes young and inexperienced mothers a little while to learn how to get results.

Volunteers to Bank Baccarat Game; Big Loser

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

DEAUVILLE, Aug. 17.—The heavy losses of John Factor, when he took the banker's place in the open bank baccarat casino here yesterday, has gone to justify the Greek syndicate, which withdrew because of the government's new tax ruling. Factor, playing against a dozen of the wealthiest patrons of the casinos, was said to have lost $360,000 in four hours of play.

The syndicate contends that the new application of taxes before every deal removes the slight advantage, which the banker holds in the game and prevents the bankers from operating a paying proposition.

For this reason the regular open bank baccarat games have been put down at Deauville, Le Touquet, and other French casinos, and it is doubtful whether, after Factor's experience under the new ruling, there will be any steady supply of volunteer bankers to draw on.

Death Tax Cuts British Earl's Estate in Two

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The effect of death duties on ancestral estates in England was shown yesterday in the publication of the settlement of the inheritance by the fourth earl of Durham, who died four months after the death of the third holder of the title, thereby imposing two taxes on the family holdings in less than a year. The estate was valued at $7,718,000, but the two assessments amounted to $3,500,000, even though the clause halving the second tax in the event of two deaths in the same year was applied. The present earl's inheritance was therefore almost cut in two.

Knitted Pajamas Seen at Deauville.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Pajamas are so usual around the beaches of France that they no longer attract any attention unless they are in some way unusual in line, color or material. Deauville pajamas are the most remarkable, for the fashionable crowd that frequent this resort go in for outdoing the rest of the world in the matter of fashions of every type.

The pajamas shown in our sketch are attracting attention even in blasé Deauville, and for two reasons. First, because they are in three colors, and second because they are made of three materials, with colors and materials so artistically assembled that the costume is remarkable.

Nobody but Chantal could have combined bright grenadine red with pale banana yellow and white without making something bizarre, which this pajama ensemble distinctly is not. And nobody but Chantal would have thought of making a single pair of beach pajamas out of cotton tricot and silk knitted stuff.

The jacket of this ensemble, which is cut exactly like a blouse, is made of bright red silk tricot, knitted by hand, and fastened by two dark brown buttons. Mme. Chantal makes the pajamas of yellow cotton tricot, with stripes of dark brown down the sides of the trouser legs. The set in pockets at the top are also banded with brown tricot.

The sleeveless blouse that is worn under the jacket has a square cut neckline, and is made out of white linen. White linen also makes the wide brimmed hat that is trimmed by a braided band of red, yellow, and white wool.

GIRL'S FROCK.

Horizontal tucks mark the natural waistline and create the smart nipped-in effect to this frock. The pointed treatment of the circular skirt aids in giving a slender appearance, and the flaring shoulder cape with its scalloped edge is set on the dress in an unusual and attractive way. Any of the dress cottons, crêpe de chine or shantung are appropriate.

The pattern, 3477, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 35 inch material with ⅝ yard of 32 inch contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

"Tell me what to do with a sticky waffle iron. I gave mine a coat of oil and heated it thoroughly, according to the directions. For the first two or three times it baked beautiful waffles. Then, all at once, they began to stick so terribly that I had an awful time cleaning my iron. I oiled it again and 't did all right for a while. Then it stuck again. Now, I'm so discouraged that I'm afraid to try waffles when company comes. I would hate to have any one see me get in such a mess," writes Mrs. J. B.

I know that waffle irons can behave like angels, but once in a while they can act like a devil. "Are they supposed to be a temperamental piece of kitchen equipment that cannot always be depended upon?" is your question. And I answer, "No!" They respond beautifully to good treatment.

Now, Mrs. J. B. did not say how she cleaned her iron or what might have happened to it just before it began sticking. I have a suspicion that she may have washed it after that first sticking. When a clean, smooth surfaced waffle iron is coated with oil, then heated, there is left on the iron a thin film of oil that adheres tightly to the iron. Once this is formed, waffles do not stick. But once that film is broken, sticking begins.

Washing the iron with a soapy water or even wiping it vigorously with a wet cloth assists in breaking the film and aggravates rather than helps the trouble. Waffle irons with the film should never be washed and there is no necessity of washing them to remove dirt or dust if they are kept shut.

A stiff brush is a good thing to keep around for brushing the iron clean. Before baking the first waffle heat the iron about five minutes, brush lightly with unsalted oil or fat, or brush with cold water. Add batter immediately. No more oil or water should be needed for making the whole batch of waffles.

When an iron persists in sticking there is only one thing to do and that is to oil it as was advised in the beginning. If your iron still sticks after following to the letter these directions, let me know.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Deserted Wife.

"Can you please help me? My husband left me two months ago and I am expecting a baby soon. As this is my first child, I have no clothing for it, and cannot afford to buy any. I would be so grateful for any you might be able to give me or any clothing for myself. I wear size 36 or 38 and slippers, size 4½ or 5.

"MRS. L. M."

To be left alone at the time when she needs encouragement and support most is certainly an unhappy predicament for this young, expectant mother. Can you help her by supplying the tiny garments she will need and some clothing for herself?

Desires Porch Shades.

"I wonder if one of your readers has some porch shades no longer in use. We would be grateful to get them as we cannot afford to buy any but need some for a porch used as a room.

MRS. A."

If you invested in new porch shades this season perhaps you'd like to have the old ones put back into use. I am sure they could be mended to suit the need here.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Drop a Hint.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love asked me out while my mother was ill. Now my mother is feeling better, and I would like to go out with him, but he doesn't ask me out any more.

"MARIE."

Tell him your mother is better and you'd like awfully well to have him spend an evening with you. That may bring forth the invitation you desire.

It's a Mistake.

"Dear Miss Blake: Should a girl of 18 keep steady company? Please advise.

RINKY."

Many of them do, but it's a great mistake. That's the age for a girl to enjoy popularity—to have different beaux and all the good times possible.

CUBS KEEP PACE WITH ROBINS; BEAT PHILS, 5-4

PEOPLE INSULT A 100 TO 1 SHOT ONCE TOO OFTEN

Jim Dandy Teaches Them a Lesson.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 17.—This has been a Sunday of repining and self-reproach in Saratoga on account of that 100 to 1 shot, Jim Dandy, which came slogging along though the pudding out at the horse track to beat both Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers stakes.

Approximately 50,000 people felt the same emotions as those parties in the bible who detoured their ox carts around the rock in the road and presently heard that a humble member of their community, who was supposed to be not overly bright, though kind hearted, had heaved the rock aside, to discover a satchel of gold which became his own by the rule of finders keepers.

Jim Dandy Makes It Real.

This once seemed a highly preposterous story, but as one thinks over the episode of Jim Dandy it takes on credulity. It seems almost as though the bookmakers, on the lawn and hovering around their appointed stanchions under the stands, had devised this dreadful affair as a rebuke to thoughtlessness, cupidity and pride. The sophisticated horse bettors were most unkind to Jim Dandy, many harsh and derisive opinions of him being voiced as he went to the post, a gawky critter with a funny sheepskin strap across his nose, promising to match his getalong against the speed of Gallant Fox and Whichone.

And up to the instant that the man up in the starter's pulpit snapped the barber with a stirring yell of "Hy-dah! git," the bookmakers had been offering from $50 to $150 to a dollar, or almost any price one cared to name, against him. It was an insult to any horse with four legs beneath him not to bet a few shillings on him in a four horse race at such odds as that, and your correspondent, personally, has learned a lesson in manners and will never insult a 100 to 1 shot again.

Ten dollars worth of kind consideration for Jim Dandy would have paid a thousand or fifteen hundred a few minutes later, and assuredly this thought was uppermost in the reflections of the many citizens who sat upon the verandas of the cottages and hotels or on the fire plugs along the main street of Saratoga, whiling away the long hours of the Sabbath.

Many Meant to Bet.

Very few parties have been discovered who actually wagered on Jim Dandy, but the town was positively stuffy with people who intended to buy a few dollars worth of his stock and were actually on the way to do so when they stopped to have a sandwich or pass the time of day with one of the Whitneys.

One very touching case has come to your correspondent's notice. There was a party of fourteen at a table, twelve ladies and two gents. The ladies, due perhaps to the feminine instinct to order by the big numbers on the bill of fare, were fascinated by the price 100 to 1, marked against Jim Dandy's name on their programs, so they put up $20 apiece and sent their gents off to post the same with a gambling man just by. They persisted in this folly over the protests of the shrewd and dominant males who almost decided to pocket the money themselves and underwrite the bet, but, providentially, didn't.

Before they left the horse track, the ladies were waited upon by a courteous agent of the bookmaker and handed checks for $2,000 each and the two gentlemen were still babbling and pouring themselves stiff shocks of sedative at noon today. It would have been an inexpensive act of kindness to the horse and cheap insurance for their domestic prestige to make the bet unanimous, but the bookmakers do say the males generally regard the long shot as something effeminate and shun the same as being akin to the slave bracelet, crepe de chine underwear, and perfume.

Mr. Rosoff's Wager Revised.

The story of the thousand dollar bet by Samuel Rosoff, the New York contractor who built the new Eighth avenue subway, has been revised in the direction of moderation and it is now reported that Mr. Rosoff bet only $50 on Jim Dandy to win and $50 to place, at joint odds of 75 to 1.

Fortunately time heals all, and as Sunday wore along toward dinner time, the citizens were beginning to see humor in the disaster. The Negro hall boys in the old United States hotel, doing their vast miles of road work down the quarter mile corridors, with tinkling pitchers or trays of tomato juice for reviving sufferers, had learned to put the question in capsule form.

"Did you?" said they. "Me neither, Boss."

BY FRENCH LANE.

John Schank, president of the Hawthorne Jockey club, scanned the turf news briefly yesterday morning and then nearly smashed the mahogany top of his big desk as he suddenly brought his right fist down on it.

"I'll match 'em up!" shouted Mr. Schank so loudly that it disturbed Stewards Murphy and Nathanson and Racing Secretary McLennan, who were dozing away in the quiet of a peaceful Sabbath morning, where only some slow workouts were taking place.

Mr. Schank pushed a button just above the fetlock on the right fore leg of his mahogany desk and Racing Secretary McLennan drowsily stumbled into the private office.

"Joe, write the conditions of a race for our October meeting," ordered Mr. Schank as he continued to beat the top of his mahogany desk into submission, "for which only 3 year olds that have won either an American Derby or a Travers stake are eligible."

Then Mr. Schank's poundings on the mahogany desk became just as many taopings of the first and little fingers. "It's the greatest turf natural of the year," he said.

"Can you imagine a race," he asked, "that will bring together Reveille Boy and Jim Dandy?"

Mr. Schank may be right and possibly he will pack the customers into his Hawthorne track if this race fills, for only Reveille Boy and Jim Dandy are eligible to it. "I'm in favor of offering a purse of $50,000 for such a contest," Mr. Schank continued.

Reveille Boy produced the first great upset of the year when he won the American Derby last June and in the mutuel betting paid $113.08 for every two dollars invested. Jim Dandy went Reveille Boy one better in the Travers at Saratoga on Saturday and provided the season's most spectacular upset when he beat Gallant Fox and Whichone in the Travers at odds of 75 to 1.

Mr. Schank is in favor of these two jockeys riding Jim Dandy and Reveille Boy in his big "natural."

"And the winning jockey will be pensioned at a good liberal stipend and never permitted to ride again," mused Mr. Schank as Racing Secretary McLannan began to write out the conditions for the match which no doubt will stir the turf world.

"And which will you bet on?" Mr. Schank was asked

"If both are quoted at 100 to 1 I'll have a ticket on each of them," was Mr. Schank's reply.

"And wouldn't it be a good idea to let Dick O'Hara into this race?" Mr. Schank phoned your correspondent just at press time.

STRIBLING, DUFFY TO CONFER TODAY ON CARNERA BOUT

Mique Malloy, whose plans for matching Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, with Jack Sharkey went awry when Sharkey decided he preferred to fight Vittorio Campolo for Madison Square Garden, is hopeful of recruiting Willie Stribling for his Chicago fistic production.

Malloy announced last night that William Duffy, one of the legion of Carnera managers, would confer with Pa Stribling, Willie's manager, in New York today and that he expected the Stribling family to agree to meet the Alpine Italian here in September. If, however, the Striblings decide against the Carnera match here, Malloy will continue his search for a suitable opponent.

Malloy said Pa Stribling had listened with a welcome ear to his offers for a bout here, but had hesitated to sign for it until Willie returned from Europe, promising to give it serious consideration if Sharkey failed to sign.

75,000 SCOFF AT GRAY SKIES, APPLAUD POLICE

Illinois Athletic Club Wins A. A. U. Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Seventy-five thousand honored the policemen of Chicago and the south parks yesterday at Soldiers' field in the concluding day's performance of the ninth annual police games. Gray skies and a chill northeasterly wind which carried notice of fall only prevented establishment of a new attendance record.

It was a friendly crowd, this throng which came to watch Chicago's finest in their annual drills and games. They were spontaneous in applause, eager to accord recognition to the skill of the marching squads, the dashing horsemen, and the daredevil riding of the motorcycle men.

This wholehearted enthusiasm set the tempo of the day's exhibitions. More than 1,000 police, the center groups in khaki and white, and the flanking squads in white athletic uniforms, moved through their set exercises without error. The evolutions of the marchers, the skillful riding of the mounted men, later riding tandem, received rounds of greeting from the crowd.

Fans Thrilled at "Fighting Crime."

"Fighting Crime," the detective bureau's realistic pursuit and capture of "criminals" who perpetrated a holdup in the center of the stadium and retreated to a cottage before the shotgun fire of squad cars, thrilled the audience. The roaring sirens, the swaying cars driven at top speed from the banked north end of the field to overtake and rout the lawbreakers, was a reminder that the games and contests are means to condition Chicago's police for their daily task.

The sectional contests carried the interests of the police. The tug of war was the climax. South defeated North for the championship in 2 minutes 3 seconds, pulling to victory after North had taken an early advantage. North Central won from South Central in the pull for third honors.

North section defeated North Central in the shuttle relay race, while South won from South Central for consolation honors. North Central was the victor in the pursuit chariot race, with North earning second place. South Central was third and South fourth in this event.

Tie in Pushball Final.

North and South, finalists in the pushball contests, played a 1 to 1 tie. South took the medals on a flip of the coin. North Central won from South Central, 1 to 0, for third.

Patrolman George Larson won the final race for mounted men of the traffic detail, racing the length of the stadium in 15 seconds. Arthur West was second, George Tambling finished third, and Arthur Brady was fourth.

North defeated South in the eight minute motorcycle polo game, 4 to 0. Crashing together with roaring motors, falling under their machines, the riders in the contest carried all the thrill afforded by the detective bureau's drama.

North section was victorious in the field and track events, scoring 30 points. The other districts counted as follows: North Central, 14; South Park, 14; South Central, 13 and Southern, 6.

Three A. A. U. Records Fall.

Three records were broken in the Central A. A. U. events which were held yesterday in conjunction with the police games. Starting at 9 a. m., the athletes of three states competed for the right to represent the Central association in the national meet at Pittsburgh this week.

Ralph Metcalf, Negro sprinter who competed this spring for Tilden Tech, taking the state sprint titles, won the 100 yard dash. His time of 9 7-10 seconds broke the mark jointly held by five men by one-tenth of a second. Jack Elder, representing the Illinois Athletic club, was second, a few feet behind. Elder won his preliminary heat in 9 9-10 seconds.

F. Morgan Taylor won the quarter mile in 48 2-10 seconds. The old record was established by Herman Phillips at 48 8-10 seconds. Virgil Gist,

Sox Lose to Yanks in 10th, 8-7; Then Win in Five Innings, 6-1

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—Had Mr. Babe Ruth remained away from his place of business today the White Sox might have accomplished a rare feat. The Babe, however, was much in evidence when greatly needed, so the Chicagoans, instead of winning both ends of a double header with the Yankees before 40,000, had to confine themselves to one victory and one defeat. It was Ruth's bat that saved the Yanks by 8 to 7 in a ten inning opener, after which the Sox carried away a 6 to 1 game that was limited to five innings because of darkness.

RED FABER.

Before revealing the details of Ruth's salvaging deeds in the first game it probably would be more fitting to pay brief tribute to Red Faber, the man whose 42d birthday is peeking around the corner. Old Red was good enough to pitch five innings on an allowance of four hits and seemingly could have gone along just as effectively if his assignment had run its regulation length. He now has three straight victories to his credit and the three are the only ones taken by the Sox in their last sixteen attempts.

Watwood, Barnes Lead Attack.

Supporting Faber in the afterpiece was an attack that was far from meek. Between games Bush gave his combination another shake and apparently discovered just what he sought. This was particularly true so far as Watwood and Barnes were concerned. Watwood was moved to first base and Barnes filled the vacancy in center. Between them they divided six hits off McEvoy and Wells. The choicest of the wallops was a homer by Barnes just after Watwood had doubled. This accounted for two of the five runs with which the Sox took a comfortable lead in the second and third innings.

Ruth staged his coup in the first game after the Sox had cut up extensively enough to get within reach of the verdict. Ted Lyons started in quest of his eighteenth victory, but was handled so roughly that he had to be yanked in the fifth with the score 6 to 1 again him. One of these tallies was the work of Gehrig, who peeled off homer No. 34.

The 6 to 1 handicap wasn't enough to impress the Sox, however. They began knocking the ball around in the sixth and scored three. They did some more pommeling in the seventh and scored three more, which not only gave them a one run advantage, but also knocked Pipgras completely off the rubber.

Ruth Hits No. 44.

But the lead of one run faded as soon as Mr. Ruth was able to go to work on the ill fated Dutch Henry in the seventh. The Babe hit homer No. 44 out of the park to tie the score. The clout put Ruth six homers ahead of his record breaking 1927 season.

After putting his mates in a tie, Ruth continued to be a nuisance by starting the rally which finished the fight in the tenth. He led off in that inning with a single to right. Lazzari scratched a single through short. Gehrig beat out a bunt toward first, filling the bases and putting Henry in a sad predicament. He didn't have to wait long, however. Ruffing batted for Cooke and singled to right, scoring Ruth with the winning run.

Braxton and Pennock will pitch tomorrow.

In the first game the Yankees didn't waste much time on Lyons. Gehrig stepped up in the second inning and blasted home run No. 34 into the seats in right. Another Yank scored in the third. This was done by Reese, who tripled and ran home on Ruth's infield out. One more Yankee run in the fourth made it 3 to 0 against Lyons. This tally grew from singles by Gehrig, Cooke and Dickey.

Sox Score in Fifth.

Hits by Watwood and Mulleavy let the Sox score their first run off Pipgras in the fifth, but this merely stirred up the Yanks. They shoved across three in their half. Combs singled, Reese popped out and Ruth survived on Clancy's fumble. Both tore home on Lazzari's triple to center. On Gehrig's triple Tony scored and Lyons went away to more peaceful surroundings. Henry stopped the rally with surprising ease.

Three runs for the Sox in the sixth started with a pass to Kerr. Cissell singled and so did Reynolds, Kerr scoring. Jolley was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Watwood walked and Cissell was forced to score. Mulleavy forced Jolley at third, but Reynolds registered on the play. Then the splurge subsided because neither Clancy nor Tate could produce.

The luckless Henry had the pleasure of starting the three run rally which gave the Sox a momentary lead in the seventh. Henry singled, Kerr fanned, but a pass to Cissell and a scratch

COOPER SHOOTS 8 UNDER PAR TO WIN OPEN GOLF

Chicagoan's 280 Beats Manero 3 Strokes.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 17.—(AP)—"Lighthorse" Harry Cooper today galloped away with first prize money in the $10,000 St. Paul Open golf championship.

The Chicago professional won the title and the $2,500 pot of gold that went with it by shooting an amazing 72 hole total of 280, eight strokes under par, for the Keller course, and three shots lower than the 283 scored by Tony Manero of New York, who finished second and received $2,000.

HARRY COOPER.

Horton Smith, always a money winner, finished third today with a 285 total to win $1,500. Fourth place went to Walter Hagen with a 286, while Gene Sarazen of New York and Charles Lacey of Clementson, N. J., tied for fifth place with 288, even par for the four rounds. Johnny Goodman of Omaha easily topped the amateurs in the field and tied with Tommy Armour of Detroit, western open champion, with 289.

Cooper Shoots Nine in 31.

Cooper, within striking distance of the lead from the first round on, shoved himself to the top on the homeward stretch of his morning round today. Tied for fourth place at the end of the first 36 holes yesterday, Cooper started out on his third round with a 37, one over par, for the nine holes. Coming back he shot a 31, which gave him a 68 and sent him into the lead at the three-quarter mark with a total of 210, one less than Manero's 54 hole total.

On the homeward nine, the lowest ever carded on the Keller course, he had clicked off five birdies and played even par on the other four holes.

Instead of cracking when he heard that Manero had finished ahead of him with a 283, Cooper sailed right along and finished with a par, breaking 70. Manero, leader at the halfway mark with 139, shot par 72s on both his rounds today.

Smith Finishes Strong.

Horton Smith shot a remarkable 68 on his final round to land third. He ended his third round seven strokes behind Cooper, and if some of his frequent putts for birdies had gone down he might have thrown the championship flight into a deadlock.

Other prize winning totals:

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 147—75—70—292.

You, Too, Can Talk Glibly About Sport

The casual followers of sport, men and women whose only contact with ball games, tennis matches, and horse races is in the rôle of irregular spectators, constantly encounter confusing terms in newspaper accounts of these sports. It is for them that the following glossary of terms native to baseball, tennis, golf, and horse racing is intended. The true follower who can tell you Ty Cobb's lifetime batting average or the winner of the first Kentucky Derby, will find them old stuff. For those to whom they are new, here they are:

TENNIS.

Seeded player—One of a group of favorites in a tournament whose matches are so scheduled by the tournament committee that he will not meet players of his own calibre until the later stages of the tournament. The team "seeded" is used because the players are literally "planted" so that stars will not meet in the early rounds and thus eliminate one another.

Ace—A point scored on the service, or first ball hit.

Volley—A stroke made by hitting the ball before it has touched the ground, except in serving.

GOLF.

Stymie—This term is used to describe the situation wherein an opponent's ball lies between yours and the hole.

Birdie—One stroke less than par for any hole.

Eagle—Two strokes less than par for any hole.

Dormie—A player is dormie when he has won a number of holes equal to the number remaining to be played.

BASEBALL.

Balk—An illegal motion or position by the pitcher, entitling the base runner, or runners, to advance one base.

Texas leaguer—An arching safe hit in which the ball falls between the infielders and the outfielders.

Sacrifice—This is a bunt, or a fly ball, hit when no one or only one man is out, which advances base runners, and which results in the sacrifice batter being put out before he reaches first base.

HORSE RACING.

Tack—A jockey's equipment.

Apprentice allowance claim—A jockey is rated an apprentice for one year from the day he rides his first winner. Owners of his mounts are allowed to claim a five pound reduction in weight during that time.

SUTTER DEFEATS MANGIN IN GRASS COURT NET FINAL

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Clifford Sutter, young Tulane university tennis ace, today added the eastern grass courts singles title to his intercollegiate championship. He defeated Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., No. 10 on the national ranking list, in the finals at the Westchester Country club, 4-6, 8-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1.

The women's singles title went to Miss Marjorie Gladman of Santa Monica, who defeated Baroness Giacomo Levi of Italy, 7-5, 4-6, 8-6. Miss Virginia Rice, Boston, and her Cincinnati partner, Miss Clara Zinke, captured the women's doubles by beating Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, and Miss Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 7-5.

Berkeley Bell, 1929 intercollegiate titleholder from Austin, Tex., and Eddie Jacobs, Baltimore, carried off the men's doubles with a victory over the English team of H. G. N. Lee and S. J. Perry, 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Woody English and Kiki Cuyler, representing the Chicago Cubs, yesterday afternoon engaged in a foursome against Pinkey Whitney and Lefty O'Doul. English and Cuyler scored five runs for the Cubs and the Whitney-O'Doul combination scored four. No one else ran across the home plate. So the Cubs beat the Phils in the third of their series, 5 to 4.

The foregoing is not meant to convey that the aforementioned runmakers were alone in the power production, but to score you've got to get on base, and on this line of reasoning Mr. Cuyler, Mr. English, Mr. O'Doul and Mr. Whitney get the garlands, although the former pair were aided substantially by Lester Bell and Hack Wilson. Chuck Klein did some smacking to help the Philly cause.

Victory enabled the Cubs to retain their 2½ game advantage over the Robins, who shut out Pittsburgh. The third place Giants lost a half game by dividing with the Cardinals.

Philly Pitcher Wilts.

The Phillies did the heavier slugging and their downfall was attributed to the usual belated pitching collapse that has attended so many of their tough losses this year. The tail-enders might have won but for the fact that Collard, who had pitched a nice, steady game for seven innings, filled the bases at the start of the eighth without calling upon the Cubs to touch the ball with their bats. He walked English, hit Cuyler with a pitched ball, and walked Wilson. From this sizable acorn sprouted two big runs and victory, a force-out and Bell's third single doing the business.

Each of the teams made nine hits. The Phillies' collection off Guy Bush included homers by O'Doul and Whitney, a triple by Whitney and a double by Klein, which missed being a triple by an eyelash. For Chicago Cuyler propelled a double and two singles in three times at bat; Bell, subbing for Capt. Charley Grimm at first, knocked three singles and a run producing sacrifice fly, and English had two singles and a walk in four trips to the plate.

Leading Pitchers to Clash.

This afternoon the teams will engage in their fourth game, and two of the league's leading pitchers will face each other. Pat Malone, with a record of fourteen victories, will work for the Cubs and Phil Collins will perform for Phillies. Phil also has won fourteen, which are a lot of victories, seeing as the tail-enders have won but thirty-eight games all year.

In yesterday's game the visitors were the first to score. They did it with two out in the first, when O'Doul got his homer.

The Cubs tied it up in their half of the first. English singled with one out and stopped at third on Cuyler's double to right. Woody scored while Rensa was throwing out Wilson.

There was no more scoring until the sixth, when both clubs again became active. O'Doul walked. Then Klein drove a liner to the left field wall. O'Doul scored easily, but Chuck was out trying to reach third, D. Taylor to Farrell to English.

Cubs Regain Lead.

In their half the champs took the lead away from the cellar stars. English singled with one out and went to third on Cuyler's single. Wilson dropped a hit into right, English scoring and Cuyler going to third. D. Taylor walked, filling the bases. Then Bell sent a sacrifice fly to O'Doul, Cuyler scoring.

Whitney started the seventh with a triple to right and scored on Pinch Batter McCurdy's sacrifice fly. Collard got his second hit, but Brickell fanned and Bush threw out Thompson.

The next scoring was in the Cubs' eighth. The bases were filled with no bat swinging, as previously related. Then English scored while D. Taylor was forcing Wilson at second, and Cuyler ran across on Bell's single to center. Hartnett closed the Cubs' offensive for the day by hitting into a double play for the second time in the game. In the ninth Whitney hit his homer.

HITCHCOCK FOUR DEFEATS REDS IN POLO TEST, 18-15

Record Crowd Watches Exciting Match.

Port Washington, N. Y., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Apparently the week of rest granted candidates for America's international polo team improved them, for this afternoon at the Sands Point club, ten players of this country and England rode through the most exciting test match that the seasen has produced. Tommy Hitchcock's Whites defeated the Reds, 18 to 15.

Undeterred by black clouds, which fulfilled their threat of rain soon after the game ended, the largest crowd that has seen a polo game this year jammed the grounds and watched Hitchcock lead his team in a five goal rally and a last minute victory.

Whites Are First String.

The Whites today were the team which has come to be regarded as America's tentative choice for the matches with England next month, Eric Pedley, Earle A. Hopping, Hitchcock, and Winston Guest. Opposing them were American candidates and two of the British squad. Pete Bostwick started at No. 1 for the Reds and was replaced by Elmer Boeseke in the second half. Cecil Smith rode throughout at No. 2. Gerald Balding of England played the first half at No. 3. Rube Williams of Texas played the first half at back and the second at No. 3. Aidan Roark, also of the British group, was at back in the last four periods.

The six goal handicap they started with more or less offset the breaking up of the Red combination. They were not headed until the Whites, with a surging rush, caught and passed them in the final period. Bostwick was hitting beautifully and riding with all of his skill. Behind him Rube Williams and Cecil Smith turned in superb polo.

Hitchcock Aids on Defense.

Hitchcock devoted most of the first half to defensive work and aided Guest in cutting down the surprising Red attack. Pedley had his hands full with the fast moving Williams against him. The younger Hopping hit some amazing shots. Summary:

WHITES [18].	Position.	REDS [15].
E. Pedley	No. 1	G. H. Bostwick
E. A. S. Hopping	No. 2	C. Smith
T. Hitchcock Jr.	No. 3	G. Balding
W. F. C. Guest	Back	H. W. Williams

Score by periods:

Whites	4	1	2	1	1	2	2	5—18
Reds	7	1	2	2	1	1	1	0—15

Substitutions—Elmer J. Boeseke for Bostwick in fifth period. Adrian Roark for Balding in fifth. Roark playing back, Williams going to No. 3.

Goals — Whites, Pedley, 5; Hopping, 5; Hitchcock, 5; Guest, 2. One goal awarded for foul. Reds, Bostwick, 4; Smith, 5; handicap, 6.

a few yards away, talking, of all things, baseball, and particularly John McGraw's travels about the minor leagues in search of one more pitcher.

Healy said Whichone was a gone race horse now. Early in the season he was lamed by a quarter crack which seems to be a superficial split about the point where the hoof joins the leg, but the new injury is in another leg and deep inside, a rupture of the sheath in which the big tendon operates. He will have to mend quickly to leave for the farm by the time the Saratoga meeting ends.

Whichone and Gallant Fox ran a horse race as stirring in its way as the first round of the Dempsey-Firpo prize fight. They went by the stand in the first leap for an advantage amid such a creak of leather, rumble of hoofs, and soughing of breaths, pierced by the yelps of the jockeys, as fictioners often tell of, but the patrons seldom hear up in the stands. This horse race was a fight, and the two animals seemed to recognize only one another, ignoring Jim Dandy and Sun Falcon until they had run themselves weary and the hundred to one shot slid by. Just so Fred Fulton might have knocked out Dempsey when Firpo finally flopped down and out.

Mr. Healy said it was a suicide race. He saw Whichone go lame in the backstretch when the horse seemed to lose a stride and Sande's colors on Gallant Fox suddenly went about a quarter of a length in front.

Just what the horse race proved as to Jim Dandy is not quite plain. Mr. Healy says it might even prove that he is a race horse, but the obvious moral of the case is that nobody should think unkindly of 103 to 1 shots.

Betty Nuthall Is Favored to Win Net Meet

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Shorn of much of its brilliancy by the absesence of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, play in the national women's tennis singles championship opens tomorrow at Forest Hills.

With Mrs. Moody not defending her title and Miss Jacobs out of competition because of poor health. Miss Betty Nuthall, 19 year old English star, is the favorite. Miss Nuthall is making her third attempt at the American title, having been defeated once in the finals by Queen Helen and last year in the semi-final round by Mrs. Molla Mallory.

Twenty-five first round matches will be played tomorrow with all seeded starts except Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Miss Marjorie Morrill, and Baroness Glacomo Levi of Italy in action. The other seeded players include Mrs. L. A. Harper, Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Sarah Palfrey, Miss Ethel Burkhardt, Miss Mary Greer, Miss Edith Cross, and Miss Nuthall.

LITTLE STORIES OF FAST SUCCESSES

[NUMBER ELEVEN]

JOAN CRAWFORD

Joan is America's "Dancing Daughter." She danced through school. She danced through college. She danced as an "extra"... and danced to stardom. All in a few brief years.

Just as another young star, OLD GOLD, waltzed through New England in barely two weeks. Skipped down the East Coast in a few brief months. Glided through the Middle-West before the end of the winter: Won the whole country in little more than a year.

How account for such success? Ask Mother Nature. For, she produced the better tobaccos that gave OLD GOLD its new taste-thrill... gave OLD GOLD its famous throat-ease.

ON MARCH 23, 1927, THE FIRST OLD GOLDS WERE SOLD ON BROADWAY. IN A MONTH THEY WERE ONE OF THE FOUR BEST SELLERS THROUGHOUT THE NEW YORK RIALTO.

Cleveland Scores 5 Runs in One Inning.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Cleveland took a double header from Boston here today, 9 to 3, and 2 to 0. The second game was called at the end of the seventh inning on account of the Sunday baseball law.

The Indians scored five runs in the sixth inning of the first game on only two hits, for Horace Lisenbee and Big Ed Morris could not find the plate and passed six bases on balls.

Clint Brown outpitched Danny MacFayden of the Red Sox in the second game, showing greater effectiveness in the pinches. Montague led the Indians' attack in the nightcap with three singles in as many times at bat. Scores:

Vance Stops Pirates; Robins Win, 5-0; Herman Hits 27th

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Dazzy Vance completely baffled the Pirates here today, as the Robins, struggling to retain their grip on second place, celebrated a home stand of one day with a 5 to 0 victory over Pittsburgh. Vance fanned nine and allowed eight hits, which were well scattered except in the sixth, when three singles failed to score for the Pirates.

Larry French, who opposed the veteran Vance, became two down in the first inning, when Babe Herman followed Fredericks' single with his twenty-seventh homer of the season. French pitched the complete game and allowed ten hits. Score:

Culver to Play St. John's in Legion Benefit Game

Football teams of St. John's and Culver Military academies will meet Nov. 8 at Soldiers' field for the benefit of the American Legion of Cook county. More than 1,000 cadets, representing both schools, the Black Horse troop, and chief of staff of the United States army are expected to attend.

hit by Reynolds loaded the bases. Jolley singled into center, scoring Henry and Cissell and moving Reynolds to third. Pipgras then departed to make room for Johnson. Watwood welcomed Johnson with a hit and Reynolds crossed the plate, to give the Sox a 7 to 6 lead. The advantage vanished shortly afterward when Mr. Ruth's No. 44 whistled into the right field bleachers, and the deadlock wasn't disturbed until the tenth, as already related.

Barnes Hits Homer.

The nightcap became interesting from a Sox standpoint in the second inning, when Watwood doubled into right field. Barnes then hit a homer into the right field stands for two runs.

A single by Cissell touched off a three run blast in the third. He went as far as third on Reynolds' double to left. McEvoy was immediately excused from further duty and Wells was summoned. The first thing he did was to retire Jolley, but Watwood singled to center, Cissell and Reynolds hiking home. A hit by Barnes sent Watwood to third, and he scored from there when Bengough made a bad throw trying to catch him off the bag. This put the Sox out in front with a 5 to 0 lead.

The lone run off Faber occurred in the fourth inning, the contributing factors being a single by Lazzeri, a double by Gehrig, and an infield out. The Watwood-Barnes combination retrieved this tally in the fifth. The former doubled to right and went to third when Chapman erred on the throw in. Barnes singled him home. After the Yanks had gone through the motions in their half of the fifth Umpire Owens decided that night baseball wasn't possible without lights.

PENN OARSMEN DEFEAT ITALY IN WORLD REGATTA

LIEGE, Belgium, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Penn Athletic club eight today won the championship of the international rowing regatta, defeating Denmark and Italy in the final. The time was 5:27.

Going to the post the favorites, the American crew took no chances, rowing hard from the start. At the end of the 2,000 meter jaunt the Penn eight was two lengths in front of Italy, with Denmark third.

Italy made a great bid at the 1,500 meter mark, reducing the Americans' lead from two lengths to less than a length, but the Penn crew soon regained its advantage and finished strong.

70 WOMEN OPEN PLAY TODAY FOR STATE GOLF CUP

Seventy golfers will attempt to wrest the Illinois state women's championship from Mrs. Lillian Zech in the annual tournament which starts today at Lincoln park and continues through Saturday. Mrs. Zech, an honorary member of the Lincoln Park club, has won the title two consecutive years.

Heading the list of competitors is Mrs. Rose Marshall of Marquette Park, who twice went to the finals with Mrs. Zech. Margaret Rosslein, Lincoln Park, who waged a stiff battle against Mrs. Zech in the Cook county tournament at Jackson park recently, also is entered. Eleven prizes will be awarded.

former University of Chicago runner, was second.

Levi Casey Sets Mark.

Levi Casey of the I. A. C. accounted for the third record breaking performance. He set a mark of 49 feet 9¾ inches in the hop, step, and jump. Casey was a member of the 1928 Olympic team, finishing second, only three-fourths of an inch behind the winner's mark of 49 feet 11 inches.

Rinehart threw the javelin 199 feet 9¾ inches in another creditable performance, while Anton Burg, who once jumped for the University of Chicago and now competes for the I. A. C., won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet 3½ inches.

John Wonsowicz, Froebel High school star of Gary, Ind., won the pole vault at 12 feet 7½ inches. His high school team mate, C. Pelucha, was second. Both competed for the I. A. C.

I. A. C. Wins Team Title.

The Illinois Athletic club had no difficulty winning the team championship with 123 points. The University of Illinois, largely through the efforts of Lee Sentman, scored 13 points to tie for third place with the south park athletes. Chase park was second with 20 points. The team scores follow: I. A. C., 123; Chase park, 20; Illinois, 13; South Parks, 13; Penn R. R. Athletic club, 8; Wisconsin, 8; Mattoon, Ill., Big Four A. A., 3; Amphion A. C., 3; Chicago, 2; Norwegian-American A. C., 2; German-American A. C., 1.

Drought and Storms Wreck Crops.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Europe will bear with America heavy agricultural losses which a summer of protracted droughts and severe storms have occasioned from the British isles to the steppes of Russia.

Reports from many countries where harvesting operations are about to begin showed today that Russia and Rumania would be the only ones with surplus cereal crops for export, while England, France, Italy, Germany, and Austria would have subnormal yields of wheat, rye, oats, and barley.

French and Italian wheat farmers have been suffering from fickle weather almost as much as have the grain growers of the United States. Soviet officials, however, reported that Russian peasants have benefited from a season so uniformly good they were preparing to harvest a huge crop with the prospect of having grain to spare.

Smaller Than Usual.

England will market a smaller wheat crop than usual as a result of a decrease of 200,000 acres in cultivation, but expects to obtain better prices for wheat because of conditions in America.

Southeastern Europe has been favored with temperate weather and even where droughts have been experienced, the dryness came at an opportune moment to ripen crops and permit of easy harvesting.

France has begun to entertain serious doubts of producing enough wheat at home to provide bread for the nation. Last year France had a surplus of 30,000,000 bushels over the 260,000,000 required for home consumption. Late and protracted rains and electrical storms have affected all sections of the wheat growing areas. Unofficial estimates of France's home grown wheat this year, therefore, range around 250,000,000 bushels.

German Estimate.

A protracted wet period, which followed the long June drought, delayed all German crops. An increase of 25 per cent in wheat acreage, in accordance with the government's directions to agriculture to set up a condition avoiding importation of foreign wheat, has helped to keep up the grain yield.

In other respects the German grain crop appears less promising. Rye, which is the staple crop of the fatherland, it is estimated will yield only 47,000 tons summer crop, compared with 59,000 tons of 1929. Winter rye, estimated at 5,000,50 tons, will not match the 6,000,000 tons of last year.

File for Panhandle Illinois Pipe Line Incorporation

Incorpration papers for the Panhandle Illinois Pipe Line company, which will build and operate the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company's line across Illinois, have been filed at the secretary of state's office. The Panhandle Illinois Pipe Line company will have a paid-in cash capital of $1,000,000, and will be a wholly owned subsidiary of the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company, which in turn is a subsidiary of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company.

RAILROAD NOTES

June net operating income of 172 class 1 railroads, including 16 switching and terminal companies, totaled $68,883,475, compared with $105,817,808 in the like month last year. Net operating income for the first half was $376,428,839, against $562,729,734 in the corresponding period of 1929.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized the Burlington railroad to construct, through a subsidiary corporation, 110 miles of new railroad in Texas from Childress via Wellington to Pampa at a cost of $4,000,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Offering is being made of an issue of $7,000,000 City of Chicago 4 per cent bonds to yield 3.25 to 3.90 per cent, according to maturity. Included in the offering group are Halsey, Stuart & Co., Chase Securities company, E. H. Rollins & Sons, A. B. Leach & Co., and Lawrence Stern & Co.

Offering is being made of $1,190,000 Beaumont, Tex., 4½ per cent bonds maturing serially July 1, 1931, to 1970, inclusive, priced to yield 4.25 to 4.60 per cent.

HEAT ALSO DOES MUCH HARM TO NATION'S CORN

Weather Has Hurt Pollination.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All sections of the country east of the Rockies ore stirred up over the effect of drought and heat on the corn crop. It is believed by most people that the heat has done more damage than drought, preventing proper pollination.

This will develop at husking time, and the impression prevails that when workers get into the fields there will be great disappointment at condition. The popular belief is that final returns on corn will not be over 2 billion bu, while the government has 2,212,000,000 bu, against 2,614,000,000 bu last year. It is the smallest crop since 1901. A feature is that the south and all other sections where crops are insufficient to supply domestic demands will call on sections in the northern part of the corn belt for supplies to a greater extent than in any recent year. High prices are likely to rule throughout the season.

Sell on Bulges.

For the present $1.00 corn seems to be high enough, and the disposition on the part of traders is to sell on all sharp bulges around the $1.00 level, and take their corn back on recessions created by selling on reports of rain.

Considerable relief has come in the way of rains in half a dozen or more states, which possibly will help some of the late corn, but a larger acreage than ever before is regarded as past redemption. This is indicated by J. S. Bennet & Co.'s report, made up to Aug. 9, showing a loss since Aug. 1 of 174,000,000 bu in the eleven large corn states, making it close to 1,450,000,000 bu, against 1,868,000,000 bu last year.

Country speculators who were in the corn market as buyers two weeks ago are said to have reduced their commitments, apparently being satisfied with their profits; as there has not been the follow up orders on the buying side on bulges, but breaks have developed liberal buying and sharp reactions.

At the close prices were ¾@1¾c lower than a week ago, after a range of 6⅝c on September and 7⅞c on December. The finish on September was at 97⅝@97½c, December, 93@93⅜c, March 95@94¾c, and May 97⅛c. Prices for the week follow:

World's Wheat Situation Improved.

A change for the better in the world's wheat situation has been developing for several weeks due largely to a wet harvest and heavy losses to quality and quantity due to continued rains over France, Germany, Italy and other European countries. Latest advices, however, indicate better weather.

Latest estimates of the Canadian crop have been cut to 325,000,000 bu to 350,000,000 bu, although this compares with 275,000,000 bu last year. This, in a measure, offsets the increase of around 14,000,000 bu in the United States wheat crop, which aggregates 821,000,000 bu. This, how-

Wheat Trade Here Faces a New Problem

A new question in conection with the grain trade has, it is understood, been called to the attention of the federal farm board—a problem involving complications between Canada and the United States.

That question is, "Shall Canadian grain interests be permitted to continue to sell wheat futures as hedges and for speculative account in the Chicago wheat pit while at the same time a virtually prohibitive tariff has been placed as a protection to the American farmer?"

Sales Large at Times.

The total sales volume for the account of Canadians and Liverpool importers on the Board of Trade in the past has been large at times, it was pointed out. On the other hand, Winnipeg market reports sometimes say that Americans have transactions of importance in that market, but whether Canada will take up that side of the question has not been indicated. The report of the grain futures administration of the United States department of agriculture, recently published in response to a senate resolution, includes such pertinent information of the transactions by Liverpool importers and for the account of Canadians.

The first move in this international game in the wheat market may be expected from the federal farm board, according to one expert observer, with the department of state being involved, perhaps.

Foreign Selling Information.

The volume of foreign selling of futures on the Board of Trade, and even the names of large traders who place orders of 500,000 bushels or more, may be obtained from the secretary of agriculture. The Chicago office of the grain futures administration obtains such figures and names in daily reports from grain commission houses, it was pointed out.

In commenting yesterday on the matter, Arthur Cutten, well known grain operator, said that he didn't see how such a restriction could be imposed; that trading volume would be narrowed and reduced and a free and open international market would be impossible.

AGRICULTURE IN MIDWEST LOOKS UP, SAYS BABSON

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Roger W. Babson, economist, today said midwestern agriculture is on the upgrade and general business in this region should show marked improvement during the final quarter of 1930. He said this was his first public utterance on the business situation since his bearish forecast last November.

"But the corner has turned in the middle west," he said. "Conditions are as bad out here as they will get. The farmer is flat on his back and there is no way to look except up."

"Reports of the damage have been greatly exaggerated, perhaps purposely so for the effect upon Europe," he declared. "European countries have been on a buying strike. They have been waiting to see how low American crop prices would go. The drought reports have brought them to their senses. Cabled reports indicate that they are taking a different attitude. They are beginning to worry and place orders."

Jewel Tea Earnings Are $887,622 for 28 Weeks

The Jewel Tea company reports net earnings, after all charges, of $887,622 for the 28 weeks ended July 12. Earnings for the period were $3.17 per share, which exceeds the annual requirements for regular dividends of $3.00 per share, and compare with $801,426 or $2.86 per share for the same weeks last year. Sales of $8,574,681 compare with $9,055,287 for the same period last year, a decrease of 5.31 per cent.

INTERSTATE EQUITIES COMMON STOCK ASSET VALUE IS $8.94 SHARE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—The asset value of the 1,250,000 common shares of the Interstate Equities corporation as of June 30, after applying $50 a share to preferred stock in the hands of the public, was $8.94 a share, according to the initial report of the company covering the period from July 29, 1929, to June 30, last.

Assets on June 30 were $27,599,780, including stocks and bonds costing $16,912,753. The total net depreciation in assets as of June 30 was $1,450,000. The corporation owns 16,400 shares of its preferred stock, aside from stock and bond investments, carried at a cost of $699,292.

Net book profits amounted to $1,057,833, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to 42 cents a share on the common stock. This was added to surplus, which now aggregates $6,733,892.

Among the larger blocks of common stocks held were 39,800 shares of Curtiss-Wright, 36,254 Petroleum Corporation of America, 14,600 Chrysler corporation, 8,500 Kennecott, 8,200 Montgomery Ward. In addition, a large portfolio of bonds was shown.

GENERAL MOTORS DEALERS DELIVER 80,147 JULY CARS

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—General Motors dealers in the United States during July delivered to consumers 80,147 cars, compared with 97,318 in June and 147,079 in July last year, Alfred P. Sloan, president, announced.

Sales by manufacturing divisions to dealers in the United States were 70,716 cars, against 87,595 in June and 157,111 in July, 1929.

Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, were 79,976 cars, compared with 97,440 in June and 189,428 in July last year.

Report Gulf Oil-Buckeye Negotiations Nearing End

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Negotiations are reported nearing completion for the use of the eastern portion of the Buckeye Pipe Line company system by the Gulf Oil corporation. It is understood that the line will be used in connection with a Gulf Oil line, which will extend from Glenpool, Okla., to new refineries to be constructed by Gulf at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, and will forward crude oil to the Toledo refinery of the Paragon Refinery company, acquired by Gulf.

Discusses Expansion of Gas and Electric Utilities

BY SCRUTATOR.

Almost alone of the big business interests of the country, the gas and electric utilities have been going ahead rapidly with expansion plans this year.

The years 1929 and 1928 mark a continuance of progress since 1920. Between 1920 and 1928 the amount of electricity generated more than doubled. In the same period sales of gas rose 55 per cent. Electrical customers increased until they were more than double the 1920 figure. Gas customers increased by 34 per cent.

How the present business inactivity has failed to halt expansion may be exemplified by gas lines in the state of Michigan. Utilities report that 315 miles of high pressure transmisison lines are being built this summer, an increase of nearly 15 per cent of those already existing. The midseason information shows that twenty communities that have been without gas are now supplied.

Gas Output Doubles.

In five years Michigan towns supplied with gas have increased from seventy to 268. The extension naturally has been to smaller places, but the gas output has doubled. In line with the usual practice of these days, the expansion has been accomplished by building more extended distribution facilities to go with the generating plants already constructed and in service.

The work is going ahead regardless of the possibilities that natural gas may supplant the manufactured article. The present lines, it is claimed, can be used for either type of gas.

Ambitious plans to pipe the natural gas of Oklahoma and Texas to Chicago are far beyond the stage of mere talk. The gas lines have ordered heavily from pipe manufacturers in the past months of general quiet.

Consumption of electricity for industrial purposes has been considerably less so far this year than in the corresponding period of 1929. Domestic consumption seems to have grown. The Byllesby interests, managing Standard Gas and Electric company, state that their total kilowatt hour production in June was 5 per cent above that of June, 1929. Increased sales for domestic consumption rose among the various properties from 12 to 20 per cent.

Push Equipment Sales.

Activity in pushing sales of household electric equipment is given credit for much of the increase. The June sales of the Standard group were nearly 7 per cent up from a year ago. Sales of electric ranges and refrigerators were particularly large.

These instances probably are typical. Great as are the fortunes that have been made by sending the power of steam turbines over copper wires, the public has gained. The gain in facilities offered has been much greater than any loss caused by unfairness in rates. Agitation to curb the magnates and the "power trusts" is probably a little premature. Enterprisers who are enterprising enough to expand their plant while times are slow should be given a reasonably free hand. If they let their properties become moribund, then it is time for regulation to be tightened.

CIGARET OUTPUT IS INCREASING, SURVEY SHOWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—The output of American cigarets this year will surpass last year's record total of 127,400,000,000, despite the world-wide business depression, according to a survey of the world's tobacco industry just completed by Charles D. Barney & Co.

Evidence of the growth of the cigaret business is the increase of $40,000,000 in cigaret revenues paid to the federal government in 1929, compared with 1928. The total contribution of the tobacco industry to the government last year was $449,058,963. In 1922 the tobacco tax brought in $270,000,000.

Earnings of the four largest tobacco manufacturing companies last year, each of which features a popular cigaret, totaled $85,742,910 last year, compared with $76,413,069 in 1928.

VACUUM OIL COMPANY AGREES TO ACQUIRE WHITE STAR REFINING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—An agreement has been reached for acquisition of the White Star Refining company of Detroit by the Vacuum Oil company on a basis of 92½ shares of Vacuum stock for every 100 shares of the capital stock of the White Star company, according to an announcement by C. E. Arnott, president of the Vacuum company. In addition, Mr. Arnott said, negotiations have about been completed for purchase of a company similar in size and of operations to the White Star company.

Consolidation of the White Star Refining company with the Vacuum Oil company will become effective as soon as it is approved by White Star stockholders, Mr. Arnott said. Mr. Arnott does not believe there will be any serious objection to the merger by stockholders since the holders of a sufficient amount of stock to assure the union have already signified their willingness to accept the terms.

The White Star Refining company has 320,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. As of Dec. 31, last, total assets aggregated $9,060,058, of which current assets amounted to $3,226,064. Net earnings in 1929 totaled $2,949,600, equivalent to $9.22 a share on the outstanding stock, against $1,522,456 in the preceding year, or $4.76 a share.

The White Star Refining company, which was organized in Michigan in 1911, has two refineries, one at Trenton, Mich., and the other at Wood River, Ill. The territory served by the company includes the states of Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and the province of Ontario, Canada. It has a large number of bulk stations throughout this territory which serve 1,350 company owned service stations.

For several years, the Vacuum Oil company has been expanding and gradually going into retail marketing of its products. Previously, this has been done through acquisition of smaller distributing organizations. The White Star Refining company will be the first large refining and marketing organization Vacuum has purchased in its expansion program.

Rubberoid Has Controlling Interest in Eternit, Inc.

New York, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The Rubberoid company has acquired a controlling interest in Eternit, Inc., manufacturer of asbestos cement products, with a plant at St. Louis, Mo., for producing shingles, asbestos lumber corrugated sheets. These products will continue to be sold under the Eternit trade name. Rubberoid will be associated in this enterprise with Belgian Eternit interests and plans to extend the line to other asbestos products.

AUGUST AGAIN IS ENIGMA TO U. S. TRADE OUTLOOK

Fails to Indicate Definite Trend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—Probably most people who looked ahead a few months ago pictured August in advance as a month of extreme inactivity in trade and on the markets, but not as a month of definite development in either.

Instead of this, it has been a period of colorful and dramatic occurrences, leaving the business horizon far more obscured than at the month's beginning. It cannot be said that this is unusual for late midsummer. August in recent years has repeatedly witnessed sweeping movements on the markets, with corresponding shifts of financial sentiment. But if it is asked, however, whether the August stock markets have as a rule correctly foreshadowed actual events of autumn, it must be answered that they have frequently failed to do so.

The record is peculiar. The month was distinguished last year by one of the wildest advances of the period's excited speculation, yet the immediate sequel proved that a disastrous reckoning was close at hand. In August of 1927 and 1924 the market hardly stirred, yet in the one year a trade reaction of considerable scope began promptly with autumn, and in the other a great financial and industrial boom was almost in its beginning. The stock market advanced in August, 1920, though the "deflation crisis" was almost in sight. In August, 1919, it broke with great violence on the eve of a furious nine months' rise of stocks and commodities.

Real Trend Visible.

It is true, on the other hand, that the real trend of trade and industry was visible at the time of all these midsummer markets, though they refused to heed it. Signs of reactionary tendencies in trade had become visible—before last summer. Steel output and railway traffic were slackening perceptibly in the earlier months of 1927. The great good fortune of 1924 to our wheat producers was known in August, and there was little doubt of the election results which

HEAT ALSO DOES MUCH HARM TO NATION'S CORN

Weather Hurts Proper Pollination.

Strength in corn at times and widespread reports of increased consumption of wheat as animal food have had a strengthening influence on wheat values. Harvesting of spring wheat in the northwest is well advanced, and cutting in Canada is moving rapidly northward.

Hedging pressure from the northwest and southwest is not expected to last more than thirty days. In the meantime the visible supply is increasing.

Too Dry to Plow.

One important factor that is beginning to attract attention is that drought has retarded plowing in winter wheat sections, and unless there is a greater distribution of moisture in the immediate future, the 1931 winter wheat seeding will go into the ground later than usual and possibly with a greatly reduced acreage.

Trading on the Chicago Board of Trade during the week decreased, sales of wheat being 327,684,000 bu, as compared with 452,735,000 bu the previous week, and 429,041,000 bu last year. Corn sales were small as compared with wheat, being 151,307,000 bu, against 198,079,000 bu the previous week, and 99,354,000 bu last year.

Wheat closed 6@7¼c lower for the week after a wide range. September finished at 89⅛@89¾c; December, 94⅝@94⅞c; March, 99¾@99½c; May, $1.02⅝@1.02¾. Prices for the week follow:

Oat Supplies Below 1929.

Supplies of oats for the season are liberal, the crop being only 13,000,000 bu less than last year. In all positions they suggest 1,391,000,000 bu, as compared with 1,424,000,000 bu last year, a decrease of only 33,000,000 bu. Consumption is to be larger particularly on farms.

Prices are relatively low, speculative trade is more interested, and cash interests are hedging marketings in the middle and northwest. Prices have had a good advance and a reaction, the close being at net losses of 0@2⅜c for the week. September finished at 39⅞c, December 43⅜@43¼c, March 45⅝c, and May 47⅜c, after a range of around 3⅛@4c.

Mellbank Corp. Controls Bank in Washington, Pa.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, Pa., Aug. 17.—Announcement was made here today that the Mellbank corporation of Pittsburgh, holding concern of the Mellon banking interests, will take over from 51 to 55 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Citizens' National bank of this city, largest financial institution in Washington county, effective Nov. 1. A price of $400 per share has been fixed in the offer made by Mellbank. In the statement of June 30 this year, total resources were shown as $14,371,180 and deposits of $10,065,594. Paid in capital is $1,000,000 with surplus and undivided profits of $2,205,586.

Negotiate for Illinois Pacific Glass Corp. Merger

Negotiations are in progress looking toward merger of Illinois Pacific Glass corporation and the Pacific Coast Glass company, two of the largest manufacturers of glassware on the Pacific coast. A meeting of stockholders of both companies will be held soon to ratify terms. It is expected that the consolidation will be effected through an exchange of stock. Based on the latest statements of both companies, the new company will have total assets of over $7,000,000 and will be the dominant factor in the glass business on the Pacific coast.

GROSS IN JUNE OF 95 UTILITIES INCREASES 3.28%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 17.—Gross earnings of 95 public utility systems operating gas, electric light, heat, power, and traction properties showed an increase of 3.28 per cent in June, compared with the same month last year, according to the department of commerce figures showing June gross earnings of $189,000,000, comparing with $183,000,000 last year. Net earnings were $83,000,000, against $79,000,000.

For the first half of the year gross earnings of 95 utility systems totaled $1,191,500,000, against $1,154,750,000 in the first half of 1929, while net earnings were $528,500,000 against $507,500,000.

Domestic Production of Refined Lead Is Lower

TAKING A LATE VACATION?

"When August woos September"

Minimum Rate $79.50

It's these last two weeks in August that are the very nicest of vacation-time.

If you have that "let-down" feeling after a trying summer, you'll appreciate late August sailing days on the Great Lakes.

As your ship cruises into Canadian waters, over the Georgian Bay and 30,000 Islands, you'll love that fall tang in the air, with a whiff of pine and balsam. It's decidedly invigorating and will do you a heap o' good.

Including Meals, Transportation and Berth.

Itinerary includes:

MACKINAC ISLAND
The Quebec of the Midwest
PARRY SOUND, CANADA
Under the British Flag
DETROIT, CLEVELAND, BUFFALO
AND RETURN TO CHICAGO
2000 MILE CRUISE
Seven Days—Over Blue Lakes, Winding Rivers, Picturesque Bays

New Friends

Sail to the distant Saguenay river this summer, visit the great water highway of the St. Lawrence. Meet new, congenial friends with whom to enjoy the beautiful scenery of old French Canada. It is like a trip abroad only far less costly.

Quaint little villages tucked away in the folds of the oldest mountains in the world challenge your passing interest. One of the most luxurious vessels on inland waters will be your home. Step ashore at historic places—and Canada's great Cities, Toronto, Montreal and Quebec will extend their hospitality. Here is a new world at your door, awaiting your voyage of discovery.

VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands, and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadousac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

READ THIS SURE!

If you are tired working for a mere $25 a week and then paying it out to the grocer, butcher and landlord, this ad is for you. If you're disgusted punching a time clock and worrying whether your job will be here tomorrow, don't lose heart. I can get you out of the rut if you still have ambition and it won't cost you a cent—nothing except a few evening classes twice a week while I train you for the big money I know your problems—mine were the same. My method is a sure fire, proven plan. Learn a real profession and make you independent financially and be your own boss. But we cannot help you other unless you hear my plan. This may be the turning point in your life. Come Monday eve., 8 o'clock, August 18. Suite 625 Burnham Bldg., 160 N. La Salle, at Randolph.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

A five year test has proven conclusively that second mortgage loans can be made at a cost which is not out of proportion to the rates charged on first mortgage loans and other types of recognized and regulated financial transactions.

And these rates which we have introduced in this community and all of the conditions attached to our way of loaning have stood the test of prosperous times, and are standing the test of a period of depression in real estate.

We are making second mortgage loans and invite the home owner who may be looking for new funds or who may be desirous of refinancing a part or all of maturing mortgage financing to make use of the facilities which we offer.

We charge 7% accruing interest and a commission of 3¼% for 1 year, 6½% for 2 years, and 9% for 3 years.

WOMEN FLYERS WHO COMPLETED THE FIRST LEG OF PACIFIC NATIONAL AIR DERBY FROM LONG BEACH, CAL., TO AIR RACES AT CHICAGO. Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, the mother of two children, led the women flyers to San Diego, where they stopped last night. She was followed by Margery Doig. Third to arrive was Ruth Barron, the Hollywood high school girl, who is the youngest of the flyers. Mrs. Mildred Morgan was fourth, Jean La Rene, fifth, and Ruth Stewart, sixth. (Story on page 1.)

ARMY AND NAVY
SEE RACES HERE

First U. S. Flyers to Start West Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—More than a hundred Washington officials, officers, and aviation enthusiasts are preparing today to fly to Chicago for the national air races. Many of the air officers and men of the army and navy will leave tomorrow. Others will leave by air and train during the next three days.

The official Washington delegation will be led by W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of all mail, and the three assistant secretaries in charge of aviation matters. David A. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aviation, will reach Chicago Friday. F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aviation, and Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aerial matters, will leave later.

Gen. Fetchet to Attend.

The lure of racing airplanes will take Maj. Gen. James E. Fetchet, chief of the army air corps, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, head of the bureau of aeronautics, to Chicago Friday. They will go by airplane. Another famous aviation figure—Capt. John H. Towers, assistant chief of the naval bureau of aviation and navigator of one of the N C 4 planes that crossed the Atlantic back in 1919—will be in Chicago.

Many officials of the National Aeronautics association will go to Chicago for the aerial classic. Among those who will attend are William R. Enart, editor of the National Aeronautical Review; Richard D. Wiley and Miss Virginia Snow, staff members; Jesse Loeb, secretary of the membership committee; Mrs. Sara Howley, office manager; and John S. Victor, treasurer. H. W. Halverson, secretary of the private flying club committee, is already in Chicago.

Civilians to Attend.

Among Washington civilian aviation enthusiasts who will attend the races are G. W. Lewis of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, Adolph K. Barta, president of the Aeronautics club of Washington, Thomas Carroll of the Washington airport, Walter Hinton of the Aviation institute, Joseph Egerton, and Henry Berliner.

It is estimated that close to army and navy officers will be on hand when the races begin. Secretary Ingalls will lead the navy contingent, flying from Cleveland with his aid, Lieut. Commander R. P. Mitten Jr., Thursday of this week. The aerial tactical section of three officers flying standard naval flying planes will escort the assistant secretary to the meet.

Navy Has Mystery Plane.

The mystery plane which Capt. Arthur H. Page of the marine corps will fly as the navy entry in the Thompson trophy race, free for all speed event, has attained a speed in excess of 200 miles an hour during tuning up trials for the classic. The exact speed attained by the plane has not been revealed.

Capt. Page's plane was constructed with the purpose of developing a fast fighting plane for the navy and marine corps. It was built not only for speed, it was stated at the department today, but also with the strength factors and maneuverability required for a military plane.

"It is the latest development of the Curtiss Hawk navy fighter built five years ago," it was said.

Army to Send 50 Flyers.

About fifty army officers will be sent to Chicago. Col. R. C. Kirkland will have charge of the army planes, which will include the first squadron of the bombardment group [nine planes] from Langley field and the 2d squadron of the first pursuit group from Selfridge field.

Besides Assistant Secretary Young two other officials will go from the commerce aeronautics division. Lester Budwig, director of aeronautics, expects to spend most of the week in Chicago. Howard P. Hough, actuary, department of commerce inspection service, will go by train.
